SIDEWALK PLANS REDUCED FOR '60

BOZO AND LIEBCHEN pause in their welcoming of new Arlington Heights animal welfare officer, Eugene Korn, to ham it up before camera. The 200-lb. St. Bernard and Miniature Schnauzer are part of the village's estimated 2,000 dogs that become Korn's concern this week. He will also be concerned with cats, squirrels, rabbits, raccoons, and other village animals that might need help or endanger public welfare. The village has provided the 25-year-old ex-serviceman with a truck, but animals requiring impounding will still be taken to the Arlington Heights Animal Hospital.

Betting Ring Cracked At Arlington Park

It's pretty tough to make an illegal buck at Arlington Park.

A ring of gamblers, who operated their own "betting booth" and were doing an estimated $50,000 to $100,000 business per day, found this out last week.

One of the exposed ring, reportedly the leader, is a part owner in the Checkerboard stables, which races horses at Arlington. Saturday, the man, Daniel Freeman, 37, was barred indefinitely from all Illinois race tracks by order of the racing stewards at the local track.

The gambling mob, composed of Freeman and three other Chicago men, were taking bets in Freeman's box at the track, thus avoiding putting bets through the pari-mutuel windows. By so doing, the gamblers could control the odds, escape Internal Revenue Service agents, and protect hoodlums and racketeers who could not afford to be seen at regular betting windows.

THE BOOKMAKING business was costing both the track and the state of Illinois. The state gets six per cent of all bets placed at pari-mutuel windows and the track gets eight per cent.

Credited with exposing the gamblers was Arlington Park's chief security agency, the Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau, an arm of the Thoroughbred Racing accociation.

Composed mostly of former FBI agents, the TRPB plain clothesmen patrol Arlington Park this year for the first time in an all-out effort by director Benjamin F. Lindheimer to keep undesirables out.

The exact number of agents is not made public, and no one can be sure that the man rubbing horses in the next barn or the waiter at the club house table is not a TRPB operative.

THE PUBLIC too is screened and a complete photo-file of known touts, con-men, bookmakers, pickpockets and other offenders is maintained and reviewed constantly by agents at the track. These "personae non grata" are promptly ejected.

Arlington Park's protective corps includes three radio-equipped police squad-cars, high-speed scooters, and two trained police dogs.

All public telephones are disconnected one hour before the pari-mutuels open to prevent information from being passed on to outside "bookies." In addition, gates are supervised to prevent "runners" from relaying results. Hoodlums have also been known to use transmitters from automobiles in order to beat the teletape.

ARLINGTON PARK'S security program includes the locking up of all public telephones one hour before the pari-mutuels open. Attending to the chore is Bill Beckman, summer employee of the track and football coach at Prospect high school in the fall.

Much of the work of the TRPB is, of necessity, done undercover. However, offices are maintained at Arlington Park during its period of operation. Central headquarters is in New York, but a field office is located in Chicago under the direction of Robert A. Frink, a former special agent for the FBI.

ALSO FORMERLY with the FBI, organizer and president of TRPB Spencer J. Drayton points out that the bureau was formed not because thoroughbred racing was overrun with crime but because the directors of TRA recognized the fact that with its growth the sport offered a tempting target for the fixer and sure-thing artist.

The TRPB's latest catch, the Arlington group, will appear in police court at the village hall Friday morning.

Clabaugh Predicts Bright Tax Outlook

A prediction of "little or no increase" for Arlington Heights tax payers' 1960 public school tax rate was made this week by Supt. Ralph E. Clabaugh.

In discussing district 25's proposed budget of $1,850,235 for 1959-60, Clabaugh noted that if the village's assessed valuation rises to $82 million next year, there will be no increase in the present public school levy of $1.86 per $100 of assessed valuation, or $186 for a house assessed at $10,000.

The present assessed valuation of the district is approximately $71 million. It rose $6 million last year, however, and Clabaugh hopes it will be at least $80 million by next year. In that event there would be a slight jump to $1.90 per $100 of assessed valuation. This would still be lower than the $1.94 rate of last year.

CLABAUGH attributes the increase of $234,000 over last year's budget to rising costs and the need for additional facilities in the district. The coming school year will see 300 additional students in the district, 25 more teachers, a new principal, 24 new classrooms, and three multi-purpose rooms.

The superintendent pointed out that the district has not yet had to seek an increase in the educational fund rate of $1.25 per $100 of assessed valuation. Wheeling, Prospect Heights, and Palatine, he said, have found it necessary to raise this rate to $1.40.

A public hearing on the budget will be held August 18, at 8 p. m. in the South school's conference room. A hearing on the high school's proposed budget will be held at Arlington high school August 10. Both the public and high school budgets are open for inspection at the respective school's offices.

Medical Frauds

Sale of questionable or downright fraudulent medicines through the U.S. mails is estimated to bilk Americans of $500 million a year.

Elm Street Installation Is Approved

The number of Arlington Heights residents to be affected by sidewalk installations within the next year was reduced from 282 to approximately 38 by the village board this week.

The board accepted Monday night its sidewalk committee's recommendation that sidewalks be installed "immediately" on both sides of Elm st. from Ridge to Dunton, excepting the unimproved block between Ridge and Walnut.

The committee also recommended that sidewalks be installed where needed on Oakton between Ridge and State, on Willow between Dunton and State, and in the unimproved block on Elm when contemplated street improvements are made on these streets. The Willow st. improvement will come before the board of local improvements this week.

Board members moved last February to require sidewalk installation by all property owners in the northwest section of the village bounded by the Northwest hwy. on the south, by Ridge ave. on the west, by Oakton st. on the north, and by State rd. on the east. This would have affected 282 property owners. Two weeks later the board moved to reconsider the sidewalk plan.

THE REPORT presented this week noted that "the committee does not feel that overall installation of sidewalks in the area is in the best interests of the affected property owners and the village."

Compiled by Trustees Eugene Schlickman, Bill Sauer, and Bob Bukowski, the report reasoned "that the needed safe conditions can be obtained just as well by the installation of sidewalks only on the streets that act as feeders to the schools surrounding the area—Ridge, North, St. James, St. Peter's, and Arlington high school.

As to other school feeder streets in the area the committee recommended that "traffic and pedestrian studies be conducted in the area following school commencement in the fall." Further committee recommendations would be based on the findings of such studies.

SCHLICKMAN said he feels the proposed sidewalk installations are realistic to the extent that they should be accomplished this year. He noted, however, that the committee has yet to recommend whether sidewalks should be installed on one or both sides of Oakton and Willow sts.

Property owners affected by the committee's report will receive letters from the village manager requesting that they install the required sidewalks under private contract. Should they refuse the village attorney would prepare ordinances authorizing the acceptance of bids from contractors for installation of the sidewalks. A lien may then be obtained against the owner's property until he reimburses the village for the cost of installation.

Remains of Ancient Culture Found Nearby

What manner of men patrolled the northwest suburbs 3,000 years ago?

Archaeologists have uncovered another link with the prehistoric just 4 miles north of Wheeling. The latest discovery of skeletons, beads, and sea shells took place last week at the Doetsch Brothers gravel pit near Half Day.

The actual burial ground is about 150 feet north of route 22 and 200 feet west of the Des Plaines river.

The skeletons are of the red ochre people, an extinct Indian tribe about which very little is known. Excited archaeologists say they'll make history if their discoveries help to solve the mystery of these Indians.

The Indians are known as the red ochre culture, after their habit of smearing their dead with the reddish pigment.

Digging into the mystery are Elaine Bluhm, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois Archaeological society and Philip Young, University of Illinois archaeologist. Their findings already have brought these deductions:

PIGMENT found in the graves definitely establishes the remains as those of the red ochre culture.

They date back probably about 3,000 years. In any case, they were around after the great glacier receded from this part of the country, because the skeletons lay atop gravel left by the glacier.

The people probably ranged as far south as the Gulf of Mexico. The shells found are of a marine variety, and the tribe probably found it easier to reach the Gulf than the Atlantic ocean.

THE REMAINS found at the Doetsch pit have been identified as full skeletons of an adult male, two children, and about six more of undetermined sex, plus beads and shells. They have been shipped to the University of Illinois for laboratory analysis.

There, scientists will try to pinpoint the age of the relics by measuring the declining radioactivity of a carbon element in them.

Remains of the red ochre people have been found in other regions in a number of states east of the Mississippi river, said the two archaeologists, but these latest are probably more valuable since the site was not damaged by earth-moving equipment.

THE TWO have made extensive color photographs, charts and drawings of the burial ground.

At this point, only general speculation can be made on how the red ochre people lived. "They probably moved from place to place in nomadic tribes of 15 or 20," said Young. "They were hunters who used spears and were constantly seeking better hunting and fishing grounds.

Another clue found at the ancient ground was a pair of rotted posts which may have supported a shelter.

"We hope to come up with more of these so we can develop a pattern," said Miss Bluhm. "What we're really hoping to find, though, are some of their tools and weapons, maybe in an old dumping spot."

Special Zoning Report

The full report of hearings on the proposed ordinance to rezone suburban Cook county appears in a special page of pictures and stories inside.

Hearings conducted in the County building last Thursday and Friday were attended by four Paddock Publications reporters. The hearings involved the following townships: Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine, Northfield, Barrington, and Schaumburg.

Turn to the special page for information on how the proposed comprehensive amendment affects you, your neighbors, and your community.

Hiring of Village Forester Proposed

The creation of a department of forestry for Arlington Heights was debated by village board members Monday night.

Proposed by Village Manager L. A. Hanson, the tree department would be headed by a qualified forester skilled in tree replacement and surgery.

The 1959-60 budget allots $20,000 for the village's tree program. Such a program in the past has consisted of contracting with a private firm to spray and trim the village's trees. The money could be used to better advantage, contends Hanson, if the village set up a department to not only spray and trim village trees, but to develop a long-range tree replacement program. He noted that such a program would also supervise the planting of trees in new subdivisions.

'THE VILLAGE'S present tree program is geared for five months of the year. With our own department, we could concentrate on the village's trees the year round," said Hanson.

He termed the preservation and replacement of trees as "one of the village's biggest problems."

Board members postponed a decision on establishing the department until Hanson could give them more detailed figures on the cost. The manager indicated the forester's salary would be $6,900 a year.

Craig Trial Date Is Set For Oct. 5

Oscar L. Craig, 38, Arlington Heights motel and restaurant owner and contractor, will be tried for manslaughter October 5 in Cook county criminal court.

Craig, owner of the Essen House restaurant at 902 E. Northwest hwy., pleaded "not guilty" Monday at his arraignment in connection with the death last October of L. H. Key, former manager of Grier's Supper Club near Palatine. Key died after a fight with Craig inside the latter's restaurant.

CRAIG WAS freed from a manslaughter charge last November when the grand jury returned a "no bill." The case, however, was reopened this month by the state's attorney's office, and a grand jury returned a "true bill."

Free under a $5,000 bond, Craig will be tried in October before Judge Joseph P. Immel.

Appoint Cronin To Park Board

Charles Cronin, 415 S. Evergreen, was named to the Arlington Heights park district board this week following the resignation of J. Warren White.

Cronin, who will serve White's unexpired term, is married and the father of five children. He is secretary-treasurer of the Gerbing Manufacturing company in Elgin, and has lived in Arlington Heights eight years.

White and his family are moving to Columbia, S.C., where he is building a bowling alley.

Willow Street Hearing July 23

A formal hearing on a proposal to improve Willow st. from State rd. west to Highland ave. will be held by Arlington Heights' board of local improvements tonight, July 23, at 8 p. m. in the village hall.

The improvements consisting of paving and installation of curbs, gutters, and sidewalks would be financed by special assessments.

The board will also consider adopting a resolution recommending the paving of Frederick st. from Haddow st. west to State rd.

It's a Great Week For Suburb Sports

Norhtwest suburbs are experiencing one of their greatest weeks in sports.

Saturday the Arlington Classic, for America's top three-year-olds, will offer $100,000 added in riches during the 30th running at beautiful Arlington Park.

If amateur sports is your wish, Palatine and Park Ridge American Legion Junior baseball teams may be holding a best two-out-of-three playoff.

Whether it be championship golf, prestige racing or the Little Leagues, turn to this week's edition of Paddock Publications for the tops in what's going on on the local sports scene.

Garbage Collection Bids Are Opened

Four bids for the collection of Arlington Heights garbage were opened at a village board meeting Monday night, with the low bid offering rear door collection for $2.25 a month, curb collection for $1.75, and excess collection for $3.00

Laseke Disposal company, present village refuse collector, submitted a bid offering rear door collection for $2.85, curb collection for $2.00 and excess collection for $2.50. Low bidder is the Northwest Disposal company of Palatine.

The village's garbage collector for the past three years, Laseke earlier proposed a new contract eliminating curb collection, presently done for $1.90 a month, and continuing rear door collection at the present charge of $2.75. His proposed contract also called for the village to take over billing.

BIDS SUBMITTED Monday night provide for the disposal companies to do the billing. They also offer to continue the present quantity of collection, two 20 gallon garbage cans twice a week.

Other bids submitted are: Mundelein Disposal company, $3.00 for rear door, $2.15 for curb, and $3.00 for excess; Wheeling Disposal company, $2.90 for rear door, $2.10 for curb, and $3.00 for excess.

The board referred the bids to the village manager for study and a recommendation to be made at the next board meeting. The village's present contract with Laseke expires September 1.

Popjoy Has Good Word for Hoffman

Objections to the request by Builder Jack Hoffman, F & S Construction company, to rezone 50 acres 95 feet south of Higgins rd. and 500 feet west of Roselle rd. from farming to residential initiated an informal defense of the builder by Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals Secretary Walter Popjoy at a hearing in Schaumburg school last Wednesday night.

Stanley G. Slesick, a resident of the Pleasant Hills subdivision, voiced disapproval of the rezoning request to permit the construction by F & S of approximately 140 homes in the $16,000 to $20,000 price range, accused Hoffman of "painting a rosy picture," and asked "who is going to take care of the additional school taxes?"

"I think your question is entirely out of order," said Popjoy. "Here's a man, I'm not taking his part in any instance, but he has done more for this community as a builder than any other builder in the entire Cook county Chicago area has done. He has built these schools, turned them over to the school district, and then it's up to the people who pay the taxes. No other builder I know of has done as much as he has done. I'm not indicating how the board is going to decide on this case. I'm merely stating the facts as this board knows them."

Other objections which resulted in a ten to fourteen day delay in the zoning board decision on the matter were raised by the Village of Schaumburg Center Planning Board Chairman Ellsworth Meineke, Paul Engler, member of the district 211 high school board, and Anton Schubert, elementary school district 54 board.

Negotiations between the two school districts and Builder Hoffman were reported to be in progress. F & S which has contributed five schools to the district but is under no legal obligation to assume additional responsibility for school construction, tentatively proposes a cash payment to district 54 of $200 per home upon sale as financial support for future school needs created as a result of the proposed increased building program.

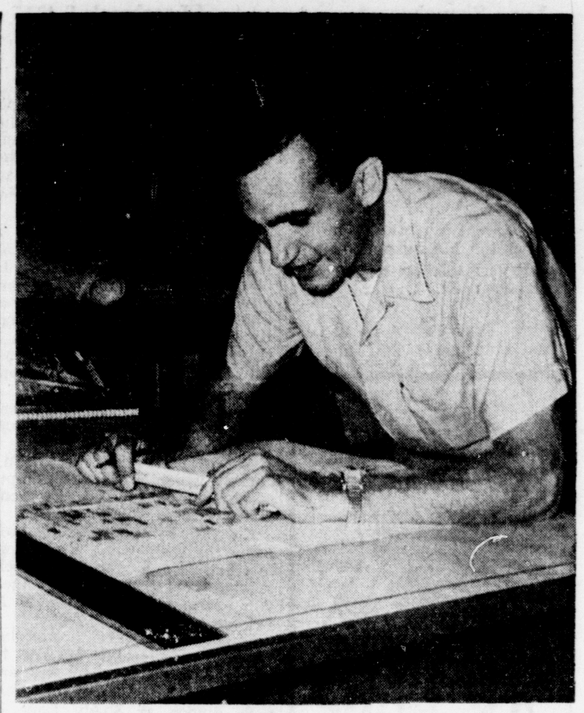
Hoffman, in addition, has gone one step further and offered to district 54 a payment of $300 per home if high school district 211 will withdraw condemnation proceedings for the 40-acre site adjoining the proposed area of development which F & S will agree to sell the high school district at its purchase price ($2,000 per acre) in exchange for a three-acre corner of the property.

Acquisition of the three-acre site would permit F & S to divert a proposed road construction to a more suitable elevation at an estimated savings to the builder of $25,000.

The final agreement, which must be reported to the zoning board of appeals by the end of this week, has not been concluded since the high school board is now seeking sewer and water line installations in excess of the builder's normal specifications and a road dedication giving the school board access through the three-acre site.

Representatives of F & S state that to fulfill these requests would mean an additional $21,000 cost, and that the determination of who would bear the burden of this expense must be made.

The cash donation Hoffman is offering to district 54 could reach $42,000, an amount that would be of great aid to a school district already suffering from financial malnutrition. HF



NEW ARLINGTON HEIGHTS planning engineer, John Best, works over drawing board in attempt to familiarize himself with village's needs. The Sewing Susies 4-H club held its local achievement night recently in Pioneer Park, Arlington Heights. Demonstrations were also given by Kathy Wegner on "How to Make Brownies"; Margaret Gross on "How to Shrink Cloth"; Elizabeth Gross on "Milk, the Magic Way"; Maureen Beem and Linda Umbdenstock on "How to Make a Table Arrangement."

A round dance was presented by some of the girls, and later refreshments were served. (A

Safer, Nicer Signs Goal Of New Law

Safer and more attractive signs for Arlington Heights is the goal of a new sign ordinance being considered by village board members.

The ordinance provides that wooden signs must be painted every two years, and that wiring in electrical signs must conform with the national electrical code.

The new ordinance will also permit the building commissioner to determine whether or not a sign presents a hazard. Such a hazard might consist of a sign blocking a driver's vision at an intersection, according to Building Commissioner Fred Hammer.

HAMMER WILL soon begin inspecting signs throughout the village. Owners of signs will be informed if their signs fail to comply with the code, and given to December 31, 1959 to make the necessary corrections, said Hammer.

Cost of a permit for construction of a sign will be raised from $5 to $10, plus 10 cents a square foot. License fee for displaying a sign will be $5 yearly. (AF

ARRIVING Monday at the Haldor Carlsen Jr. home at 1003 E. Euclid were Mrs. Carlsen's sister, Mrs. Carl Heepke and her children, Carol and Dan, from Denver, Colo. The Heepkes plan to stay a week and will visit old friends in the area, as this was formerly their home.

Weekend visitors at the John Gleeson home, 412 N. Hickory ave., were Mrs. Gleeson's mother, Mrs. Catherine Gleeson, and his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Ebers from Springfield, Ill. On Saturday they all attended the races at the Arlington track.

Evan Olmstead of 918 E. Euclid ave., who for the past six years has served on the Arlington Heights plan commission, has recently resigned from this post. Mr. Evan served five of these years as chairman. He has had the satisfaction of guiding development of the village's master plan and witnessed its adoption this year by the village board. Mr. Olmstead hopes now to have a little more time for himself. (A

Governor Processes Over 3,000 Bills

by: W. RUSSELL ARRINGTON

The job of processing the large amount of legislation adopted at the last session of the legislature is still going on. Over 3,000 bills and resolutions were introduced and considered by the legislature. This represents by far the largest number of measures ever considered at any session. Approximately 300 of these items consisted of Senate resolutions, House resolutions, Senate joint resolutions and House joint resolutions.

Most of the resolutions (as distinguished from bills) were largely of unimportant and routine character of little public interest. In a large measure, they related primarily to memorializations and routine matters covering dates and times of convening and adjournment of the two Houses. Nevertheless, some of the resolutions were of most important character. For instance, all proposals for amending the state's constitution must be introduced in the form of resolutions. There were a number of proposals for Constitutional changes. For the first time in many sessions not a single one was adopted. Consequently, for the first time since in well more than a decade, the voters at the November, 1960, election will not be called upon to act upon a proposed Constitutional amendment. In the writer's opinion it is a severe tragedy that no consideration can be given to a Constitutional revision of our revenue system until November, 1962 — and not even then unless the 1961 session succeeds in adopting some recommendation.

The balance of the measures consisted of 2699 bills (as distinguished from resolutions). In the Senate 1047 bills were introduced and 1652 were introduced in the House. Almost one-half of all bills introduced failed of passage. Only 1362 bills received the favorable wote of both Houses. Not even yet is it possible to tell how many of these will receive the necessitous approval of the Governor before they can become law. It is already opparent that the Governor will veto more bills this session than has ever occurred before.

The job of the Governor in weeding the good bills from the bad is a vast and difficult task.

DURING AND since the closing days of the session in June, a five-man team of legislative experts has been working literally day and night. These men are of outstanding and acknowledged ability and recognition in this most exacting field. They are at their job every day, beginning early and on numerous occasions working continuously into the early morning hours.

They compare, analyze and study the various bills for mechanical and Constitutional imperfections. In many cases duplicate bills are passed. In others, bills inadvertently affect or are in complete conflict with other bills previously passed. The legislative experts then report their findings to the Governor.

It is not until the foregoing has been completed that the Governor can determine whether a particular bill should become law or is to be vetoed.

The job still remains unfinished, but will be completed soon. Only then can begin the evaluation of the accomplishments of the 71st general assembly. (ACM

A Young Life Might Have Been Saved; Growing 'Crises' in Mental Health

"Let not this soul house built of mud, Go toppling to dust a vacant shrine."

by RICHARD C. HOFFMANN

(Third in a series)

Three years ago, Donald J. Tyrell, a psychologist now practicing in Arlington Heights, wrote a report which predicted these same tragic conclusions.

Then a consultant for the Chicago board of education, he pointed out that unless a particular youth received psychiatric treatment he would get into "serious difficulties."

Two years later, the boy appeared in Cook county family court; he was charged with murder.

This then was a being which society could have salvaged. Why was he sacrificed?

The family court, like many other similar institutions, has the facilities to describe but not correct such conditions brought to its attention.

"It's pathetic to do diagnostic evaluations and know there will be no treament," Tyrell complained.

AS HE NOTED, "You cannot build the house without the framework."

Equally hampering are attitudes medieval in outlook. Tyrell, administrative director of the psychiatric department of family court, related a case he encountered recently in which the family resisted treatment for their son.

The boy was in need of in-patient treatment. His father, whose income exceeded $10,000 a year, would not pay for psychiatric assistance.

"The boy took to sneaking out to see a psychiatrist who was treating him without charging a fee. The father found out about it and beat him up," Tyrell disclosed.

"This is a case where the boy realizes he needs help and can't get it. Both parents work and the family is economically well off," he continued.

But it is also a case, he said, where the payments on the house and car apparently mean more to the family than their child.

And if this attitude seems callously indifferent, it should be noted that it is one which seems to be reflected, increasingly in the disregard shown for the emotionally ill.

NORTHWEST Family Service, located in Mt. Prospect, has shown its need by the mere fact that it has a current waiting list near 40; yet in a 1958-59 drive to raise $28,750 it realized only some $12,000. Two additional case workers needed were not hired.

Mrs. George E. Nicklaus, executive director, shoulders not only all case work but administrative duties as well.

And some cases, such as those of unwed mothers, involve a number of persons in the family. Others may require attention for over a year.

"But if there's one thing you shouldn't do it's to economize in an area like this," says Mrs. Hiram C. Whitcomb of Palatine, a member of Family Service's board of directors.

It has, however, been graphically illustrated that intensified programs pay dividends.

The Larue Carter mental hospital in Indianapolis, for instance, through an intensive program cut the average length of stay for its patients to 85 days or an average cost of $2,000 treatment per patient as compared to the state average of 10 years and cost of $11,000 per patient.

ILLINOIS, seventh in the nation in per capita personal income, ranks 48th in the country in expenditures made to state mental institutions.

Most of the care provided is custodial. And for a disorder which has half the hospital beds in the country occupied, the money invested in research is the smallest expended in any medical speciality.

"It's a terrible waste of money when there is no follow through," says Tyrell.

It also takes a terrible toll in the lifes of those who do not receive the proper care at the moment which represents a turning point.

"The majority of kids that come into family court are saivable for society," Tyrell thinks. But the majority, unfortunately, does not get the needed assistance, the psychologist said.

"There are kids with IQ's of 140 who wind up digging ditches or becoming prostitutes, their potential stifled."

Tyrell says this with the conviction of one who has witnessed too many soul houses toppling to dust—and vacant shrines.

Library Use, Book Reading At New High

Book reading and library use locally has grown steadily over the past 10 year, with the circulation of 31,945 in 1949-50 going to 127,432 last year.

People are using the library more seriously than ever before. Gains have been especially heavy in the circulation of non-fiction books, with patrons increasingly asking for material on the more serious subjects.

This has been true not only in the highly publicized realm of science because of the space age "race" but also in many other fields, indicating a mental stimulation of the population in numerous subjects.

There seems to be increased world-wide concern with the problems of our age, which manifests itself in a curiosity that can be satisfied only by books.

WITH THE PUBLICATION of millions of pocket books every year in the United States to satisfy light reading needs, the more serious subjects are left for the public libraries. Subject areas in which increased interest has been especially noticeable include world affairs, travel, religion, biography, self-help subjects, music and hi-fi, art, hobbies, business, and vocations.

With the increase of students in our school system, the demand for reference books has been particularly heavy this past school year.

Area's Biggest Shopper Buys Meat, Potatoes by the Ton

There is one Arlington Heights resident whose grocery list would stagger the average homemaker. Orders for one ton of beef appear regularly on the marketing schedule of Donald Coffey, but by week's end there are positively no leftovers.

The beef disappears almost as fast as Coffey serves it at his McDonald's drive-in at 1592 E. Northwest highway at Wilke rd. The same goes for potatoes, Coffey using up two tons a week. Shortening is another item Coffey buys by the ton.

And that's the way he orders week in and week out all year round. Notes Coffey, "I'm beginning to feel like a branch of the quartermaster corps."

ONE OF MORE than 100 McDonald's operators in 22 states in the nation and one of the biggest in gross volume, Coffey has become a figure expert since he opened. For instance, he has figured out an average time for serving a full meal at his McDonald's drive-in—50 seconds. "That's the average time it takes to serve a full meal of hamburger, French fries and milkshake," he says, "but believe it or not, we've had some youngsters beat that record as far as gulping it all down."

About 70,000 hamburgers a month are consumed in summer months and more than 40,000 in the winter season, Coffey estimates. "Add about 30,000 bags of French fries and 20,000 milkshakes a month and you can understand why a drive-in operator begins to feel like he's running a Quartermaster depot," notes Coffey.

How many hamburgers will the average customer consume? It all depends, says Coffey on what goes with it. Two hamburgers when accompanied by a shake and fries is the limit, but when the beverage is coffee or a soft drink, it isn't unusual for a customer to eat three of the big burgers.

Coffey recalls the time when a busload of 30 teenagers pulled up to the stand to eat. Their leader announced that each had been allotted a maximum of $1.25 for lunch, and the boys were determined to get the maximum. The total bill amounted to $40—and at 15 cents a hamburger, there were either plenty of stuffed kids or an awful lot of waste, says Coffey. "Nobody could consume the tremendous number of hamburgers, shakes and fries that were ordered. One boy ordered four malts, four hamburgers and fries," he remembers with amazement.

THE McDONALD'S operator is frankly interested in family trade. "Ninety per cent of our business comes from the community—and it's made up of mom, dad and the kids," says Coffey.

By keeping the menu limited, Coffey keeps production at the maximum. Even repeated requests for hot dogs and barbecues haven't changed the McDonald's standards. It's still hamburgers, but if you want a little variety, you can have cheese added.

Similar streamlining goes into the making of McDonald's French fries. If you've wondered how they could be produced at practically a moment's notice, the secret is in pre-cooking. Coffey's crew simply blanches the raw potatoes for five minutes, and then, on order, finishes the frying until golden brown. There is no such thing as peeling potatoes; they're merely dumped into a special abrasive machine and come out skinless.

No carhops are employed at McDonald's, which reminds Coffey that friends warned him before the drive-in opened, "People will never get out of their cars just to get a hamburger. They especially won't get out in cold weather." But hamburger lovers know no season, Coffeywithout girl carhops, but we're discovered, and neither snow nor rain nor sleet keeps them from turning up at his Arlington Heights location.

SPEAKING OF crews, it's strictly a man's world at McDonald's, where no female, regardless of her charms, is employed.

"There are several reasons for this policy," Coffey explains. "The most important one is that, particularly during the summer months, the work is hard—much too hard for a girl. These boys are on their feet all day long and they're constantly on the move. When their shift is over, even the toughest ones are tired.

"Girl carhops are cute, but that's the trouble. They lead to all kinds of problems. Everybody tried to tell us that we'd be 'dead' doing all right."

Perhaps on the theory that the world's best cooks are men, McDonald's is strictly a man's world in the kitchen department, too, without temper tantrums and tears—not even when the onions are peeled. Dehydrated onions to which water is added eliminate the tearful old task. Catsup and mustard are measured from dispensers and untouched by human hands.

ALL INGREDIENTS of the famous McDonald's hamburgers are purchased in volume from local wholesalers. Construction of the $125,000 drive-in was handled by local contractors.

"Our franchise comes from the parent company in Chicago," says Coffey, "but beyond meeting company requirements of cleanliness and uniformity of food preparation, we are a local business in every respect.

"I doubt whether there is faster service of cooked food anywhere in the world, and I know there is none cleaner. The McDonald's drive-ins all have fronts and sides made of plate glass, so that the customers can see for themselves that the kitchen is spic and span," Coffey notes.

THE ARLINGTON HEIGHTS businessman feels that the success of the McDonald's unit is the emphasis on service to thely local family groups."

community, rather than to transient trade.

Arlington Heights was chosen for a McDonald's drive-in because it is primarily a family community," Coffey says. "While most drive-in restaurants cater to passing cars on the highway, McDonald's customers are most-

Trade Fair's Director Looks Forward to Rest

What does the managing director of the most successful indoor show in the nation's history, Chicago's International Trade Fair, do when the global bazaar closes a 16-day run?

For Richard Revnes of 414 Na-Wa-Ta, Mt. Prospect, the answer comes easy in this sequence of events:

—Eat the first Sunday evening dinner at home with the family for five weeks.

—Make plans to get away with Mrs. Revnes, Barbara, 10, Diane, 8, and Mike, 4, on a several-week vacation at LaJolla, Calif., near San Diego.

—Start working on next year's Trade Fair which has such accomplishments as 858,000 total attendance and a single-day crowd of 78,661 to surpass.

YES, THE Mt. Prospect man could ease himself into the easy chair at home last Sunday night, romp with his children and ponder over new celebrities to attract and new features for the 1960 exposition which will be held approximately the last 10 days in June and first week in July.

There was a personal problem, too, to consider, what to do with the articles which his family had purchased last Saturday when the fair was thrown open to the public for buying.

"It looked like the evacuation of a burning city," said Revnes, "and my wife evacuated a couple of pavilions herself."

But the Revnes family will have to wait a few months for their best souvenir of the fair—a Mercedes-Benz auto which Richard purchased for delivery in November or December. This is to be a latest model, not yet available in the United States.

PREPARATION FOR the fair involved about two years of work for the Mt. Prospect and formerly Prospect Heights man. He traveled about 70,000 miles on world hops in lining up exhibitors and now contemplates starting his jaunts all over again. One of his immediate tasks will be to secure attendance of international figures in 1960. He hopes to induce Nehru of India to participate.

To those who ask about 1960, Revnes answers: "You haven't seen anything yet. Just wait until next year."

Almost without exception the more than 500 exhibitors, including 27 foreign nations, termed the fair a tremendous success. A total of 858,000 persons, including more than 31,000 professional buyers, attended.

THE SALE OF exhibitors' space and the fair's official directory brought in $700,000, Revnes said. Admissions totaled more than $800,000. Expenses for the show and its two-year development are expected to total nearly $1,300,000, leaving a surplus with which to start the 1960 fair.

Sales recorded at the fair totaled millions of dollars. The Japanese pavilion took an order for a $1 million check-writing machine. Auto exhibitors had many sales. (M

During her stay, the Lennons took the children on an overnight trip to the Wisconsin Dells. Highlights were visits to the storybook parks and kiddieland.

Leaving their children, Jimmy and Bill, with relatives in Lorain, Ohio, Paula and William Dean, 1420 N. Chicago, embarked on a 2-week vacation trip along the west coast, with main stops being Bakersville, a visit with relatives in Los Angeles and a stopover in San Francisco. Paula says they enjoyed their visit to Disneyland most of all.

LESLIE ANN, daughter of Dolores and Douglas Bewley, 1212 N. Chicago, celebrated her 11th birthday July 21 and was treated to an overnight trip to the Wisconsin Dells, where she enjoyed, among other things, the boat trips through the Upper and Lower Dells.

July 15, the first birthday of Douglas, son of Joan and Richard Larson, 1245 N. Illinois, was celebrated at a family dinner party which his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Larson and Mrs. T. B. Nussey, all of Chicago, attended. Also on hand was his brother, Tommy. Later in the evening, his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Larson Jr., stopped by for birthday cake and ice cream.

A week's stay at the Dell-View hotel, Wisconsin Dells, was enjoyed recently by the Larsons and their son, Tommy. Douglas stayed at home with Grandmother Nussey. Joan and Richard flew there in their plane, and once they arrived, they enjoyed swimming, archery, golf, boat rides and taking Tommy to the storybook gardens. Sitter service being available, they also enjoyed dining and dancing.

Two celebrations marked the fourth birthday of Nancy, daughter of Jeanne and Raymond Parks, 1259 N. Wilke. They recently made an overnight trip to visit relatives in Springfield. While there, they had a family dinner party, birthday cake and all, which was attended by her brother and sisters, Robert, Susan and Judith, and aunt and uncle, and greataunt and uncle.

A BARBECUE dinner party was held at home. Beside the immediate family, her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. John Heidemann, and cousins, Linda, Sally and Billy, were on hand to wish Nancy a happy birthday.

Johnny, son of Mary Ellen and Eugene Van de Merkt, 1231 N. Wilke, celebrated his sixth birthday July 16. Guests at a luncheon party included his sisters, and brother, Patty, Judy and Larry, and neighbors, Mrs. William Cotsakis and her sons, Fritzie and Danny. After the festivities, they all enjoyed a swimming party at Lake Zurich.

A family dinner party was held on the Van de Merkts' patio later in the day and was attended by Johnny's maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Patterson, Evanston, and Judy's guest, Harold Pease.

Newest member of the Frank Dawson household, 1314 N. Illinois, is Janet Marie, born in Resurrection hospital, Chicago, July 10. Valerie and the baby, who weighed 5 pounds 12 ounces, are home doing well. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pocivich, Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Dawson, St. Paul, Minn.

Barbara Wiederhold, 1322 N. Chicago, served coffee and cake last Friday afternoon in honor of Mag Corley, 1326 N. Chicago, who was celebrating her birthday. Guests were Marcy Micek and Alice Eisenhuth.

THE CORLEYS and their children, Kevin and Robin, were hosts to Mag's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Barribeau, Milwaukee, who came down for the weekend in honor of the occasion.

Newcomers to Arlington Heights are Caroline and William Schrader, 1342 N. Race, and their year-old daughter, Lisa, former residents of Park Forest. William is employed by Proctor and Gamble.

Soon after their arrival here, the Schraders received a visit from Caroline's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Miller, Shaker Heights Ohio. Taking advantage of the situation and with thoughts of recuperating from the move, Caroline and Bill spent a 4-day vacation at Lake Geneva, Wis., where they enjoyed water skiing, swimming and bowling. Needless to say, the Millers were delighted to take over the baby-sitting chores.

Mercer, Wis., and the family cottage was the destination of Gianna and Gordon Riefstahl recently. Just having returned from a vacation with them were their children, Linda, Jan and Robert, and Gianna's sister, Mrs. Lillian DePalma, who has been visiting here from her home in Italy. Beside a sightseeing tour through parts of Wisconsin and Michigan, they visited relatives who also vacation in Wisconsin and visited a mink ranch.

MARY ANN GEER, 1515 Clarendon, took a weekend off recently and flew to Cleveland to attend the wedding of a former classmate. John remained at home to care for the children, Nancy Jo, Barbara and Laura Jean.

Combining business and pleasure, Dean Arnold, 1410 N. Race, recently spent a weekend in New York prior to his arrival in Atlantic City, N.J., where he attended the National Housewares Manufacturers association exhibit, held on the Boardwalk.

Prior to their vacation trip Jeanne and Marvin Hayes, 1425 N. Chicago, entertained at an afternoon party for their daughter, Shelley, who was three. Guests were her brother, Richard, and playmates Cheryl McKey, Gary Martin and Brian Leckie.

West Coast Proves Popular Vacationland for Families

Vacation plans of many Arlington Heights residents included trips to California and our western states and visits to former friends and neighbors.

The William Brines, 642 S. Vail, and daughter, Mary Jane, are home from a month's vacation in the west. They visited Grand Canyon and Rocky Mountain National parks before going on to California for an extensive tour of that state. While they were in the San Francisco area, they visited Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bess, former Arlington Heights neighbors, who recently moved to California.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard B. Heilig, 730 S. Dunton, and their two children, Nancy and Susan, returned July 8 from a 3-week vacation in San Francisco and a visit with friends in West Covina. A day spent in Disneyland was enjoyed by the whole family. The Heiligs returned home in time to celebrate Susan's 10th birthday July 12 with a family party for 18 guests.

Mrs. Fred Walters, 415 E. St. James, and her son, Fred, were in Salinas, Cal., recently for the marriage June 28 of her nephew Bruce Reeves, and Miss Constance Fowler. The Walters remained in California a month, visiting Mrs. Walters sister and friends in Atwater and Vallejo, touring Los Angeles with visits to the movie studios, Disneyland and other points of interest. They were in the Laurel Canyon area during the tragic fire and were fortunate to escape without injury. Before returning home, they visited Salt Lake City and Las Vegas.

THE EDWIN JOHNSONS, 1008 W. Miner, returned Wednesday from one of their most enjoyable vacations. Accompanied by their four children, Steve, Laurie, David and Peter, they spent two weeks at a working cattle ranch, the HT Bar ranch, in Slater, Col. Upon arriving each member of the family was given a horse for his own and was permitted to help with the chores. The children helped drive cattle from the range to new feeding ranges and worked on irrigation projects such as knocking out newly built beaver dams. For recreation, there were fishing, steak fries, chuck wagon suppers and square dancing plus the close comradeship with authentic cowboys.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bierman Jr., 15 E. Willow, and their four children are home from a month's vacation touring the Black Hills, Yellowstone National park and Wyoming.

A reunion of family members from all over the country brought added joy to the Charles H. Bakers' vacation. Arriving at Estes Park, Co., they were greeted by family members from Newport Beach, Cal.; Denver and Wichita, Kan., who spent a week together visiting and bringing news of events at home. Two of the Baker children, Kathie and Linda, accompanied their parents to Estes Park, but their elder daughter, Karen, remained at home working as a nurse's aid at Forest hospital in Des Plaines. The Baker family returned to 19 N. Pine Saturday.

Who Says Appendicitis Isn't Catching?

When Mr. and Mrs. Philip Tapley, 514 S. Evergreen, Arlington Heights, rushed their daughter Sue Anne, 13, to Hinsdale sanitarium and hospital for an emergency appendectomy last week, little did they know that, while their daughter was on the operating table at 3:20 p.m., the mother would develop symptoms which would necessitate another emergency appendectomy at 9 p.m. that same evening.

Over-crowded conditions at the hospital kept mother and daughter apart at first, but they are now together in a double room, both recovering rapidly. (A

Apartment Zoning Wins Approval

Palatine's zoning board of appeals Friday night approved the rezoning of some four acres of land from R-2 residential to R-3 general residence to permit the construction of eight apartment buildings.

The land extends to Chicago ave. on the north and the Chicago and North Western railroad right-of-way on the south. It is located at the western terminus of Parallel ave., two blocks west of Northwest hwy.

Owner John W. Benson intends to construct eight "garden-type" apartment buildings, containing a total of 70 units, 20 of which are two bedroom apartments, the remainder being one bedroom variety.

There were no objectors to the plan, which was presented by Attorney Albert C. Peters.

Five of the buildings will house eight units each and three buildings provide for 10 apartments. Parking spaces for 78 automobiles are included in the plat's three lots.

THE FULL pavement of Parallel ave. will be extended into the land to provide a western entrance. Plans were drawn by architect Charles Klopp.

No time was set for the beginning of construction, and neither Benson nor Peters was available this week for comment.

Zone Board Postpones Final Action

Palatine high school District 211's attempt to acquire a site for a school in Schaumburg township was mixed up in a Cook county zoning board of appeals hearing Wednesday night, July 17.

A 10 to 14 day delay resulted from objections to builder Jack Hoffman's request to rezone 50 acres 95 feet south of Higgins rd. and 500 feet west of Roselle rd. from farming to residential.

The F and S Construction head, builder of Hoffman Estates, intends to construct approximately 140 homes in the $16,000 to $20,000 price range.

A group of objectors to the plan included Paul Engler, member of the high school board; Schaumburg Center Planning Board Chairman Ellsworth Meineke; Anton Schubert, elementary school district No 54 board member; and Stanley G. Slesick, a resident of Pleasant Hills subdivision in Schaumburg township.

SLESICK VOICED disapproval of the rezoning, claiming that Hoffman was "painting a rosy picture, but who is going to take care of the additional school taxes?"

Zoning board secretary Walter Popjoy informally defended Hoffman: "I think your question is entirely out of order," said Popjoy. "Here's a man, and I'm not taking his part in any instance, but he has done more for this community as a builder than any other builder in the entire Cook County Chicago area has done. He has built these schools, turned them over to the school district, and then it's up to the people who pay the taxes.

"No other builder I know of has done as much as he has done. I'm not indicating how the board is going to decide on this case. I'm merely stating the facts as this board knows them."

F AND S HAS contributed five schools to the Schaumburg grade school district, but is under no legal obligation to assume additional responsibility for school construction.

Hoffman said his company has tentatively proposed a cash payment to district 54 of $200 per home upon sale as financial support for future school needs created as a result of the proposed increased building program.

In addition, Hoffman has offered to district 54 a payment of $300 per home if high school district 211 will withdraw condemnation proceedings for the 40 acre site adjoining the proposed area of development. He said his company would sell the high school district 37 acres of the site at $2,000 per acre (cost of the property), retaining three acres to permit F and S to divert a proposed road construction to a more suitable elevation at an estimated savings to the builder of $25,000.

THE FINAL agreement, which must be reported to the zoning board of appeals this week, has not been concluded. Hoffman says the high school board is seeking sewer and water line installations in excess of the builder's normal specifications and a road dedication giving the school board access through the three acre site.

Congregating at a family cottage on Honey lake, near Burlington, Wis., the group enjoyed two days of swimming, fishing and just getting "away from it all."

Mrs. Lyle Taylor, 626 E. Clarendon, returned home last Tuesday, after an 8-day stay in Resurrection hospital, Chicago, where she underwent surgery.

Mrs. William Evans, 1150 N. Hickory, her daughter, Barbara, and infant son, Scott, drove to Springfield and nearby Girard, where they spent three days last week visiting grandparents, Mr. Austin Harbour and Mr. and Mrs. Austin Harbour and Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Evans. William Evans Jr. didn't join the rest of the family, but instead accepted an invitation from the Delta Tau Deltas at the University of Cincinnati, to spend a couple of days visiting the campus as their guest. Bill plans to attend school there this fall.

Her guests included Dianne Brown, Joan Coward, Terry Williams, Jane Nichols, Arlene Roby, Diane Schreiner, Kathy Sterner, her sisters Carolyn, Nancy, Susan, and brother Tom. Games and charades followed the refreshments.

A farewell supper party for the James Dowds of 642 E. Clarendon, who will move from the Greens soon, was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Tomaso, 635 E. Clarendon, last Thursday. Attending the dutch-treat steak cookout were the Frank Muellers, Harold Carlsons, Orville Baileys, Richard Sims and their son, Keith. In the early evening, the men congregated at the Muellers for cards, while the ladies went on to the Bailey home where they surprised Mrs. Dowd with a baby shower. A PLANE TRIP home to St. Louis last Sunday afternoon ended a 2-week visit with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. William Miller, of 1218 N. Hickory, for 8-year-old Debbie Willard. While here, she enjoyed a trip to the Trade Fair and Riverview, besides renewing acquaintances made last year.

Mrs. A. J. Baugous, 1158 N. Hickory, entertained a number of former co-workers at a luncheon-bridge party last Saturday. Her guests were Mrs. Grover Thomas, Mrs. Q. P. Graves, Miss Dorothy Tekip, Mrs. Bernard DeZur of Arlington Heights, Mrs. Thomas McGowan, Mrs. Bernie Mehleck and Mrs. D. Kaspar of Mt. Prospect.

The past weekend ended a 2-week vacation for the John Saunders of 1163 N. Hickory. The first week they entertained out-of-town guests, Miss Carol Elliott of Barberton, Ohio, for three days followed by Mr. and Mrs. Alden Haynes, also of Barberton, for the remainder of the week. Their guests having departed, they drove to Carmi for a 5-day visit with the senior John Saunders.

Also completing their 2-week vacation this past weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Olen Culpepper, 1112 N. Beverly lane, who returned Sunday from the north woods area near Star Lake, Wis., where they fished, rested and enjoyed the scenery. (A

The F. Dean Shumates, 717 N. Salem, are back from a 2-week vacation with the Everett Schaeffers at their cabin in northern Wisconsin. They enjoyed swimming and fishing in the lakes and pine country.

When the G. S. Morgans, 1010 N. Harvard, went out to Salt Lake City to visit their daughter, Kathy, and her family they didn't realize they would be bringing Kathy and Stephen back with them. They are happy to have them there for two weeks. Last weekend they were delighted when their son, Wakefield, came home to see Kathy and Stephen from his job at the Aeronautical Research laboratory in Columbus. He brought Madenline Hartsock with him again. Monday evening the Morgans and Kathy met Mrs. Morgan's cousins, the O. P. Pitts, of Cameron, Mo., for dinner at the Allerton hotel, where the Pitts are staying while in Chicago.

The Joe Moricis, 720 N. Patton, have her father, Herbert McLoon, with them for a week. Mr. McLoon's home is St. John, New Brunswick, Canada, and before coming here, he stopped off in Boston to visit another daughter.

Jerry and Ann Mockenhaupt, 818 N. Harvard, combined business and pleasure recently when they went to Summit, N. J., for a visit with her sister and family. They spent a few days in New York before going to Atlantic City where Jerry attended a merchandising show.

THE RAIN didn't bother the Robert J. Demmerts, 925 N. Harvard, when they entertained their neighbors, the J. J. Shaffers and Gordon Johnsons, at their cottage in Lake Geneva over the weekend. The sun finally came out long enough for the group to enjoy a bit of swimming and boating.

Things have been buzzing at the Glenn Argusts', 802 N. Kennicott, over the weekend. Her sister and fiance came down from Milwaukee, and the two couples went into Chicago Saturday night to see the sights. Sunday his aunt and uncle from Kiel, Wis., and an aunt and uncle from Milwaukee spent the day with them.

Now that her husband, Allen Vehrs, has been drafted into the army, Vivian Vehrs is living with her parents, the Herbert Aurnhammers, 736 N. Patton, who are happy to have her with them.

Gloria Vogel's cousin from Park Ridge, Lynn Rosenow, has been spending a week with the Vogels, 724 N. Kaspar, to the delight of Gloria's daughter, Gail, who is Lynn's age. The girls have been making good use of the pool, going swimming almost every day. To add to the fast turnover in their house, Donnie has been visiting Gloria's mother for a week.

The Lawrence Geislers, 816 N. Ridge, have Randy home after undergoing surgery on an abscessed shoulder recently. He spent a week in Ravenswood hospital, but his mother says he is recovering nicely.

HAVING KENT home Sunday was a special treat for the Adolph Danes, 725 N. Harvard. He is stationed at Glenview NAS and visits home aren't as frequent as they'd like them to be. Rita Benedetti was with them for dinner Sunday.

The Ed Bakowskis, 716 N. Kennicott, had her sister-in-law, Eleanor Bakowski, and Diane and Ray with them last weekend. When they took them home they picked up his mother, sister and two nieces to return with them.

The Fred Oberhausers, 816 N. Patton, looked forward to son Fred's furlough for a long time, and when he arrived home recently they made good use of the two weeks. He gave his dad a fine present by arriving home on his birthday. During the visit they went to White Pines State park where they spent the night in a log cabin. Fred has since returned to Ft. Rucker, Ala.

On her way home to Ft. Dodge, Iowa, from a trip to Canada, Mrs. Merle Jenson stopped in Arlington Heights to visit her niece and her family, the William Frosts, 1225 W. Oakton.

FORMER ARLINGTON Heighter Dorothy Knitter brought her three sons; Glenn, Keith and Clifford, here last Thursday to see the Robert Balfours. The two families took the day off and went to Fox River Grove for a picnic, swimming and boating. Dorothy, who is staying with her mother in Park Ridge, says she loves Bellevue, Wash., their present home, but she still misses her friends here.

The Charles Eglis, 814 N. Patton, went home for their vacation this year. Part of their vacation was spent with his parents who live near Philadelphia and her parents in Pittsburgh. They also managed to get in a couple of days at Mitiwanga on Lake Erie which they thoroughly enjoyed.

Getting away from it all means Hayward, Wis., and their cottage to the Richard P. Balkins, 832 N. Ridge, and that is where they spent the last two weeks. Situated right on a lake near Hayward they had fishing right at their front door, but for swimming and horseback riding they went into Hayward. When the Balkins returned home they received a shock. Planted in the front yard was a homemade "for sale" sign, and the neighbors who made it were sitting across the street thoroughly enjoying their reaction. These same neighbors would be the first to protest if an honest-to-goodness sign should appear on the Balkins' lawn.

The James E. Hedgers, 924 N. Fernandez, combined business and pleasure when they flew to Charlotte, N. C., for a long weekend.

Back from a 2-week camping trip to Lake Gogebic in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan, the Dick Sorensens, 943 N. Kaspar, are almost authorities on the subject of camping. Eighteen people camped with them which made it much more fun. They caught enough fish one day to have a fish fry for the whole group, and being in the heart of the Gogebic National forest, they saw plenty of wild life; deer, bears and smaller animals. They took many side trips, one up to Porcupine mountain where the Lake of the Clouds appeared on one side and Lake Superior on the other. This was their first camping trip, and they covered 1,200 miles.

THE KENNETH M. Huggs, 1007 N. Chicago ave., visited her parents at Miller Place, Long Island, during their vacation.

On the spur of the moment Jack and Mary Meade, 1003 N. Kennicott, decided to go to the Edgewater Beach playhouse to see Hans Conreid in "Tall Story."

The Dick Platts, 806 N. Kennicott, went to New Salem, Ill. on a camping trip last week. Lincoln's village made quite a hit with them, as well as Springfield's capitol, the state museum and governor's mansion. Coming home they stopped at Siloam Springs State park and Dickson Mounds State park.

Out-of-town guests visited the Jack LeBeaus, 906 N. Yale. Her cousin and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ragan, and an aunt, Mrs. Marge Himmer, of Hot Springs, Ark., spent several days with them during which the LeBeaus invited other relatives out to see them. Sunday the LeBeaus went to Wauconda to visit Jack's brother and his family.

THE WILLIAM Rossiters, 809 N. Patton, are settling down after a whirlwind of activities for Sherry's wedding. Last Wednesday there was a cousins' shower for Sherry in the home of Mrs. Lee Butts of Virgil, Ill. Mrs. Butts and her cousins, Mrs. Donald Bower, and Mrs. George Struckman and Mrs. Vernon Bower, were co-hostesses. Twenty-five relatives from the surrounding towns attended the miscellaneous shower which included a kitchenware corsage for Sherry and a doll cake made by the mother of the bridegroom. A rehearsal dinner was held last Friday at the Hapsburg inn in Des Plaines at which 19 of the bridal party attended, including the bridegroom's family. As a complete surprise Mr. Rossiter's brother and his family, the Herbert Rossiters, came in from Denver for the wedding. Her father, H. A. Ritcher of Troy, Ill. also came to see Sherry marry Louis Schaer in the First Methodist church Saturday evening. The newlyweds left for a 2-week honeymoon, making Niagara Falls their first stop.

Using the excuse of going to her aunt's, Mrs. Robert McGrath, in Lake Zurich to fit bridesmaids dresses, Mrs. Neil W. Warren was able to get Sally to her surprise shower last Friday evening. Close to 50 friends and relatives were gathered in the McGrath backyard where lights had been strung for the occasion. The cake was pretty with a shower girl and "To Your Happiness" decorated on the top. Her friends had made a bridesmaid from a dry mop, a plastic waste paper basket and other kitchen articles which will come in handy when Sally and her fiance set up housekeeping at Ft. Campbell, Ky., after their wedding in the First Presbyterian church August 8.

THE WARRENS are proud of their other daughter, also. Just before the shower Friday night Susie discovered Karen Sauer had injured herself badly while riding a bike. She helped Karen into her car, drove her to the Medical Center and stayed with her until her heel had been stitched. Before leaving for her sister's shower, however, Susie made sure that Karen would be put in a cab and sent home safely. Her experience working with her father who is a pharmacist in one of the village drugstores helped her keep a cool head throughout the whole affair.

The Harry Kunbergers, 926 N. Kennicott, enjoyed a weeks' visit from his mother, Mrs. Josephine Kunberger, of Philadelphia, Pa. This was the first time she had seen Beth, and the baby made quite a hit with her.

FROM SHERWOOD

Last Friday the Carl V. Palmers, 1023 W. Burgoyne, entertained several of his business associates and their wives at lunch in their home before taking off for the races. After the races the group came back to the Palmers for a barbecue.

This summer holds fun for the G. A. Martin family. Mr. Martin went on a 10-day fishing trip to Northwset Ontario with friends, staying at a cabin and roughing it. He was lucky to catch the record northern of the week, and the whole family plans on a meal from it. While up north they were able to see the northern lights and had only two hours of darkness during the day. When he returned, Mrs. Martin made a flying trip to Washington, D. C. to see her sister and family, who formerly lived here. (A

Lesson in English

OFTEN MISUSED

Avoid such barbarisms and word-distortions as: Complected, broadcasted, enlargen, disremember, hisself, yourn, preventative, anywheres, irregardless. Instead, say: Complexioned, broadcast, enlarge, don't remember, himself, yours, preventive, anywhere, regardless.

Do not say, "The reason for this is because he tries too hard." Say, "The reason for this is that he tries too hard."

Distinguish between regretful and regrettable. The thing which is done is regrettable, and the person involved is regretful. Thus: "It was a regrettable error, and I am most regretful about it."

Avoid the hackneyed or old-fashioned ending to your letters, as, "With best wishes, I remain." Omit "I remain."

Do not say, "It was saturated by water." Say, "saturated with water."

GEORGE HARRIS

Remember last year? You went on your vacation and forgot to take your camera. Sounds silly, doesn't it? Actually it happened to more than one family. Well, don't let that happen again this year.

Vacations are planned, you save and scrimp for them. It becomes important that you capture those memories on film so you may cherish them for many years to come. The nice part about taking pictures on a vacation is that it does not cost a lot of money when you realize all the joy and happiness you receive from the pictures. We, at Harris Pharmacy, have a small (but complete) camera and film department where you may purchase an inexpensive camera and all the film you'll need while you're away from home. Once again, be sure you have enough film.

Each year I always try to remind those of you who are planning a vacation about taking a camera and plenty of film. I hope you heed the advice and while away have lots of fun.

A Message From George Harris, "Your Pharmacist"

MODERN PRESCRIPTIONS ARE TREMENDOUS VALUES.

It is amazing how they can be priced so low, considering the time, effort and expense of perfecting a new "miracle" drug.

EHLRICH DISCOVERED NEOSALVARSAN IN 1910.

He called it "606" because he had previously experimented with 605 other chemicals which were useless.

A RESEARCH SCIENTIST COSTS ABOUT $75,000 PER YEAR.

55 RESEARCH SCIENTISTS WORKED FOR 2½ YEARS.

They tested more than 100,000 samples of soil collected from every part of the world. Finally one valuable broad-spectrum antibiotic was discovered or more than $4,000,000 would have been lost. Yet, the final prescription cost is only about fifty cents per dose.

TODAY'S PRESCRIPTIONS SAVE LIVES AND MONEY.

Your Doctor makes fewer calls, sickness-time is lessened and you need fewer medicines to cure sickness. We always price them as reasonably as possible.

Square Dance Jamboree Is Set Saturday

Calls of "all join hands and circle left" and "swing your partner" will ring out at the Rolling Meadows shopping center tomorrow night for one of the summer square dance jamborees sponsored by the center merchants.

Dances for experts, semi-skilled and beginning dancers will be called by Don Finfrock, popular local caller.

The free outdoor dance will start at 8:30 and end at 11 p. m. Local square dance clubs are expected to participate in the event. Several dances will feature "pre walk-through" of steps, according to Finfrock, to encourage beginners to join the dancing.

Finfrock has been a caller in the local area for more than 10 years. He previously had experience as a dance caller in downstate Illinois.

'Safety Valve' Pond And Park Completed

Hasbrook's "safety valve" pond to prevent flooded homes, and the 14-acre park surrounding it have been completed, the Arlington Heights construction company announced today.

According to Albert E. Riley, president of the firm, the project took almost two years to complete. It is one of the first of its kind in the Chicagoland area.

The pond holds water from the Hasbrook storm sewer system until the village system can safely handle it. This prevents water from backing up and flooding homes during heavy rainfalls.

"IN ADDITION TO this, it is adding beauty to the surrounding park," Riley said. "The water level in the pond is to be maintained between 3½ and 4 feet.

"A mechanism at the south end of the pond is adjusted to stop the water from flowing into the village system when it reaches that level."

To protect children from accidenally stumbling into the pond, a 7-foot wire fence has been installed around it.

Together with the park, the pond, covering some 43,560 square feet, cost Hasbrook over $175,000 to build. It is to be maintained by the Arlington Heights park district.

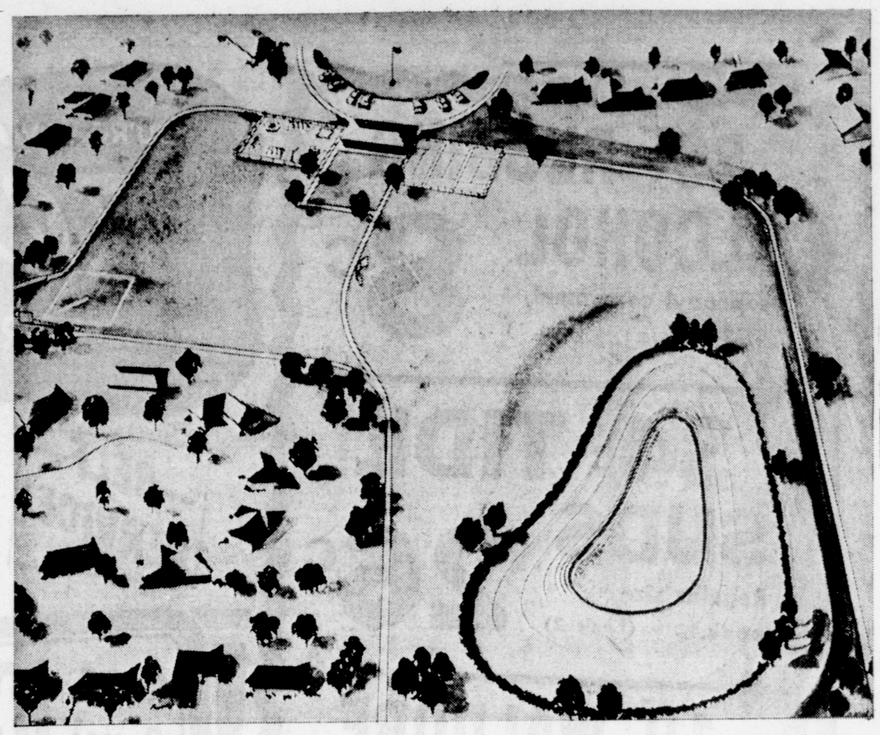
TENTATIVE plans call for stocking the pond with wild life, and using it during the winter months for ice skating.

Riley pointed out that the pond has a 6-inch gravel base that will keep the water clean and give the pond a better appearance. The sides have flagstone to keep dirt from washing in.

Grass is being grown right up to the pond, and shrubs and trees will be planted. Tile drain pipes in the park leading to the pond will keep the park as dry as possible.

Since Hasbrook's storm sewer system is completely separate from the sanitary sewage system, there is no possibility of contaminated water entering the pond. (A



AN ARTIST'S SKETCH shows an airplane's view of the "safety valve" pond and 14-acre park in Hasbrook Construction company's 532-home development in Arlington Heights. The area around the pond is heavily contoured to keep water from reaching the upper park area during heavy rainfalls. Water from the pond is slowly released into the village storm sewer system during these rainfalls to prevent flooded homes. (A

The Bible states that the holy anointing oil was made by the apothecary using his special skill. The compounding of medicines is a special art learned after years of study and apprenticeship in a pharmacy.

Some of the medicines we dispense now-a-days are prepared in the laboratories of pharmaceutical firms, but we still must exercise our art by making certain they are potent when dispensed and exactly the ones specified. Makes all curves feel banked...

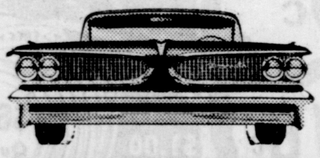
...the curve-hugging Wide-Track Pontiac!

It's been a long time since the public took to an automobile with the verve and vigor of the current admiration for Pontiac. It's now first in sales in its price class. Sleek beauty is one reason. Wide-Track Wheel design is another. The wheels are five inches farther apart to increase stability on curves and corners. It's a very simple, basic innovation yet the improvement it makes in your control of the car is remarkable. You're more comfortable than you've ever been in narrow track cars.



THE ONLY CAR WITH WIDE-TRACK WHEELS

Dotted lines show conventional wheel positions. Pontiac's wheels are five inches farther apart. This widens only the stance, not the car itself. Pontiac hugs tighter on curves and corners. Sway and lean are considerably reduced, ride is smoother, balanced, steadier.

Early Pioneers Bring First Religion To Prairie Village

by PHILIP NELSON

(Religion for Arlington Heights, one might say, began among the hills of Vermont, where a young circuit rider galloped great distances to spread the gospel. In this fifth installment of "The Prairie That Bloomed," the author will trace the early origins of religious institutions in the village).

For a people who carved a wilderness into a settlement in the northwest area of Illinois and who were hungry for word of the gospel, there was no church waiting, no established preacher to give them comfort.

Early Americans and the German immigrants often found their peace with God in simple, individual ways. They worked hard in the fields, from the time the golden sun shed its first rays until it blemished the sky with its brilliant downgoing.

It was a difficult calling for a man to minister to these people of the soil. He must be a man of good health, who could live in the outdoors, and must, of necessity, be a good horseback rider, as well as one able to give solace with prayer.

Such a man was the Rev. John Nason, known over mile after wandering mile of the Vermont hills, where he goaded his horse onward so that he could make his religious circuit.

WHEN FRIENDS from Plainfield, Vt., left New England and took the long trail to Elk Grove in northern Illinois, the Rev. Nason decided to follow.

In the late 1830's, he and his wife and his teenage daughter, Mary, began the long journey by team. After seven weeks, they reached Chicago, which they found to be one large boggy swamp.

Repelled by the city, they drove on the grassy plains of Elk Grove, where they settled on what was later to become the Busse farm.

Their neighbors, all Yankees, included Dr. Miner, Caleb Lamb, John Whiting, George A. Knowles, Silas, David and Joel Draper.

It was not enough for the Rev. Nason to preach the gospel. He must farm the land, participate in the first town meeting of Elk Grove, and in 1850 was elected road overseer of District 1.

But it was through the influence of the Rev. Caleb Lamb, a retired Methodist minister, that a congregation was organized and the services as a circuit rider of the Rev. Nason were hired in 1838. The First Methodist Episcopal church of Arlington Heights is one of the oldest organized institutions in Cook county.

For several years, he rode from congregation to congregation, often holding worship services in the open field, while the farmers and their families gathered from their nearby farms. He traveled as far north as Half Day and as far west as Plum Grove.

So successful were the circuit rider's efforts that in 1840, only two years after he had begun his Midwest circuit, a church building was constructed on the north side of Higgins rd. about a quarter mile west of State rd. Pastor Nason was paid the princely sum $250 a year.

ALTHOUGH most of the settlers lived in rude log cabins, the church was built of machine-cut lumber from Michigan, conveyed to Chicago by boat and hauled to its site by teams.

On October 1, 1840, the first Quarterly conference was held in this building. The Rev. John T. Mitchell was the presiding elder.

After 1840, many of the old settlers who had been Congregationalists in the east, built a church of this denomination east of State rd. on the road south of Higgins.

And when the railroad came into being after 1854, and the stream of population headed for Dunton, the two congregations, Methodist and Congregationalist, joined forces and held their meetings in an Arlington Heights store, on the second floor, under direction of the Rev. Thomas Cochran.

Of quaint and curious interest to many is the whereabouts of the original church building towards which the early Arlington Heights settlers came to worship.

It was moved to a site at the edge of the forest preserves "in ern" being erected from a tavern being erected at the same site. Later, it was again moved to its location on State rd., about 300 feet north of Higgins.

The building was bought by the Scharringhausen family from the church senate after the congregation either moved to Dunton or traveled westward. It was used for a machine and tool shed on the Scharringhausen farm in Elk Grove.

In 1957, the building, which had been painted bright red, was part of the farm which became a portion of the Busse forest, a project of the Cook county forest preserve district.

At that time, Charles Sauer, then chief engineer for the forest preserve district, said that the forest preserve authorities appreciated the "historical value of the farmhouse and that he would be 'prone to keeping it intact" as a headquarters.

A ROMANTIC and sentimental bit of history which stems with the coming of organized religion is the tale of the circuit rider's daughter, Mary.

During a revival meeting held at Wheeling, the lovely daughter of the minister met Joseph F. Kennicott, of Half Day, and on her 20th birthday, a few months after they met, during a whirlwind courtship, they were married. In 1853, Kennicott bought the farm of his father-in-law and they moved to Elk Grove In 1865 they moved to Arlington Heights.

Both Kennicott and his beautiful bride were zealous in their church activities and they knew with the coming of the railroad to Dunton, there would be a need for a church here.

Both of them sought a proper building for such a church, first renting an old store room, used for several months during a series of revival meetings, which brought many new members.

Then a building was constructed in 1860, at a cost of $2,000, under the Rev. T. L. Olmstead's leadership, and a parsonage was built the same year for $1,800.

Thus was the origin of religious organization by the early Methodists. A similar story of necessity and improvisations is the tale of the Lutherans.

The church organization came about because of the weariness of early German settlers and their resolve to put an end to being jostled in wagons which had no springs.

Since the Lutheran families were living on farms near Dunton and within Dunton and attended worship services at the Elk Grove Lutheran church, it was necessary to travel over muddy, broken and difficult roads in these comfortless conveyances.

To avoid such hardship, the Lutheran settlers asked Pastor C. Sallman of Elk Grove to visit them and preach to them in their own area, and in 1858, the first Lutheran service was held in the home of Jacob Sigwalt However, a year later, the pastor left them to answer a call in Ohio.

IN 1860, the seven German Lutheran families resolved to organize a permanent congregation, and the Rev. W. Bartling took over not only the direction of religious services but religious instruction for the youth as well.

The St. Peter church came into being with a written declaration signed by the heads of the seven pioneer German families, adopted by them in March 30, 1860.

First deacons were Jacob Sigwalt, Heinrich Ruessel, Michel Schwendt and George Sieburg. They served as deacons until 1864. During the year of the congregation's birth, a small frame house with three windows on the north and three on the south sides on south Evergreen street became the St. Peter church.

Rough board benches without backs seated 75 church goers after they entered the small lobby. Here is where the first Arlington Heights organized Lutherans did their worshipping until 1867.

In that year, they bought a building from the Universalists at the corner of Vail and St. James, and until 1882 with the increase of German settlers this building suited their religious needs.

With the arrival of the Rev. H. Schmidt, in 1863, a need for a day school was expressed, and in 1864, such a school came into being in a building at 11 S. State, with 16 children attending these early classes.

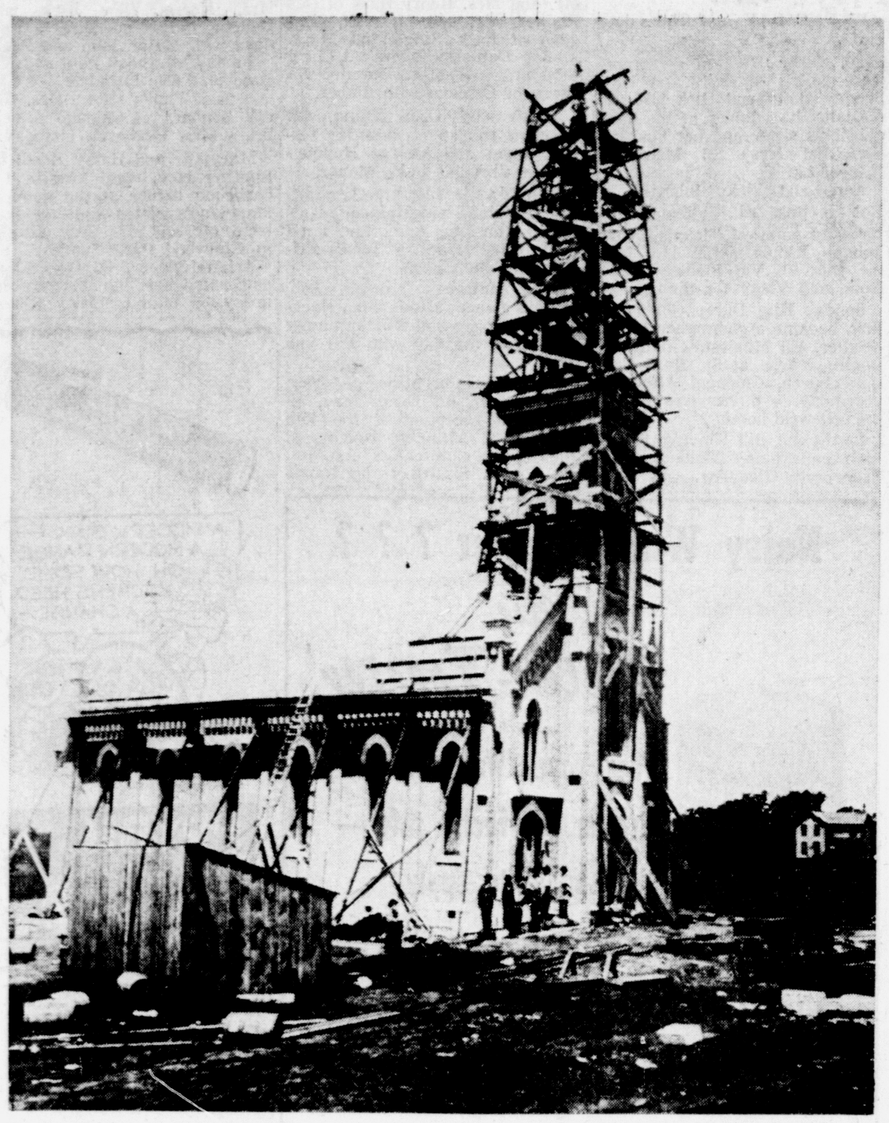
It was not entirely incongruous that the first schoolmaster was Henry Knickriem, a carpenter. Nor any more incongruous that the chilren studied reading, writing and arithmetic in the rear room of a shoemaker's shop while the shoemaker, himself, Mr. Probst used his front room to repair shoes.

Long tables and benches were brought into the shoemaker's shop, and the carpenter pounded knowledge into the children's heads as the shoemaker pounded leather into shoes.

By the fall of 1865, students changed their schoolhouse in a shoemaker's shop to a vacant house owned by Sigwalt on the southwest corner of Vail and Sigwalt. Rent for half a year was $15, and a graduate teacher was hired the following year.

However, when the church moved to the old Universalist church, the school moved into the old St. Peter church, and when the church again grew in 1882 to a new handsome brick structure costing $16,000, with an organ, a bell and a spire, the school acquired the Universalist building also.

(The growth of religious organizations in Arlington Heights became spontaneous with the growth of the village. In the sixth installment of the series, in "The Prairie That Bloomed," the author will continue the story of the early pioneers' religious development, and of the early schooling of their children. This installment will run August 13.)



EARLY VIEW OF the St. Peter Lutheran church with its proud spire being constructed. Few houses were in the immediate vicinity, but one, the old Noyes residence, can be seen in the background. The church was dedicated in Novermber, 1882.

We are now paying this new high dividend on savings, providing maximum return coupled with maximum insured safety for our increasing number of depositors.

Saving money at 3¾% assures an investor of a profitable return on his money without the gamble associated with purchase of stocks.

Harold M. Finley, investment officer of the Chicago Title & Trust Co., in a recent address to a community group, made this observation:

"In proportion to what they have sold in the past, most stocks do not appear to be bargains at present time. The average well-known common stock is now yielding about 3¼% and is selling for more than double the value of its physical assets. This is quite a contrast to such times in 1949, 1942 and 1932 when some of our largest corporations' stocks were yielding more than 10%.

Has a peddler asked about your health?

"How are you?" asks the peddler.

"Fine," you say.

"And," says the peddler, "you want to stay that way and I have here some vitamin pills, a nutritional supplement, that will insure continuing good health . . ."

Door-to-door salesmen are very much with us these days. Okay for pots and pans, maybe. But, when they start talking about your health, bid them a polite good-by.

If you'd really like to know about vitamins and nutritional supplements, get a professional opinion from a doctor of medicine or a registered pharmacist.

AN OPEN BOOK

When the medical profession approves a new remedy, it is made public so that everybody may benefit from it. Poliomyelitis vaccine is a good example.

Should you read or hear about a "secret remedy" for the cure of some serious disease, be on guard. Shun it by all means, because its use could be disastrous.

Consult your physician. Ask his views on "mystery remedies." He will give you a candid evaluation.

There is nothing hush-hush about medical research and its discoveries. Medicine is an open book — for all the world to see.

Arlington Park Is the Pinnacle of American Horse Racing

Offer Six $100,000 Added Races; Classic This Week

by BOB BUCHANAN

The pinnacle of American racing — a $100,000 added stakes — is in our own back yard.

We need look no further than Arlington Park between now and Labor Day to find six $100,000 added purses being offered to America's finest thoroughbred racing talent. The first "pinnacle" is Saturday's 30th running of the Arlington Classic.

NO OTHER TRACK IN AMERICA, summer or winter, offers as many $100,000 added races as does Arlington Park during its 55-day combined Arlington and Washington Park meetings.

Hollywood Park, closing the major California summer racing season this week, comes as close as any competitor with four or five $100,000 added purses, according to one of racing's foremost authorities, Benjamin F. Lindheimer, Arlington Park's executive director.

Impetus for the half dozen $100,000 added stakes was the Illinois Racing Board's 1957 suggestion that the latter half of the Arlington season be combined with the Washington season at Arlington Park and the Balmoral season and the first half at Arlington be run at Washington park.

It was Lindheimer, known already as one of racing's "most progressive," whose co-ordination between the board of directors of both jockey clubs put into effect the greatest series of stake races the "Sport of Kings" has ever known under one roof.

MONEY SPEAKS BUT money isn't everything. Lindheimer has found both to be true when courting the nation's top stables in an attempt to have them spend the summer with him at Arlington Park. The 68-year-old Chicago native concedes that there are few owners and stables today who do not make racing a business. Those $100,000 added purses are tempting but a stable seldom looks at one race alone.

To woo and keep such stables as Calumet Farms and Kerr Stables at Arlington Park takes all the know-how the pioneer of American turf racing has gained since he saw his first race, the 1903 American Derby.

"Competition among race tracks to obtain great horses and stables," asserts Lindheimer, "is the greatest today it has ever been. At Aqueduct in New York state they are spending $36 million for new facilities. Their season is the same as ours.

"Belmont all the way through is a prestige track. It too is our competitior. In New Jersey, summer racing is held at both Monmouth Park and Atlantic City. In Delaware, the DuPont's non-profit Delaware Park is another rival. And in California, Hollywood Park captivates audiences. These half dozen tracks are all major competitors."

ESTABLISHMENT OF specified racing dates, some of which have stood for more than 20 years, and the offering of a diversified stakes racing program have enticed many stables to Arlington park.

Two of the $100,000 added races, the Arlington and Washington Park futurities, are designed for the novice two-year-old horses. The Arlington Classic and American Derby are the $100,000 addeds for three-year-olds, and the Arlington and Washington Park handicaps are for three-year-olds and up.

The Triple Crown, Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont, is designed only for top three-year-olds. Arlington Park's racing season, which include 18 early-scheduled overnights at $10,000 each, is designed for horses of all ages.

Through implementation of combined meetings at one park, stables now make only one move instead of two during the Chicago summer racing season. "Moving a stables is like moving a small circus," the dignified executive director said. "Moving homes and horses are both costly and inconvenient. That is why we've tried to make Arlington Park a 'home away from home.'

"TO HAVE THE BEST summer racing in the nation we must have three things," he continued. "First, there must be the best stables; secondly, we must keep horsemen, jockeys, exercise boys, grooms, and their families contented and happy to be here; and third, we must be friendly with the neighboring communities."

BENJAMIN F. LINDHEIMER
Molder of the Midwest's Modern Miracle

As Lindheimer toured the 485 acre grounds, he pointed out — between brief "hellos" to his many friends — the 142-place trailer park, the hospital and free medical care given employees, stable hands, and patrons, round-the-clock police and fire protection as well as telephone service, a reasonably priced stables kitchen, swimming pools, and recreation rooms.

Are all these a part of horse racing? To a man such as Lindheimer they certainly are.

When jockeys, exercise boys and grooms want to return to Arlington Park, this helps sell the stable owner. This is half the battle. The other half is the $100,000 added purses. Together they produce America's greatest racing.

THIS YEAR, FOR THE FIRST TIME, outstanding trainers the likes of H. A. "Jimmy" Jones of Calumet Farms, William "Hal" Bishop of Anna, Ill., the only owner-trainer in racing, and William Molter of Kerr Stables, all live in the Park's trailer court. Top jockies Steve Brooks, Ken Church, John Sellers, Willie Shoemaker (who will fly in next Monday), and L. C. Cook, also call the trailer park home.

To exercise boys who earn about $400 monthly and grooms who earn about $300 each month, the trailer park helps keep their families together, remarked BF, as he is known by his close friends.

Rejuvination of Arlington Park, built in 1926, began shortly after Lindheimer, himself a real estate broker by profession, led a group of businessmen in the purchase of Arlington Park in 1940.

The spark, which gained the bespectacled racing "progressive" the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association's 1957 National Award for "the care and comfort of people who live and work on the backstretch of racetracks," was the news that a groom had suffered a heart attack and died before a doctor could be summoned to his side due to lack of a telephone in the stable area. That was 1941. It took little or no time for him to have telephones, marked by a red light at night, installed so that 24-hour medical aid can be and is summoned at once.

THESE IMPROVEMENTS have cost money. Lindheimer estimates the Arlington Park costs since 1946 at more than $6 million. The board of director declares only a 50 cent dividend on stock. This is less than a two per cent return on invested capital.

Every stockholder knows and expects this. Each knows that prestige racing does not come cheap, especially when you consider racing plants the likes of Hollywood Park have twice the mutual handle that Arlington Park has and yet does not offer as many $100,000 added races nor facilities.

Lindheimer feels that great horses, great stables and great races, such as the 1955 Swaps-Nashua duel he engineered, will bring a greater number of fans to watch the "Sport of Kings." This year nearly one million fans will pay to see racing during the 55-day season at Arlington.

ESCALATORS, AIR conditioning and the many other refinements for local racing fans do not show Lindheimer's desire to give championship racing to Chicago nearly as well as does the final $100,000 added race of the year, the Washington Park Handicap.

The "Miracle Mile" as it's called is a perennial Labor Day feature. Most tracks, Lindheimer indicated, would never think of scheduling an outstanding stakes race on a holiday since the fans are already drawn by the fact that it's a holiday.

"When people come to Arlington Park, we want to show them the best in racing. We only hope we succeed."

Richest Women's Golf Tourney Opens Today

33 Lady Pros Play For $20,000 Prize

by BOB BUCHANAN

Twenty-four-year-old Dick Hauff makes his debut as a professional golf promoter today when 33 of the nation's top women golfers go after $20,000 in the World's Women's Open.

Before the 72-hole medal play tournament at the Mt. Prospect country club opens, Hauff has already broken three Ladies Professional Golf association records.

—His $20,000 purse, $16,000 for the order in which the ladies finish and $4,000 for birdies, eagles, low rounds and Wednesday's pro-am tourney, is the largest ever offered the swinging female sex.

—The $4,000 in additional prizes, $1,250 of which is for the pro-am tourney, is the largest the lady pros have seen.

—The $6,100—which will go to the champion at Sunday night's banquet is the largest any woman will have ever received in golf history.

THE TOURNAMENT is scheduled to be conducted today, Friday, Saturday and Sunday with 18 holes being played each day.

When the tournament gets under way today, the first tee off has been set for noon, the lady pros are expected to go after their own records over Mt. Prospect country club's 6,421 yard, par-74 layout.

The women are expected to take Mt. Prospect's nearly level course, which has few major difficulties, to task with the leaders coming home in 68 or 69.

Mt. Prospect's course is designed for two golfers, Betsy Rawls and Fay Crocker. The holes are not exceptionally long, the greens are small but well but deceptive greens.

PATTY BERG and Fay Crocker, who have played top-notch golf for more than a decade, will be leading the old-time contingent. Among newcomers who have been playing good golf are Mickey Wright, Wiffi Smith, Barbara Romack, and JoAnn Prentice.

Girls who checked in Monday evening and Tuesday included Bonnie Randolph, Betsy Rawls, Marilynn Smith, Louise Suggs, Mickey Wright, Joyce Ziske, Barbara Romack, Mary Ann Reynolds, Kathrynne Whitworth, Betty Bush, Sybill Griffin, Esther Foley, Bettye Danoff, Betty Hicks, home pro Norma Shook, Greta Leone, Dianne Penna, Phyllis Germaine, Betty Houran, Barbara Rotvig, Gloria Armstrong, Patty Berg, Kathy Cornelius, Fay Crocker, Betty Dodd, Mary Lena Faulk, Gloria Fecht, Marlene Hagge, Beverly Hanson, Betty Jameson, Ruth Jessen, Murle McKenzie and Jo Ann Prentice.

Ten of the nation's leading amateur women also will be playing in the Open. They include Ann Richardson, Lois Drafke, Barbara McIntire, Judy Bell, Judy Eller, Ann Stranahan, Barbara Slobe, Lana Kay Roberts, Sally Carroll, and Carol Mann.

Only name pros net expected to be present are Jackie Pung and Wiffi Smith.

HOTTEST golfers on the circuit right now are blonde Mickey Wright and Betsy Rawls. Miss Wright, winner of the last two National Opens, won the $12,500 Alliance International Golf tournament last Sunday, coming from seven strokes behind. Miss Rawls is the leading 1959 money winner.

The top 10 money winners are expected to tee off about 2 p.m. on the opening day with the leaders teeing off in the late threesomes on the following days.

In the event of rain, the tournament will be postponed one day.

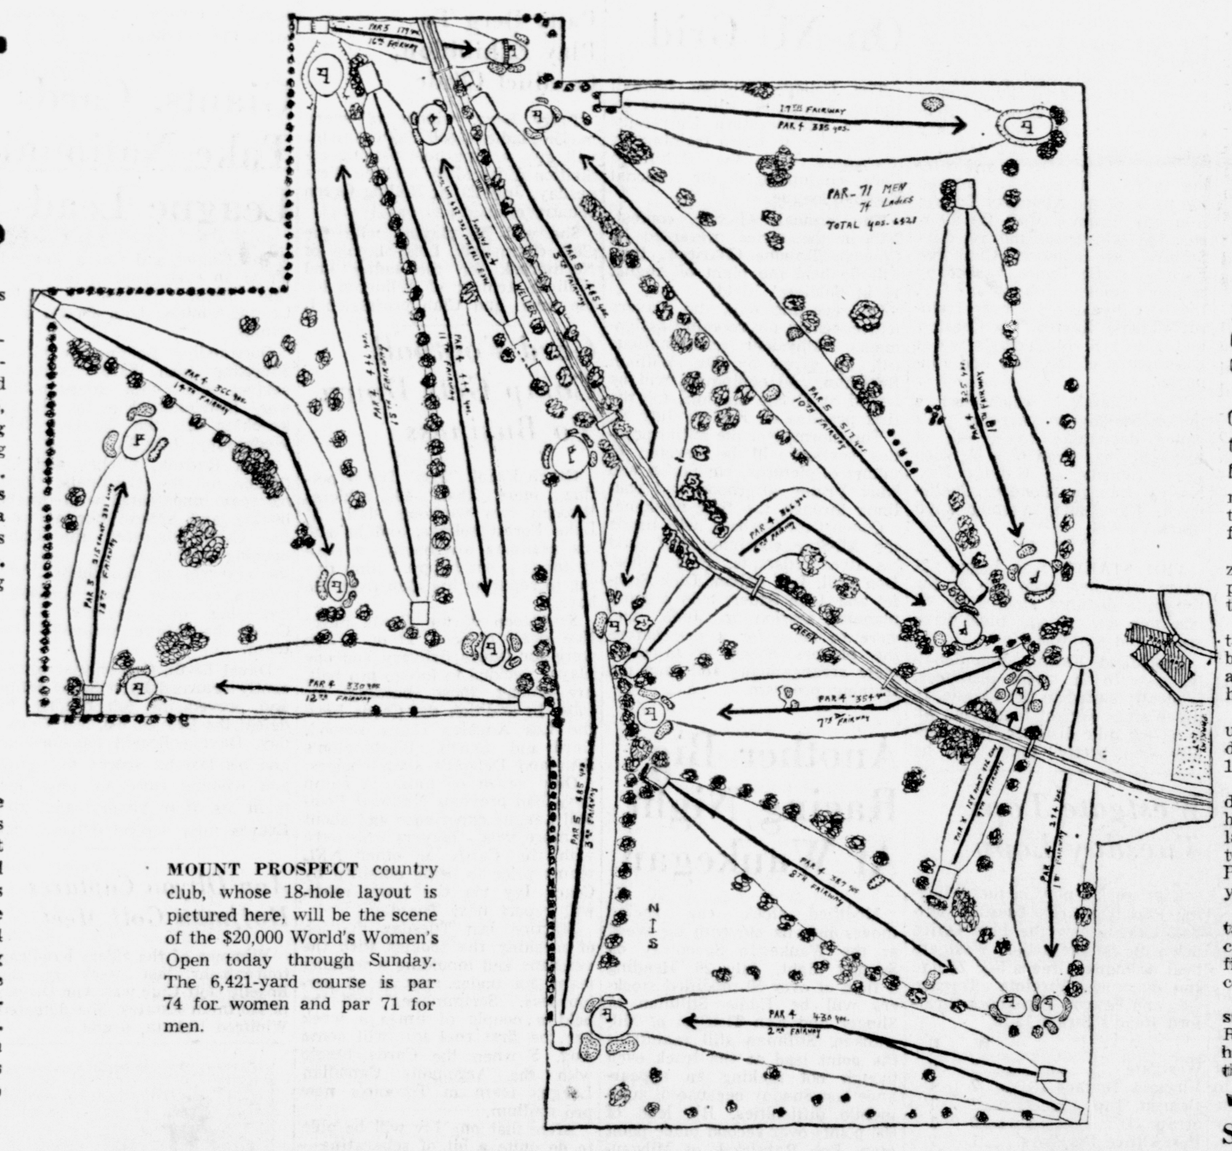
Shoots Practice 32

Marlene Bauer Hagge gave some indication of what may come when she shot a practice round of 32 Tuesday over the par-37 back nine at Mt. Prospect country club. Observers said Marlene was really "canning" the long putts with uncanny accuracy.



MOUNT PROSPECT country club, whose 18-hole layout is pictured here, will be the scene of the $20,000 World's Women's Open today through Sunday. The 6,421-yard course is par 74 for women and par 71 for men.

KICKIN' IT AROUND

By BOB FRISK

ODDS AND ENDS as we unpack our bags after two weeks at Lowry Air Force Base in Denver, Colorado:

Bob McDonald and Ed Moehling, Jr., both graduates of Arlington high school, finished near the top in the 26th Junior Open tournament of the Chicago District golf association . . . McDonald had rounds of 77-73-74-81 for a 305 total, good for a second place tie, one stroke off the pace . . . Moehling soared to an 83 after three strong rounds and had to settle for a 307 . . . Steve Kelly, the highly-touted bonus boy from Danville, Ill. who signed a $50,000 contract with Kansas City, has a 3-3 mark for his Class D. toiling . . . Kelly has pitched 36 innings, fanning 20 and walking 14.

BOB McDONALD

With football season on its way, this item may have some interest. Pro grid teams budget footballs at about $3,000 a season. They figure to use—and lose—around 200 at $15 a ball. Fans are permitted to keep balls kicked into the stands during the regular National Football League contests.

Bobby Klaus of Fox Lake, Ill., a $20,000 bonus boy with the Cincinnati Redlegs, is hitting only .222 with Nashville of the Class AA Southern Association . . . But the University of Illinois product is sparkling in the field and has yet to make an error at second base . . . Grayslake product, pitcher Jay Hook, made an auspicious debut since being recalled with a 5-1 victory for Cincinnati over the Chicago Cubs . . . This is the same Jay Hook who worked all 14 league games for Grayslake high in 1954, winning ten and striking out 188 in 92 innings . . . Two boys from Arlington Heights, Eric Berg and Pete Vaughn, will attend DePauw University's second annual Summer Basketball Camp at Greencastle, Ind., Aug. 9-15 . . . The camp is designed for boys who will enter the sixth through ninth grades, inclusive, this fall . . . Camp co-ordinator will be DePauw's head cage coach, Elmer McCall, who guided South Bend Central to two Indiana state titles.

Word was received a few weeks ago that a talented 6-4 athlete was transferring to an area school from Grant high of the Northwest Conference. The big question was concerning where the boy, supposedly a standout in football and basketball, would attend school. We got that answer Tuesday. He's going to Prospect and is a junior who now lives in Elk Grove.

It was disappointing to hear that attendance fell short of expectations at the recent Prospect high Boosters' Club meeting . . . We hope interest picks up, especially among people in Elk Grove and Wheeling where no representatives were present . . . And we also hope Carleton Palmer, newly-elected president, receives excellent support in his tenure . . . American Legion representatives will meet tonight at the headquarters at 343 South Dearborn in Chicago to confirm the eligibility of each district champion in preparation for the county finals . . . The Des Plaines Merchants, which include such local names as Dick Bokelmann, Lloyd Meyer, and Bob Miller, are rated the favorite in the Illinois Semi-Pro baseball tourney in Elgin . . . The Merchants won their first game with Bokelmann on the mound.

How does a noted psychologist look at the Little League programs? "The emphasis is too great on winning," he says, "for boys that age. The program as it is set up could foster juvenile delinquency, rather than combat it. Children rejected, or given no chance, are likely to withdraw within themselves. Repeated frustration of this sort can lead to trouble."

We feel that this attitude is pretty harsh under the circumstances, but this same man goes on to say that the parents should not be looking over their boy's shoulder all the time. "They'd be better off participating in an activity themselves. Why not a league for parents? Then the children could watch mama and papa play baseball."

You know—that might solve a lot of problems!

Just 2 Strokes Make a Difference

Two strokes can make the difference between a golf champion and an also-ran.

Fans who will follow the women pros around Mt. Prospect country club's par-74 course this weekend will find two strokes each day can make a whale of a lot of difference.

Look at Betsy Rawls. Last year she averaged in the 75-76 bracket. This year she is down to 74.17. Cutting her game one stroke has upped her earnings nearly $6,000 and the year 1959 is slightly more than half gone. In 1958 Betsy made $7,600. To date, in 1959, she has won $13,154.34.

On the other hand, Beverly Hanson, 1958's leader with $12,639 and a slightly less than 75 average has seen her game jump to 75.57 in 1959 and her earnings go down to slightly more than $7,500.

Louise Suggs is one of the most consistent women golfers on the tourney trail. She was right at 75 last year and was No. 3 money winner with $11,862. Today she has 1959's No. 1 average, 73.57 and is the No. 3 money winner at $11,764.2.

Marlene Bauer Hagge, who won $20,000 two years ago, took home $11,890 in 1958 and has dropped to No. 4 in the 1959 winnings at $8,700. Her average is about the same as last year at 75.44.

Betty Jameson averaged just two strokes higher than Beverly Hanson in 1958. Yet, these two strokes cost her more than $8,000.

Miss Jameson's 1958 winnings were $4,500 compared to $12,639 for Miss Hanson.

Mickey Wright, though a relative youngster to pro golf, finished fourth in 1958 winnings and is currently No. 2 at $12,300 after picking up $2,200 first prize in Sunday's Alliance (Ohio) tournament. Joyce Ziske, No. 5 currently, is a newcomer to the top 10 after finishing 14th in 1958.

Beverly Hanson is sixth in 1959 compared to being on top a year ago. Patty Berg is seventh, the same position she occupied in 1958. Wiffi Smith is eighth, also the same position she was in in 1958. Ruth Jessen is currently ninth, moving up from 15th spot from a year ago.

Rounding ou the top 10 is Mary Lena Faulk, who also was No. 10 in 1958. Not among the top 10 in 1959 are Jackie Pung and Fay Crocker.

But as any golfer knows, position doesn't mean much when a tournament gets under way, especially when there's $20,000 on the line.

Hilldale Gun Club to Hold Open Shoot

Hilldale Gun club is holding its inaugural Open Skeet shoot July 24, 25 and 26. The small guns, .410 guage and .28 guage, will be shot Friday, July 24. The twenty gauge and twenty gauge 2-man team events will be shot Saturday, July 25. The all gauge and all gauge two and 5-man team events will be shot Sunday, July 26.

Beverly Lanes To Host 1960 Bowling Tourney

Paddock bowling tournament for men, slated for the second weekend in January, 1960, will be held at Beverly Lanes.

Preliminary reservation has been made for the big tournament that last year attracted first place teams of 92 local men's leagues. The Paddock meet has become an annual event for bowlers with first place teams only as of a specified date eligible.

Sports promoters Bob Paddock expects more than 100 men's leagues to be represented this year, particularly with the opening of 36-lane Rolling Meadows Bowl shortly.

Being Caddy Also Earns Scholarship

We have mentioned many times in this column the advantages of being a caddy. The work in the out of doors, the pleasant environment, the fine people with whom to associate, the opportunity to learn a sport which one can enjoy for a lifetime, the opportunity to learn courtesy and responsibility, and the chance to earn money are among these advantages. There is still another opportunity for a few boys which outweighs all the others. There is the chance to compete for a college scholarship through the Evans Caddy Program.

Charles "Chick" Evans won many honors as a golfer in his 68 years, the most notable being the National Open and the National Amateur in 1916.

This famous double won by no other amateur in history is, however, overshadowed in Evans' life by the satisfaction he has gained through sponsorship of the Evans Scholars program. Because of his concern for caddies there are today enrolled in higher institutions of learning 373 deserving young men aided by scholarships provided by the Evans Scholars program. This plan was started long before the public awakened to the need for helping deserving students; yet this program is still the largest scholarship plan financed by individual contributions.

Provides Tuition, Free Room, Work

THE FOUNDATION PROVIDES tuition, free room rent, and an opportunity to work for board, and at the same time offers group living and group participation in campus activities through living in houses owned or leased by the foundation. The most recent university to have an Evans house is the University of Wisconsin but others are well established in the academic, social, and extra-curricular life at Northwestern, Illinois, Michigan, Michigan State, Marquette, and Minnesota.

It was 25 years ago that the first two Evans Scholars, Harold Fink and Ralph McGinnis, graduated from Northwestern University. This year and for years to come from 75 to 100 diplomas will be awarded to Evans Scholars. Evidence of the type of young men selected by the Western Golf Association for scholarships is found in the scholastic records of the students. Of 60 who graduated in 1958 there were 20 who went on for advanced degrees. The program is financed through individual contributions from members of the golf clubs which are members of the Western Golf Association.

For a caddy to qualify for an Evans Scholarship he must have caddied regularly and successfully for two years for a member club of the Western Golf Association. He must rank in the upper 25 per cent of his graduating class in high school scholastically and must need financial aid to be able to attend college. The applicant files a written application in the spring of his senior year which establishes caddy record, scholarship, and need, backed up by recommendations from school authorities, golf club caddy master and officers, and a financial statement from his parents. If he qualifies he will be called to the headquarters office at Golf, Ill., for a personal interview with notification of scholarships given out early in the summer. Winners of scholarships may attend the college of their choice but the vast majority attend the large universities of the middle west which have chapter houses.

Most Scholars from Chicago Area

MOST OF THE EVANS SCHOLARS are from the Chicago and Detroit districts though there is a scattering of winners from as far as the west coast where fewer clubs belong to the Western Association. The clubs which have had the most scholars are the Chicago clubs with the leaders Tam O'Shanter 47, Edgewater 29, Westmoreland 24, Beverly 23, and Twin Orchard 21. Locally Barrington Hills has had six with Michael Andre, Thomas Huter, and Wayne Timm in college the past year. Rolling Green has had four with Gordon Bruner and Vernon Bruner now attending Wisconsin as Evans Scholars. Inverness has had three with David Shaw at Northwestern and Jason Morgan at Illinois the past year. Itasca has had two. Both are in school at present at Illinois. They are James Tatnall and James Utaski.

Upper bracket students in elementary or the beginning high school years should consider the possibility of caddying and the opportunity for an Evans Scholarship. Boys who are caddying and have caddied several years should make a real effort to qualify and should talk over the possibilities with their caddymaster, the principal of their school, and the chairman of their caddy scholarship committee who at the Inverness Club at Palatine is Fred Breitling.

Hauff Makes July 23 Tourney Deadline

Today, July 23, is the deadline. Youthful golf promoter Dick Hauff knows that only too well while he spent a few short months whipping the Mt. Prospect country club, which he purchased only last winter, towards being a championship course.

Less than a year ago the course was a daily fee course. Today 33 of the nation's top women professionals will tee off in the 72-hole World's Women's Open or a $20,000 pot of gold.

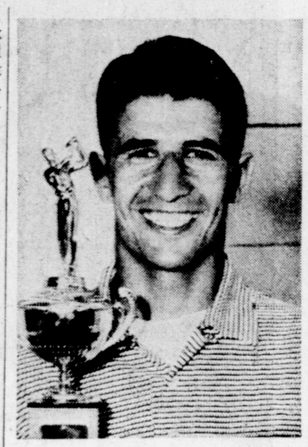
Hauff has whipped the country club into shape in two aspects, the course itself and the clubhouse.

Because of the closeness of the tournament, Hauff has not had time to enlarge the greens, but he has added 50 new traps with new sand around the greens to make approaching more difficult. He has resodded well-walked areas around the greens.

New tees, lengthening the course more than 200 yards, have been built on all 18 holes. The tees have been kept free of golfers in special preparation for the tournament.

Hauff has let the usually mowed rough grow to four to six inches of grass to give the gal golfers another obstacle.

The "Glass Room," a 200-seat dining room addition is Hauff's biggest contribution to the course. It wasn't until two months ago that rezoning was approved and construction begun. In the space of time that usually takes six months the "Glass Room" has been constructed for golf fans, eating comfort during the tournament.



DICK HAUFF

In addition, the 250-seat older dining room also will be open to the public.

To Hauff this has been a bold venture. Now it's up to the public to decide whether it's been a fruitful one.

Carlton Palmer Elected Knight Booster President

Carlton Palmer was elected 1959-60 president of the Prospect Knights Boosters during the first general meeting at Prospect high school Tuesday, July 7.

Other officers elected were Charles Francek, first vice president for membership; Walter Strobel, second vice president for publicity; Nels Anderson, third vice president for social activities; Mrs. Fred E. Empkie, secretary; and Mrs. Arvid Hanson, treasurer.

While attendance for the first meeting was far from what had been anticipated, officers believe that with continued effort and enthusiasm the Booster movement will "snowball" until the people in Prospect high school district 214 will be proud to have, and be a part of the Prospect Knights Boosters.

A poll of members present was taken and it was noticed representatives from Elk Grove and Wheeling were not present. Members present represented Mt. Prospect, Arlington Heights, and Prospect Heights. Officers hope to see this corrected soon.

Knight Boosters are asked not to wait to be asked to join but to send dues to Mrs. Arvid Hanson, 503 S. George st., Mt. Prospect. Charter memberships are $10 a family. Regular dues are $1 per person or $2 a family. Checks should be made payable to the Prospect Knights Boosters.

Committees are being formed to handle membership, publicity and social activities. Persons wishing to help on a committee are requested to call Carlton Palmer at CL 5-5847.

At the beginning of the meeting, Alvin Kulieke, Prospect high principal, and Howard Lester, athletic director, gave short but interesting talks.

6 Northwest Suburban Swimmers Place in Meet

Six northwest suburban swimmers, led by 10-year-old Pam Sheets, placed in the Lake Shore Metric Open age group swimming meet at Riis park in Chicago last Saturday and Sunday.

Pam won four events and finished third in a fifth. Her most impressive mark was winning the 100-meter individual medley swim in 1:26.7. In the preliminaries Pam swam 1:26.2 bettering the National record of 1:31.0.

The Prospect Heights miss also won the 50-meter freestyle in :34.7, the 50-meter backstroke in :39.9 and the 50-meter butterfly in :39.9. Pam placed third in the 50-meter breaststroke.

Gil LaCroix of Arlington Heights placed third in the 200-meter breaststroke and sixth in the 200 meter individual medley swim for 14-year-old boys.

An Arlington Heights 10-year-old boy, Paul Hembd, placed fifth in the 50-meter breaststroke and fifth in the 100-meter individual medley swim. Hembd swam on the medley relay team which placed second and the free style relay team which placed third.

LaCroix teamed with another Heights lad, Bob Brown, and two others to place second in their medley relay.

Doug Rice, a 14-year-old, teamed with LaCroix, Brown and Bill Keswick of Western Springs to finish second in the free-style relay.

Marguerite Dalton of Arlington Heights swam on a relay team which placed fifth in the 14-year-old girls age group.

Twenty-two teams from Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Ohio were entered as well as 90 individuals.

Most of the swimmers are expected to compete in the Tribune meet this weekend.

BILL GRIFFITH

FRED HAUTH

Final planning is now underway in preparation for the 1959 Cook County legion baseball championship playoffs at Arlington's Recreation Park, Aug. 1-4. Sponsored by Merle Guild Post 208 of Arlington Heights, the 1959 finals will match four of the state's top legion outfits in a double elimination series.

The contests on Saturday and Sunday will begin at 1 p.m. with the weekday battles opening at 5 p.m.

Two legionnaires who were instrumental last summer in handling the successful tourney are also heading the '59 spectacle: Bill Griffith (above left) and Fred Hauth.

Additional stands will be set up for the tournament, and there will be a fence added at distances specified by the officials. More information will appear in next week's sports section, including a rundown of the teams making up this year's field.

Intentionally Is Favorite To Win $160,000 Classic

"Classic Week," one of the brightest and most exciting six days in American thoroughbred racing closes Saturday with the famed mile Classic, which will gross an estimated $160,000.

Principal interest centers on the Classic, for 3-year-olds, July 25. Intentionally is the early favorite and a definite starter barring unexpected mishaps this week. On-and-On, Calumet Farm's improving colt, is virtually certain to take a second crack at Intentionally after running second to him in the Warren Wright Memorial at Washington Park June 27.

SWORD DANCER, Brookmeade Stable's small but consistent runner, is a possible starter. After running second in the Florida Derby, Kentucky Derby and Preakness, "Dancer" has scored consecutive triumphs in the Metropolitan Handicap, against older horses, and the Belmont.

Other eligibles include Howard Keck's Bagdad, second in the Belmont and winner of the $100,000 added Hollywood Derby; W. Arnold Hanger's Waltz, winner of the Jersey and Leonard Richards Stakes; Jim Norris' Easy Spur, conqueror of Sword Dancer in the Florida Derby and coming to form after being injured the week of the Kentucky Derby; Alamode Farm's Mail Order, surprise winner of the recent Saranac at Belmont; Claiborne Farm's erratic Dunce, tabbed by trainer Moody Jolley as "... the best 2-year old I ever trained;" Travis Kerr's Top Charger and Neil S. McCarthy's west coast entry of Ole Fols and Finnegan.

The "Classic," which has a major bearing on year-end polls which determine 3-year old of the year, has been won by such great runners as Gallant Fox, Native Dancer, Ponder, Challedon, Cavalcade, Nashua and Mark-Ye-Well.

THE STAKES was begun 31 years ago, has been run at the flat mile distance since 1952. To win this one, a colt must have speed and stamina.

Brookfield Farm's Intentionally, a terro at sprint distances, is ideally suited to the Classic. In the Warren Wright Memorial, also at the mile distance, Intentionally won pretty much as he pleased.

He went to the front at the start, leisurely shook off Roman Colonel after a half mile, had 2-½ lengths on On-andOn turning for home. Through the drive the Calumet colt was all out but gained nothing on the winner. Intentionally went under the wire a "handy" victor.

THE QUESTION to be resolved in the Classic is whether On-and-On has improved enough to nail Intentionally.

On-and-On's stock rose considerably in the Arch Ward Memorial Handicap July 11 when he came from far back, against older horses, and just missed catching Alhambra by a nose at the wire.

Intentionally, a black colt by Intent-My Recipe, by Discovery, has tremendous speed and owner Harry Z. Isaacs, master of Brookfield Farm, has not attempted to force his colt to go farther than his natural inclinations.

ONE MILE is far enough, decided Isaacs, and did not run Intentionally in either the Derby, Preakness or Belmont.

All-Stars To Report On NU Grid

The College All-Star football squad, 52 strong, will report today at Northwestern University in Evanston to begin training for the game with the Baltimore Colts, champions of the National Football league.

The annual All-Star contest, 26th in the series presented by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., will be held the night of August 14 in Soldiers' Field.

On reporting day, the players will check in for rooming assignments. Physical examinations will be given by Dr. William Rothman, and equipment will be issued at Dyche stadium for the first practice on Friday, July 24.

The morning of the initial practice session will be devoted to taking of pictures, but action will start Friday afternoon and continue through the first weekend.

Coach Otto Graham, who heads the All-Star coaching staff, and his five assistants, Pete Pihos, Don Doll, Lou Saban, Dick Stanfel and John Sauer, held a 2-day planning session in June, and were to meet for a day before the players check in to complete arrangements and map the training program.

Another Big Racing Night At Waukegan

Modified stock car racing moves into its eleventh big week at the Waukegan Speedway on Sunday night, July 26. Heading a field of over 50 modified stockers will be Eddie Stillman of Slinger and Ken Tlougan of Milwaukee. Stillman still maintains the point lead at the track even though not making an appearance last Sunday because of automobile difficulties. His lead of 600 points over second place point man, Bob Ratajczyk of Milwaukee, has been chopped down to 490 points. Melius, winner of two consecutive features here, is now trying to improve his point standings. He is running 20th in only two appearances.

Highlighting next Sunday's show will be the first Powder Puff Derby of the season. Women will take the wheels of the powerful modifieds and try their hand at the exciting sport. Anything can happen and usually does as the women try for the checkered flag. Promoter John Kaishian expects at least 10 to 15 women to vie for position Sunday. Time trials begin at 7:15 with the first of the racing getting under way at 8:30. The speedway is located on West Washington street, half way between U.S. 41 and Ill. 131.

"The mighty mouse of the modifieds," Miles Melius of Slinger, Wis. won his second straight feature race at the Waukegan Speedway, Sunday night, July 19. Melius made a clean sweep of the stock car events as he set the fastest qualifying time and won his ten lap heat event. In setting the fastest qualifying time, Melius turned the fastquarter mile oval in 16.50 seconds to set a new track record, averaging 54.55 mph. The old mark of 53.96 mph was held by Milt Curcio of Racine since July 5 of this year.

Card Football Camp Gets Down To Business

Coach Frank "Pop" Ivy is putting more than 40 athletes through two workouts daily at Lake Forest college, and he and his assistants are having a really tough - but happy - time trying to separate the men from the boys.

Seventeen of the Cards thirty 1958 draft choices, 12 of them were for future delivery and one player decided to forego pro ball, are among those battling for jobs. In addition the Cards have the Los Angeles Rams second, third and fourth, Washington's fifth and Detroit's sixth choices.

Only seven of those in camp have had previous National Football League experience and about 30 more vets - players who were with the Cards or other NFL teams prior to being obtained by Coach Ivy via the trade route, will report next Tuesday.

Starting last Tuesday the job of meshing the rookies with the veterans and moulding a winning team got under way in all seriousness. Scrimmages will be held a couple of times a week but the first real test will come Aug. 5 when the Cards tangle with the Argonauts Canadian League team in Toronto's new pro stadium.

After that one Ivy will be able to do quite a bit of separating—the wheat from the chaff, and the men from the boys.

Cubs Unbeaten In National Minor League

The second in the Palatine National Minor league started a week ago Monday and by the end of the week found the Cubs undefeated with two victories in as many games.

The Phillies, first half winners, the Pirates, Giants and Cards all are tied at one win and one loss apiece. The Cub-Brave game proved a most exciting one when in the last inning the winning run was scored after a long fly to the outfield, giving the Cubs a 15-14 triumph.

Mike Gooch, diminutive Pirate shortstop, put his team in the win column last Thursday by clouting a timely triple with the bases loaded to give the Pirates a 12-11 victory.

Giants, Cards Take National League Lead

The Giants and Cards jumped off to an early lead in the Palatine Major National Little League winning both second half games.

Outstanding fielding by Giant Shortstop John Warder and his perfect day with four-for-four were instrumental in the Giants knocking off the Braves, 9-7, Wednesday, July 15.

Dick Radzak, pitcher and infielder for the Cardinals, kept his team undefeated with timely hitting and steady hurling as the Cards defeated the Cubs opening night, 8-5.

David Blyth, Cub shortstop, recently returned from Scout camp and proved the jolt needed to defeat the Braves, 6-5, last Thursday. Dave collected four-for-four and his last hit scored the tying and winning runs to give his team its first victory and the Braves their second defeat. (Sp

Lorenzen, Lutz Duel At O'Hare

Two of the top stock car pilots anywhere will resume a duel that reached amazing proportions last weekend when they raced bumper-to-bumper for over 50 laps in the 75-lap Mid-Season Championship classic at O'Hare Stadium, Mannheim and Irving Park rds.

Renewing the hot rivalry at O'Hare Friday and Saturday nights will be National and O'Hare champion Fred Lorenzen of Elmhurst and the current sensasion Bill Lutz of Louisville, Ky. Gates open each night at 6 p.m. with the first race always at 8:30.

And drivers in the torrid Cadet division will be out to beat rookie Al Rak of Berwyn, the hot pilot in this group so far this season. A big, 25-lap main event for both the New-Late Models and Cadets are the highlights of each and every stock car program at O'Hare.

Fishing Tips

Tactics Change When Hot Weather Arrives

The old pros don't let a little hot weather slow them down in their fishing, they just change their tactics a bit.

Instead of allowing their brains to melt under the mid-day hot sun they take a nap or even work, indoors of course, then when the sun goes down they hustle out to the pond or lake for late evening bugging or plug popping.

Of course some fish can be caught any time during a hot summer day but a lot more per hour will be caught in the sun-down hours.

LIFE PICKS up rapidly in the average pond or lake when the sun gets a hands-breadth from the western horizon. Mosquitoes, may-flies, and other water living bugs start to hatch in large quantities. Wrd gets out to the small bluegills who come to the top to feed on these hatching bugs. Word also goes by some intangible means to the bigger fish who come to shallow water to capture the small fish. This chain reaction continues on to the smart fisherman who hurries out after five and gets in his fishing in pleasant shade.

Of course that late evening fishing may have some drawbacks. Not only do the mosquitoes hatch out but they immediately start looking for a little shot of blood. Their favorite type of blood is that carried around by an avid fisherman. Then too, it's pretty hard to see a loop in monofilament even with tri-focals when it gets good and dark.

The Illinois Federation of Sportsmen's clubs suggests that fishermen try those late evening hours for best results on these hot midsummer days. It's the duty of every progressive fisherman to do his part in keeping down the over-population of panfish usually found in Illinois ponds and lakes. It's more fun to take fish on top water baits and late evening is the best time to do it.

Playoff Probable For District Title

Palatine vs. Franklin Park.

Slated for Wednesday night at Franklin Park, that contest held the key to the ninth district junior legion baseball chase.

If Palatine got by the hosts as expected, a two-team deadlock would have developed necessitating a playoff for the league championship.

IF FRANKLIN PARK upset Claude Bailey's nine, Park Ridge would have gained the covered berth in the Cook County legion finals.

If the game were rained out, a makeup game would have been determined by the respective coaches.

In any respect, last night's scheduled contest at Franklin Park—if played—would have established the final results in the tight pennant chase which has been going on all summer between Palatine and Park Ridge.

AFTER A SLOW start, Park Ridge has been coming strong and the Mel Tierney Post capped its rush with an impressive 5-0 no-hit victory over Arlington Monday night.

Bespectacled right hander Jim Humay tossed the whitewash job at Dave Lynk's club and allowed only three runners to reach base—one on a walk, one on an error, and one on a fielder's choice.

Gene Dahlquist matched talents with Humay for five innings Monday, yielding only one hit, but the defending district champs exploded in the sixth with three runs on four hits.

C. O. Michaelson, district chairman, indicated Tuesday that if Palatine won its game with Franklin Park, a best two-of-three series, with Park Ridge would be open Saturday at a location to be determined.

Braves Clinch Meadows Little League Title

A three-run outburst in the last inning by the Cubs gave them a 3-3 tie with the Braves, league leaders of the Rolling Meadows Little League, but it didn't prevent the Braves from clinching the title in their July 15 game. Ken Peters aided the Brave cause with a home run.

The Braves made their league triumph even more convincing with a 10-1 conquest of the Sox Friday behind Peters' four-hit pitching. Peters fanned nine Sox batters while walking none and losing pitcher Tony Lega had had strike outs.

Bob Prucha's single drove in Sims, who had singled and stolen second, in the last of the sixth to give the Yanks a 6-5 triumph over the Sox and maintain second place. Hildebrandt, who came on in the fourth with the bases loaded and no one out and got out of the inning without anyone scoring off him, received credit for the win.

Harris, Blane and Pfieffer all had doubles for the Sox while Prucha doubled for the Yanks.

Last Thursday the Cardinals with a four-run fourth inning outburst defeated the Indians, 5-2, on Rowbottom's two-hitter. One of the Indians' hits was Gilreath's home run and the other was Zagraphous' double. Tatar and Mahoney both doubled for the Cardinals.

The Cubs defeated the Cardinals, 6-1, Monday, July 13, behind the pitching of Bob Hickey.

Meadows 9 Beaten by Northlake

Behind the three hit pitching of Don Murphy, Northlake defeated Rolling Meadows, 3-0, Wednesday, July 15, in Northlake in a ninth district Junior Legion baseball game.

The game was in the last of the sixth because of darkness and erased Rolling Meadows lone sixth inning run.

Northlake scored twice in the first inning. Roger Lenberg walked to open the inning and then proceeded to steal second base. Murphy's single sent Lenberg home. Murphy also stole second and advanced to third on a passed ball from where he scored on a passed ball.

In the fourth, Bieneman singled and Lodding and Ridley walked to load the bases. Lenberg then fielded to left to score Bieneman.

Rolling Meadows' three single were scattered between Tom and Jay Broderick and John Wortheimer.

Redbirds' Holveck Raps Two Grand-Slam Homers

Even "Hammerin' Henry" or "Killer Killebrew" would have to take notice of Larry Holveck's batting feats last week.

The young Redbirds' star unloaded two grand slam homers in ONE game in leading his team to a smashing 23-8 victory over the Broncs in the Arlington Southside Juniors league.

Holveck's achievement was undoubtedly the highlight of the week's play but the rain-interrupted schedule also saw some other outstanding individual efforts.

A one-hitter by Jack Curtin enabled the Cardinals to stop the Braves, 4-1, in the National League, and the Dodgers' Hamilton fanned nine, walking none, and drove in two runs in his team's easy 6-3 victory over the Cubs.

Select Right Club, Improve Golf Game

(This is the ninth in a series of golf columns by Chuck Pedersen, Class A PGA professional at Rolling Green country club.)

That hack full of clubs you own can be mighty helpful to you—if you are using the right ones! Or they can cause you a lot of trouble if you don't take the time to think a shot through.

Each club in your bag has a definite job to do on a certain area of a golf course. When you select the right club, you take the first important step toward making a successful shot.

When a golf pro selects his club or a top flight amateur makes his choice, you will notice they know precisely what each club will do for them.

WHEN YOU select your club, you must take into consideration the wind, distance, obstacles, and the condition of the course. Here is a table that can be used as a general guide in selecting the right club.

CLUB	DISTANCE
Driver	240-275 yards & up
Brassie	220-265
3 wood	200-245
4 wood	195-220
2 iron	175-205
3 iron	165-200
5 iron	145-175
6 iron	135-165
7 iron	125-155
8 iron	115-145
9 iron	105-135
pitching wedge
edge of green to 100 yards
sand wedge
edge of green to 40 yards

This is a rough guide and in many cases, you may find that a two iron just isn't enough club for you to hit for 190 yards. You may not command that kind of power.

IT IS THEN a simple matter for you to go to your wood clubs. Each golfer must choose his club according to the distance he gets when hitting naturally.

When a pro picks a club, he doesn't have to force himself to make distance with it, nor does he baby himself on a shot in order to remedy over-clubbing. The weather and the wind have a lot to do with the choice of clubs.

Other things, such as the texture of the grass and the amount of moisture both in the air and on the ground count heavily. Example: Take clover for instance. You will note that it takes two clubs less than usual. That's because a ball skids or slides from a clover lie. The oily texture of small leaves greases the club face when it contacts the ball, making it impossible to impart backswing.

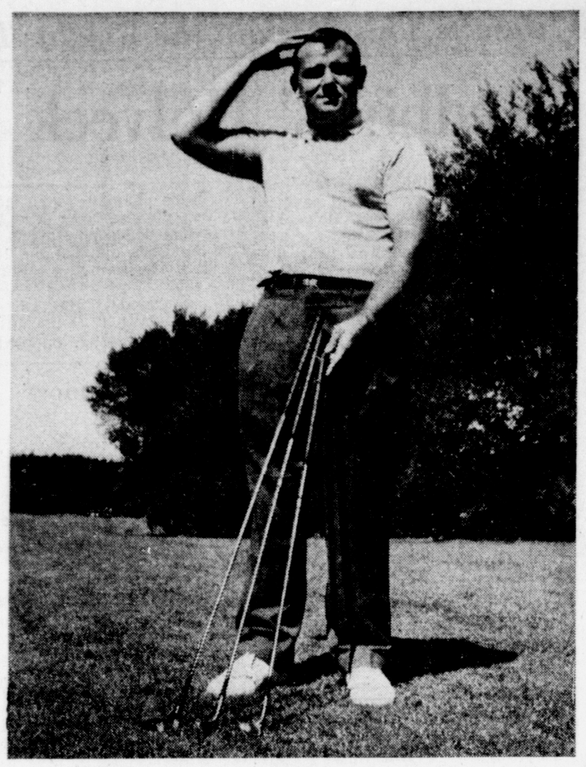
EVEN AMONG the pros, a variety of clubs will be used on the same shot. A tremendous hitter like Sam Snead will use an iron while an average golfer will be hitting his woods.

It doesn't matter what club you use to get to the green—as long as you get there in fewer strokes. The best way to find out your distance with each club is to go to a driving range and see how far you hit the ball with each club.

From here you will have an idea how to play each shot with the various clubs accordingly.



PERPLEXING PROBLEM which confronts many golfers is the choice of the right club. In this lesson golf pro Chuck Pedersen explains how to make the right selection.

JUST DOGS

Lost Dog

During the summer months when many dogs seem to develop a slight case of the wanderlust and stray away from their owners, it is important that, when advertising for a lost dog, a clear description be given. What the reader of your notice chiefly needs to know is what your dog looks like and his color and markings.

Most notices of lost or found dogs are placed in the classified advertising columns, and as such become a question of getting the message across in a small space. Avoid cluttering the notice with unimportant information. Stick to the facts. Thus, it is of no value to someone when you state that your dog "doesn't like strangers" or that he has a "love for pickles." Chances are that very few people will get close enough to him to find out what he likes and dislikes. Such information just takes up space.

Unless the dog is a puppy or an extremely old dog, there is no advantage to stating that the dog "is about 2 years old." There are few persons even among the experts who can tell at a glance while a dog is dashing down the street, or through the fields, whether he is two years old or six.

Remember, stick to the facts. Breed, color and general markings, call name, male or female, and your name, address and phone number. If the dog has his rabies tag on his collar, along with the city or village tag, this will help, so it might be wise to mention one or the other, especially if the dog is picked up and the person who has found the animal wants to be sure he has the right one.

Plastic Bags

At the end of his last column, your editor remarked about the problem that pets can run into with these light weight plastic bags which cover clothes brought home from the cleaners these days.

Unfortunately, when the column went to press, the item was cut or not run in some editions.

It is important enough, however, to repeat. Don't let dogs, cats or any other pet get involved with these plastic bags. Sometimes puppies will play around paper bags and climb into them, but just because they do don't drape one of these plastic jobs over the pup's head and body and let him work out of it.

Under certain static electrical conditions the material will cling to the animal and you may have a suffocation on your hands before the pet can get out of the bag. In recent weeks there has been much talk and writing in the newspapers about this problem, as it applies to children, and even the radio and TV have taken up the ball and started to run with it. Remember, it also applies to pets.

Hot Days

Don't forget to take care of your dog during the hot summer days. Ridding him of insect pests and seeing that he has plenty of water will help.

If you are thinking about giving him a "crew-cut"; forget it—he'll be more miserable than comfortable. For one thing, the short hairs will prick him every time he moves and, also, flies and mosquitos will declare "open season" on him.

Keep an eye out for ticks and fleas. Both can make a dog miserable and ticks alone can get to a point where the dog's health can be impaired. Check the dog over every day or so for these pests. A good combing and proper medication and removal of such insects will keep the dog in good condition during the summer. Also, remember — sometimes on real hot days you don't want to be bothered and you get hot and irritable. So — you want to "be alone." Your dog is just about the same.

PH Outfit May Make Tourney

With one week to go in Rob Roy play before the August 1 Paddock tournament deadine, the leading team, Prospect Heights Service Station increased its lead to 5½ points. They took a 5½-1½ decisio nover J. L. Stearns. Borchards, who have been moving up lately, took a 6-1 victory to land them in 6th place in the standings. Low net for the evening went to Hap Procunier with a fine 30 on the front nine.

Low net for No. 1 players was taken by Wayne Rolfs with a 32, while Jim Johnson's net of 31 was low for No. 2 players.

Last week the writer was out of town, and consequently missed the deadline for publication. It seems fitting and proper that we mention a few low scores this week for last week's play. Bill Behrens and Dick Hanselman tied with a 30 for low that evening. They were closely followed by Joe Boder with a 31. Congratulations to Joe for his fine 44. Herb Jackish's low net 32 was also a fine round played.

Len Arnold Fires 34, Pharmacy in Easy Win

The Old Orchard scratch league's steadiest and most winningest golfer was again showing his prowess with the golf stick by collecting another match win and scoring a one under par 34 on the front nine. Len Arnold's aggregate score of two 3's and seven 4's was required in order to defeat Bob Blessing who shot a fine 36. Jim Rowader, John Keeley and Gillespie pitched in to give Len an assist for Arlington Pharmacy's 6½ point win.

The long hittesr of the Kamp's Signs team amassed five points when lanky Ed Moehling continued his string of deuces by dropping a four iron tee shot near the flag on the 235 yard par three eighteenth and sinking the putt for a par 36. The long booming tee shots also carried Marv Kamp's to a 2-up victory over John Gertenrich and a one birdie 39. The Budweiser quintet salvaged three points on wins by Robert Lee and John Neubauer, as Bob collected a string of seven fours, a three, and a bogey six.

THE McLENNON Acoustical Tiler's, or the league's elite set as they are known, continued their dominant role by nosing out the L'Nor Cleaner team 6-2. Winners for the McLennon team included big Bill Hugo, Bill Schwerin, Long Hitting Fred tSeinken and William Jackish. They look like sure bets to participate in Paddock's Gala Golf event, while the fifth man will be the hole-in-one kid, Woody "Ace" Haake, who lost his match on the last hole when his opponent Ed Prellberg sunk a birdie putt on No. 9. The "Ace" but he came close with a birdie deuce on the par three water hole fourth.

Lohr's Pharmacy's team continued their stolid technique and point accumulating ways when they won every team which played. The team was led by lefty Dan Musser (38) and Ed Spacapan (38). Big Dan won his match although he was tied in medal score by Dick Burkett while Ed Spacapan won his match easily with a 4-up point maker. Joe Lohr and John Eiler supplied the final blows to carry the Pharmacy team.

DAVE BORGARDT stroked his way around the back nine for his second straight par round. Borgardt amassed two birds, five round but the Arlington Rest pars and two bogey's for his fine Home team was easily rolled over by the Roto-Mercury drivers. The second place Mercury men were led by Frank Matyas who needed two birdies for his par 36 score and Shelby Stewart who scored a 36 by power driving eight 4's and a 5. The final blow for the Rest Home team showed up in the person of Bob Hornbostel who chipped in a seven iron on the 430 yard thirteenth hole and continued to shoot his 1—over 37 and match win.

Paddock Classic League Has Slots For 190-Bowlers

Hot weather may still be bothering the neighborhood, but officers of Paddock Classic Traveling bowling league are working in air conditioned quarters planning for the new season.

Most of the teams are well set for the new year, but one or two still have openings for 190-average keglers. Any 190-average bowlers interested in this loop are urged to contact loop president Ward Siewert, or Bob Paddock of Paddock Publications.

Arlington Milk Golfers Win, 7-0

Quadriga Mfg. Co. seems to be the only obstacle in the way of Arlington Milk's entry into the Paddock tournament. Wednesday evening, July 15, proved to be a real slugfest as three teams were whitewashed and one other picked up only 1½ points as they squared off in the Wayside-Colette league at Chevy Chase.

Arlington Milk took on the fourth place Lauterburg & Oehler squad and although there were some close matches, Arlington Milk picked up all the marbles as they thumped L & O 7-0. Jim Stahlhut returned after a month's absence to lead the dairy team with a 33 net. Homer Cokenhower, Mert Taylor, Bud Garms and Larry Taylor each pitched in with match victories.

Quadriga Mfg. Co., led by Augie Bonucchi's 34 net, defeated Continental Can Corp. 5½-1½. Continental Can was hurt by the absence of their No. 1 and No. 2 men as their alternates could not match the scores of Earl Scherer and Bonucchi. Les Traub and Dick Ulbrich chipped in on the 5½ points for Quadriga while Jim Cronin and Bob Pagliai took care of C. C.'s points.

Jim's Service Station moved into third place by knocking over Roll King 7-0. The team of Don Engstrom, Joe Foreman, Lou Stefanik, Tom Barrett and Bill Hickey were too much for Roll King with Barrett getting a 33 net for the individual honors.

Thos. A. Catino Bldrs. moved out of last place by swamping Garden Liquors also by a score of 7-0. This hurt the liquor store team as they were in a tie for second place going into the night's battle. Jordan (One-way) Italia, Len Pearson, Sam Miller, John Bolling and Ray (Round-trip) Burke formed the winning combination with Pearson getting low net with a 34. Garden Liquor was handicapped by the failure of three men to turn in scores. As in the past, a check of the league records will show that the top teams are there because they have all of their men playing each week.

Low gross was turned in by Homer Cokenhower of Arlington Milk with a 39. Birdies were shot by Earl Scherrer on 2, Cokenhower on 2, Bob Wirth on 4, Len Pearson on 8, Bill Carey on 8, and Lou Stefanik on 12.

Keefer's Routs Realty, Aims for Paddock Berth

With a clean-sweep 10 point victory over their "cousins" from Nelson Realty and with all matches for July 21 cancelled due to the Women's Tournament at Mt. Prospect Country Club, Keefer's Pharmacy looks like a "shoo-in" to represent the Tuesday division of the Mt. Prospect Twilight league in the Paddock Publications tournament. The only hurdle remaining is their July 28 match with Mt. Prospect Bowling Lanes, currently residing three points out of last place, and barring complete collapse that shouldn't represent too formidable an obstacle.

Their victory over Nelson Realty represented Keefer's second 10 point sweep over the Nelson aggregation. The first occurred the opening night of play, April 28, and got the Pharmacists off to a flying start. For this second match Nelson's sent in an entirely new team of all alternates, but the results were the same, 10-0. Talk of a possible investigation is being circulated by the other contenders.

CHIEF CONTENDER, Golden's Food shop, currently pressing Keefer's in second place, turned in another 8-2 victory this week, this time over Carl's Food Shop. Third place Wille Lbr. & Fuel maintained their position by defeating O'Day Realty, 6-4. Their efforts to displace Keefer's were to no avail, however, in view of the 10 points piled up by the Pharmacy.

In other matches Mt. Prospect Elec. Constr. edged Kersting's Bowling Lanes, 7½-2½, and Annen & Busse Realtors upset Garden Center 5½-4½, Mt. Prospect Jewelers outsparkled the Licht's Paint Store, 7-3.

Birdies were reported by J. Driscoll No. 3, J. Bannister No. 9, W. Stanton No. 11, J. Foster No. 13, Ron Hawkinson No. 13 and No. 18.

Bankers Won 1st Tourney

It wasn't sunburn that made sports promoter Bob Paddock's face red Thursday, it was omitting the name of the winner of the first Paddock team golf tournament, Arlington Heights National Bank of the Arlington Heights league at Mt. Prospect country club in 1950.

Apologies are extended playing teammates Carl Engel, Tony Felker, Bob Dieball and Bill Shasberger. Chuck Kleinofen, regular member of the team, was unable to compete that day due to conflict with another tournament.

IRONICALLY that same Kleinofen is now a member of the rules committee of the Pure Oil golf league that just last week filed its intention to enter the meet.

Thus, first place squads of 15 twilight loops will be competing for the large traveling trophy, 12 medals, and a dozen golf balls (low individual net) the third Sunday in August at Glendale Country club.

FIRST PLACE teams as of Aug. 2 are eligible. Only local leagues with at least eight teams of four or more men each are eligible to compete.

In event substitutions have to be made, or any conflict arises as to exactly who is going to represent any league, the officers of that loop have the responsibility of making the decision.

Al Kruse Qualifies For Tourney

Al Kruse of Mt. Prospect, a senior at Arlington high, tied for medal honors in the United States Golf assocfation's Junior Amateur sectional qualifying round Monday at the Riverside golf club.

Kruse fired a 72 on two 36s to tie Ray Barnhart of Gleneagles golf club.

The event was sponsored by the Chicago District golf association and the top three boys in Monday's test will represent this section in the national tournament at Stanford University, Aug. 5. John Levinson of Glen Flora will join Kruse and Barnhart.

Dave Howland, Palatine high school golf star representing Inverness, fired a 42-37-79.

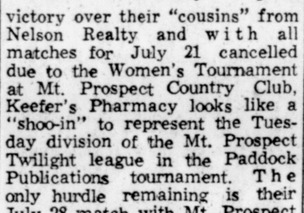
FOOD FOR THOUGHT



by Edward Rentz

Africa is a rather large chunk of real estate chiefly known for its big game and spices when it comes to eating.

Since our markets do not stock "aardvark sirloins" we are going to give you as "Food For Thought" a few names of dishes of coastal countries where they deal in more tractable animals and less gamey dishes. In Algeria, DJEDJAD MAA LOZ is plain Chicken with almonds; In Egypt, DJED BIL MBED is our old friend the chicken again but this time, with wine. When you visit Zanzibar you will be treated to MOKOTO, which is known to you locally as plain old stewed tripe, and last but by no means least LOSO YE MBIJI A MAZA is Senegalese fish and rice and of course you will find it in Senegal.

Baton Twirling Is Popular With Arlington Hts. Girls

By JOEL CARTER

This week is National Baton Twirling Week according to officials of the National Baton Twirling association with headquarters in Janesville, Wis.

While every week is declared national something-or-other week by someone we think this observance deserves pointing out. Its purpose is to focus attention on the sport and point out twirling's popularity.

There are an estimated 1,000,000 drum majors, majorettes and twirlers in the United States. Arlington Heights has over 500 girls enjoying the sport in the park program and in private classes or drill groups.

THE BATON association is holding a national jamboree in South Milwaukee and contests are being held in other cities.

Many little girls are enjoying the sport as part of the park disgram. They will not have any special contests this week but on August 11 all the twirlers will be in the first Arlington Heights gymnarama. Each class will give a number in the show which will also feature dance and gymnastic acts .

They will do a mass number with 400 pairs of red and white pom-poms. Mass twirling and small marching acts will also be featured.

PONY TAIL softball is our name for the sport as practiced by junior high school girls. The youthful lassies use a 14 inch ball which is 2 inches greater in circumference than the standard ball. It enables them to play without gloves but is not big enough to be hard to throw.

A team from the Pioneer playground hosted a Des Plaines nine last week and won 11-2. Mrs. Alice Paluch coached the girls.

The big sport at Nilo Fannuchi's Recreation playground is, oddly, chess. The kids will shuffle pawns and rooks for hours and some of them are pretty good at the intellectual game. College junior Fannuchi has taken a beating from more than one 12-year-old master. A tournament is now under way to determine the local champion.

Bus Drivers Call Off Strike

Drivers for the United Motor Coach company Tuesday called off a strike they had scheduled for yesterday, agreeing in a secret vote to terms offered by the company.

The strike would have affected 21,000 northwest suburban commuters who daily use the company's 66 busses to and from the Loop.

The union, local 1028 of the Amalgamated Association of Street Electric Railway & Motor Coach Employees, in its secret ballot voted to accept terms it had previously rejected. The pact calls for a 3-year contract with 7c an hour raises each year and six extra paid holidays. (B8

Coffey Orders Enough To Feed Whole Towns

There is one Palatine resident whose weekly grocery list would stagger the average homemaker | pear regularly on the marketing schedule of Donald Coffey, but by week's end there are positive-Orders for one ton of beef ap- .y no leftovers.

The beef disappears almost as fast as Coffey serves it at his McDonald's drive-in at 1592 E. Northwest Highway. The same goes for potatoes, Coffey using up two tons a week. Shortening is another item Coffey buys by the ton.

And that's the way he orders week in and week out all year round. Notes Coffey, "I'm beginning to feel like a branch of the Quartermaster Corps."

One of more than 100 McDonald's operators in 22 states in the nation and one of the biggest gross volume, Coffey has become a figure expert since he opened. For instance, he has figured out an average time for serving a full meal at his McDonald's drive-in — 50 seconds. "That's the average time it takes to serve a full course meal of hamburger, French fries and milkshake," he says, "but believe it or not, we've had some youngsters beat that record as far as gulping it all down."

About 70,000 hamburgers a month are consumed in summer months and more than 40,000 in the winter season, Coffey estimates. "Add about 30,000 bags of French fries and 20,000 milkshakes a month and you can understand why a drive-in operator begins to feel like he's running a Quartermaster depot," notes Coffey.

How many hamburgers will the average customer consume? It all depends, says Coffey on what goes with it. Two hamburgers when accompanied by a shake and fries is the limit, but when the beverage is coffee or a soft drink, it isn't unusual for a customer to eat three of the big burgers.

"Palatine was chosen for a McDonald's drive-in because it is primarily a family community, Coffey says. "While most drive-in restaurants cater to passing cars on the highway, McDonald's customers are mostly local family groups. They are, in fact, over 90 per cent of our patronage." (BB

Home Accidents Are A Growing Problem

Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home — despite the accident statistics.

The statistics might make you wonder about "home, sweet home."

1. Home accidents kill more children 1-4 years of age than any disease.

2. Home falls take 12,000 lives a year.

3. Home fires and other burns take the lives of 5,500 persons annually.

4. Accidental poisoning in the home claims 1,000 victims a year.

"Home accidents," the National Safety Council reports, "kill 27,000 persons a year, and injure more than four million.

"In view of these facts," the council said, "you may well be concerned with the safety of your home.

"But when you stop and consider the great number of hours spent in the home, the statistics are more understandable even if the danger is just as real."

A HAZARD-free home, the council said, results from practicing the safe way of doing things. "You'll soon do them automatically," it predicted.

Here are some danger signals to watch out for in the home:

1. Water or grease on the kitchen floor.

2. An unlighted stair, or toys and boxes piled on stair steps.

3. Oily rags or papers left in a corner of the basement.

4. Dull knives, which are dangerous because they force the user to apply too much pressure, and because most people don't have the proper respect for them.

5. Pots on the stove, the handles turned out for little hands to grab.

6. Rubbing alcohol, candy-coated laxatives, and aspirin left for small children to sample.

Internist Opens Office In Arlington

Lebanon is a long way from Arlington Heights, but a native of that country, Dr. George Keverian, a graduate from the American university at Beirut and later at a Chicago college, has opened an office in the medical building at 1430 N. State rd.

He is an internist and will devote himself to that field of medicine. When asked how he happened to come to Arlington, he said, "I chose this area because I like the community and the class of people who make their homes here. With the completion of the hospitals which are under construction and the specialists who have been attracted here, I feel that this community will soon be absolutely medically independent of Chicago."

DURING WORLD war I, he spent four years with the British navy as a civilian. In 1956 he entered the American university at Beirut; received a degree in biology and chemistry; continued his medical studies there for three years, then came to America where he completed them.

Dr. Keverian served his internship at Wesley Memorial hospital, Chicago, and has just completed three years as a resident in internal medicine at Wesley Memorial hospital.

Dr. and Mrs. Keverian reside at 323 Hatlen, Mt. Prospect. The third member of the family is a 15-month-old daughter. He is a member of Arlington Heights Methodist church. (BB

30 Million Hamburgers In 6 Months

A record total of 30,032,176 hamburgers were sold in the first six months of 1959 by McDonald's drive-in restaurant, reported Ray A. Kroc, president of the national chain.

Sales volume almost doubled in the first half of the year, increasing to $8,641,039 from $4,355,646 in the same period of 1958. The number of McDonald's units rose to 107, compared to 61 at the same time in 1958. The chain operates in 23 states, and has a drive-in locally at 1592 E. Northwest hwy., Arlington Heights. Operator of the Arlington Heights unit is Donald E. Coffey.

THE McDONALD'S chain specializes in a 15-cent hamburger, retaining the same price as when the first unit was established in 1958 in San Bernardino, Cal.

"At our present rate of growth, we expect to have more than 200 units open before the end of 1959," stated Kroc. Total sales gross for 1959 is projected at more than $20 million and operations of the chain will be extended to seven new states including Nebraska, North Carolina, Oregon, Washington, South Dakota, New Mexico and Wyoming.

"Our drive-in signs now say more than 100 million hamburgers have been sold by McDonald's since its start. Actually we expect to sell more than 100 million hamburgers just in the year of 1959," declared Kroc.

The Miller Fluid Power Story . . .

It Started In 1903 With The Miller Engine Co. In Chicago

By Don Edwalds

It all started back in 1903, with a handful of employees, 5,000 square feet of space for facilities and a limited market for marine engines.

In those days, and up until 1942, it was the Miller Engine Company of Chicago. Then a new era—almost a new and second history—began. In June, 1941, the company became a partnership between Frank Flick and William J. Reedy and took on a new name, the Miller Motor Company.

Flick, a graduate mechanical engineer, became president and chief engineer of the new corporation, and Reedy took charge of purchasing and finances.

World War II followed soon, and the company devoted its entire capacity to war work, specializing in designing and building automatic machines for manufacturing gas masks and other war equipment. That capacity soon was not nearly enough, and in 1943, Miller Motor Company more than doubled its space, to 12,500 feet, in quarters on North Kedzie Avenue in Chicago.

In its wartime operations, Miller used air and hydraulic cylinders in machine manufacture, and all through the war years, many types were tried. These cylinders lacked the rigid qualifications desired at Miller.

This absence of perfection led to the development of its own cylinders by Miller, and in 1944, the first Miller-made, cylinders emerged, incorporating new features such as solid steel bar stock heads and caps, hard chrome plated piston rods, dirt wiper seals and tie rod construction. All these features were designed to reduce maintenance, prolong service life and give top performance under the heavy duty service demanded then and even more so now.

Subsequent refinements in the basic Miller cylinder design led to a product of the highest standards of performance and opened up many new avenues of application.

Under the continued expert guidance of Flick and Reedy, the company grew by leaps and bounds, now with its own product—hydraulic cylinders of the highest quality for uses still not exhausted.

The company's rapid growth led to another move in 1950, to new quarters in Melrose Park with the most up-to-date machine tools and equipment.

And it's evident now, with the beautiful new Bensenville plant sitting on 95 acres of land, that expansion didn't end in the suburb west of Chicago.

In its latest move, the Flick-Reedy Corporation has planned for even further expansion, but with its vast acreage and building designed for easy additions, growth can be accomplished without moving again.

All this rapid growth has naturally produced growing pains, with the usual hurdles and bottlenecks to overcome. Miller management, with its "family of employees," has met the challenge each and every time.

Here are examples of the "family" atmosphere at Flick-Reedy which has inspired the company's outstanding growth:

Since 1947, the company has been paying quarterly bonuses to every one of its permanent employees, with the size of the bonus pie depending on efficiency and production. There's a liberal profit-sharing pension trust, which went into effect in 1950, with contributions made only by the company. And there's also a comprehensive group insurance plan.

Sports and other social activities also play an important role in Flick-Reedy employee relationships, Miller has its own bowling league, sports club, aqualung club and other activities. There's an annual Christmas party and an annual summer picnic held especially for employees and their families, both happy company traditions.

Since 1952, instructors from the Henry George School of Social Science have conducted courses in basic economics which are available to all employees.

In 1954, Miller Motor Company became a corporation, the Miller Fluid Power Company, and now Miller and Tru-Seal are divisions of Flick-Reedy in the new Bensenville plant.

The new plant's recreational facilities include a picnic grove, baseball diamond, archery range, swimming pool and much more. In true community spirit, Flick-Reedy hopes that these fine new facilities will be available at times for use by the communities and Bensenville and Wood Dale.

A Challenge to Planners

One of the nation's leading land use experts sees in the new superhighway program a challenge to planners.

At each interchange (where superhighways have exits to secondary roads) a city may be expected to spring up in the future, he states. Landscape architects have an opportunity to plan these "node cities" so that they offer a pleasing break in the monotony of driving along a flawless road.

Driving the new express routes is like eating roast beef three times a day — excellent fare, but you get a little tired of it, Dr. Clawson observes. The node cities may offer just the change needed if properly designed. But if they grow up unplanned, they will only repeat mistakes of the past.

'Hyd-Air' Completed 7th Year This Spring

"Hyd-Air," the official house organ of the Flick-Reedy corporation, celebrated its seventh anniversary this April. The paper, with a 40,000 circulation, is edited by A. A. Flick Jr.

Reservists Take Part in Air Lift

Air Force officials have announced that nearly 300 Chicago and suburban area air reserve members of the 64th Troop Carrier squadron from O'Hare will participate in 'Exercise Air Lift" to be conducted in the vicinity of Columbus, Ind., August 1 to 14.

Flying C-119 "Flying Boxcars," the unit's own aircraft, the local reserve squadron will leave O'Hare International airport in a massive air lift scheduled to begin at 7:30 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 1. The so-called "Weekend Warriors" will join with air reservists from Michigan and Oklahoma at Bakalar Air Force base, the joint headquarters site.

LT. COL. RICHARD E. George, 2015 W. 65th st., Chicago, commanding officer of the 64th, said that the maneuver will enable the Chicago air reserve unit to demonstrate its capacity and capability to respond to emergency mobilization needs. The primary mission of the 64th Troop Carrier squadron is to provide for long-range movement of airborne forces, equipment and supplies and military personnel including air evacuation.

Chicago's air reservists are a part of more than 17,000 Air Force Reservists throughout the nation participating in summer training exercises. The summer encampments are an annual requirement for air reserve units, and are a phase of Air Force plans to assure that reserve air forces are constantly trained and organized to meet any threat to national security.

MARINE AIR RESERVE radar specialists — from ground-controlled interception officers right on down to enlisted "plotters" - run through last-minute training problems at Glenview air station in preparation for "Operation READY." "READY" is the annual active duty for training exercises specially-designed to harden the Marines' reserve air arm. The military calisthenics are being held at the Marine Corps Air station, Cherry Point, N.C., and at the Marine Corps Auxiliary Air station, Beaufort, S.C., from July 18 to August 2. For the entire two weeks, the air-minded marines from 10 major U.S. metropolitan centers from the midwest and east coast will study every phase of Marine Corps aviation. While the pilots train in aerial gunner, close air support, flak suppression and ground-controlled interception, the enlisted men will be learning of the newest developments in their military specialties. All Advancement Records Shattered at Scout Camp

Despite poor weather, which cancelled several activities, scouts attending Camp Napowan of the Northwest Suburban Council during the second camping period shattered all previous advancement records.

Troops from the greater northwest suburban area including scouts from Des Plaines, Park Ridge, Skokie, Mt. Prospect, Niles, Palatine, Barrington, Arlington Heights, Prospect Heights and Rolling Meadows participated in the action packed two weeks.

OUTSTANDING among the individual achievements was the earning of enough merit badges by one boy to qualify for the rank of Eagle, which is the highest in scouting. Every scout who attended Camp Napowan, located in mid-Wisconsin 200 miles from the heart of the council, the second period advanced one rank, with several moving two steps closer to the Eagle rank.

With 200 scouts in camp the second period, over 270 merit badges were earned by the scouts ranging in age from 11 to 18. This merit badge mark established a new over-all camp advancement record.

The handicraft area, as did the other program areas, found its previous advancement records outmoded by the second period campers. Over 115 scouts earned one of the seven merit badges offered in the handicraft area, with 34 scouts earning Basketry merit badge. Better stocks of leather and leather goods made it possible for more scouts than ever to qualify for Leatherwork merit badge. At handicraft it is not all work with no play for many scouts found time to make gifts for relatives, friends and themselves.

One of the highest awards offered in the water front program is the Scout Life Guard, which is open only to boys who have finished lifesaving, swimming and rowing merit badges. Four scouts had these necessary qualifications and met the other requirements of the Scout Life Guard award.

Once again the water carnival gave scouts a chance to compete with other scouts in various aquatic skills. All scouts, whether a non-swimmer, beginner or a swimmer, found some event in which he could compete with a fellow scout of the same swimming ability.

WILDERNESS camping, another opportunity offered to troops in the Northwest Suburban Council at Camp Napowan, found two units take advantage of Napowan Wilderness Camp. Here the boys live in their own troop's tents and do all of their own cooking. This provides a chance for all boys camping in the wilderness area to earn cooking and camping merit badges.

The campcraft area, with the added strength of the two troops camping in wilderness, had over 70 merit badges earned by scouts during the two weeks. Thirty-five boys went home with camping merit badge which is required of all boys desiring to become an Eagle scout.

Trips to a saw mill and fish hatchery were taken by boys working on several nature merit badges. The nature program also found many boys enter the Camp Napowan fishing contest which was a new innovation in the program the second period.

The rainy and windy weather hindered the scouts' action on the rifle and archery ranges. However, 18 acouts returned from Camp Napowan with a National Rifle Association award for proficiency with a 22 rifle.

BESIDES ALL the work on advancement much time is devoted by the scouts to the general recreation areas. A staff-camper baseball game, treasure and a nature scavenger hunts and other camp-wide games help the scouts enjoy their stay at Camp Napowan.

Of course the fun and fellowship of campfires was enjoyed by the scouts, also. When bad weather stopped out-of-doors activity, indoors activities brought out hidden talents in both the campers and the staff.

The scouts who attended Camp Napowan the second period, their parents and leaders should feel that the boys did a great job at Camp Napowan, for they did. (B8

SUBURBANITES IN THE NEWS

OFTEN MISUSED

Although "necessaries" is acceptable, it is considered better to use the word "necessities."

Do not say, "Each of the plates was identical in color." Say, "The plates were identical in color." The "each" makes the idea singular, whereas "identical" requires two things to be compared.

Distinguish between acceptance (the act of receiving or taking) and acceptation (general acceptane of a word; a usage). Thus: "His acceptance of the gift was gracious," and, "Common acceptation permits us to say 'auto' and 'plane'."

Do not say, "I have no doubt but what he will come." This is considered awkward. It is much better to say, "I have no doubt that he will come."

Do not say, "He believed as how he should be fined." Say, "He believed that he should be fined."

Do not say, "Our plant is larger than any in the state." Say, "Our plant is larger than any other in the state."

Often Mispronounced

Homogeneity (uniformity of substance). Pronounce hoh-moh-jehn-ee-a-tee, principal accent on fourth syllable.

Imprimatur (sanction). Pronounce im-prim-ai-ter, principal accent on third syllable.

Nausea. Pronounce nah-shee-a, accent on first syllable.

Abstractly. Accent first syllable, not the second.

Monotheist. Pronounce mahn-oh-thee-ist, principal accent on first syllable.

Succes d'estime (a critical success, but not a popular success). Pronounce suck-seh-dess-te em, accent second and fourth syllables.

Often Misspelled

Negligent (careless); negligible (insignificant). Pincers (the tool); not "pinchers." Chaise longue; not "chaise lounge," as is sometimes seen and pronounced. Facet (plane surface of a gem; also, a phase or aspect); faucet (a spout). Canape (appetizer); canopy (covering). Comprehension, "sion;" contravention, "tion."

WORD STUDY

"Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Words for this lesson:

Potpourri; generally, any kind of mixture. Specifically, a jar of flower petals to scent a room. In music, a medley. In books, a collection. (Pronounce poh-poo-ree, principal accent on last syllable.

Suffuse; to overspread, as with, vapor, fluid or color. "Her face was suffused with a glow of embarrassment."

Jingoism; belief, policy, or practice of or characteristic of being bellicose in foreign affairs policies. "The politician's speech was replete in jingoism."

Obloquy; a censorious speech, defamatory language. (Accent first syllable). "After a bitter separation, the words that were once love were now obloquy."

Proliferation; growth by rapid reproduction of new parts, as by budding. "The beauty of his garden is the result of years of proliferation."

Rationale; underlying reason or fundamental explanation. (Accent last syllable). "It is difficult to determine the rationale of certain existing conditions."

Fashion Show At Santa's Village

High fashion comes to the world of dolls on Saturday, July 25 at a unique fashion show at which local girls of the Chicagoland area will model doll clothes at Santa's Village, the new multi-million dollar year round Christmas Fantasy Fun Town at East Dundee, Ill.

Sponsored by Santa's Village and Vogue Dolls, Inc., the show will introduce the latest line of miniature doll wardrobes and accessories created for the Ginny doll family featuring Ginny, America's most popular doll, and her teen-age sister, Jill.

WEARING REPLICAS of many doll outfits to be seen for the first time, girls from this area will carry dolls with costumes matching their own. Lilting background music and a running commentary by Rita Ascot, well known WLS radio star, will heighten the fashion show effect.

The doll fashion show will begin at 2 p. m. on Saturday, July 25 and will be followed by a doll buggy decorating parade and contest with prizes for the winners.

Angela Combs, who conducts the Wee Puppet theater at Santa's Village will act as co-ordinator of the doll fashion show which is an annual Santa's Village highlight. Santa's Village at East Dundee is located at the junction of routes 25 and 72.

Q. I have just received an invitation to a bridal shower on some girl whom I scarcely know. Would I be justified in ignoring this invitation?

A. This would be a little on the rude side. You are, however, perfectly justified in saying you are sorry, but that you have another engagement for that particular evening.

Q. I think you've said a woman is not supposed to help a man on with his coat. Does this apply to a hatcheck girl?

A. This does not apply in the case of a hatcheck girl, since she is a professional attendant and this is a part of her duties.

Cheap Furniture Is No 'Bargain'

Next to the cost of a house, furniture takes about the second biggest slice out of the average family budget. If selections are made wisely, this total expense need come only once or twice in a lifetime.

Willis Kauffman, University of Illinois home furnishings specialist, strongly urges newlyweds to first analyze themselves and determine what kind of home living they hope to have. Then he suggests that they make long-range plans for buying furniture and buy only pieces that fit into these plans.

IF SALE PIECES fit into the plans, they are good buys. Otherwise they aren't. It doesn't pay to buy cheap furniture.

A suite of "bargain" living room furniture (about seven pieces) may cost $250. But its life expectancy may be only two years or a little more, depending on wear.

On the other hand, a well constructed sofa may cost $350 without the upholstery fabric. But it will probably last a lifetime and will not need recovering for about 10 years.

Some young couples may be afraid that their tastes will change before the furniture wears out. Kauffman acknowledges this possibility but says quality furniture of simple design is always good. Accessories rather than furniture can reflect changes in taste; that is less expensive than changing furniture.

HOW DO COUPLES start their furniture plans?

Necessities for the bedroom are bed, storage other than for clothes, some type of table and a bedside lamp.

Necessary pieces for the living room include a sofa of some type, at least one easy chair, a strong card table and chairs that can serve for dining for a while and a reading lamp.

Other pieces and accessories can be added from time to time.

Most young couples wonder just what "well-constructed" furniture is.

Kauffman says there are three ways to determine quality: simple design; smooth surfaces, including edges, top and underside; and light weight in relation to bulk.

IN OTHER WORDS, he thinks that even inexperienced furniture shoppers can tell a great deal by looking and feeling. Quality is usually visible. Excessive molding usually indicates poor workmanship, as it covers up many details.

Kauffman suggests that young couples ask several questions before they finally select furniture:

How do the doors open and the drawers slide?

How substantial are the legs and posts? Are they cut on the grain of the wood? Curved legs and posts won't support so much weight as straight ones. Pieces that are not cut on the grain may split.

Is the finish resistant to stains, scratches and scars? Tables should also be resistant to heat and water.

Does the label list the necessary information—details about construction, wood, finish and care?

WHAT PEOPLE BELIEVE ABOUT GOD

The Gallup poll shows that 98 per cent of Americans claim to believe in God. But what do they believe about Him? Often some very terrible things. Into this professed faith needs to come some intelligent thinking. Beyond that lies the fellowship with Him that cleanses and redeems.

Jehovah Witnesses Attend Convention

Jehovah's Witnesses of the Arlington Heights congregation have returned from their recent Awake Ministers District assembly in Evansville, Ind. "For four days we received Bible instruction designed to keep us awake to our responsibilities as Christians," said William J. Narve, presiding minister.
This assembly was one of 28 arranged this summer in North America by the Watch Tower Bible and Tract society of New York, acting for Jehovah's Witnesses world-wide. Narve said the Witnesses, as a result of attending the Christian assembly, will be of greater assistance to their neighbors in their house-to-house ministry and home Bible teaching.

Good Housekeeping?

Our many women visitors often admire

Samuel Valenzo Jr. Takes June Bride

A pink and white wedding took place in Irvingwood Presbyterian church of Chicago June 13 when Samuel Valenzo Jr., son of the senior Samuel Valenzos, 816 S. Cleveland, Arlington Heights, took as his bride the former Betty Peterson of Chicago. Following the double ring ceremony performed at 5 in the afternoon by Rev. Morton Hickman, a reception and buffet supper were held in Bensenville Firemen's hall for 235 relatives and friends of the couple.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Peterson of Chicago, was attired in a wedding gown of embroidered silk organza styled with a sabrina neckline, short sleeves and full skirt which fell in four tiers of scalloped ruffles. A juliet headpiece trimmed with seed pearls held her illusion veil in place, and the bridal bouquet was white orchids attached to a white Bible with streamers of pearls and stephanotis.

THE BRIDE'S sister, Mrs. Marilyn Budreau of Chicago, was matron of honor in a white peau de soie floor length gown trimmed with pink roses around the edge of the hemline and complimented with a pink picture hat, white gloves and a cascade bouquet of pink roses and stephanotis. The three bridesmaids, gowned identically to the matron of honor, were Mrs. Lillian Philippe of Arlington Heights, Mrs. Verna Matz of Wheaton and Miss Sandra Murfay of Chicago.

Attending the bridegroom were George Budreau as best man and Alfred Philippe and Thomas Valenzo, both of Arlington Heights, and Donald Moran of Warrenville, Ill., as ushers.

Soloist for the candlelight ceremony was Mrs. James Brown, who sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer."

WITNESSING her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Peterson was dressed in a beige silk afternoon dress with tangerine and beige accessories and had a corsage of tangerine cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Valenzo wore a beige lace afternoon dress with green and beige accessories and had a light green cymbidium corsage.

The couple spent 2½ weeks touring Colorado, California and Arizona and are now at home in Elmwood Park. The bridegroom, a graduate of Arlington high school, is employed by Paddock Publications, and the bride works for Marsh and McLennan, Inc., insurance brokers.

Just Around the Corner from Patty McArdle

Honey Bear Farm Is Fun

Dear Peg:

I'm sure the owner doesn't share my sentiments, but I was disappointed to find Honey Bear Farm so crowded. We had invited Megan's and Bridget's teachers to go with us for lunch (our annual end of school activity which had to be postponed this year due to our moving) and, as you might expect, after all that nice cool weather this day turned out to be hot and humid. Our first inkling of the crowd we would be joining came as we approached the entrance—one parking lot was filled and the other almost so. From the rows of cars, it looked as if we were running into a convention.

Fortunately there are enough little shops and "cottages" to visit to disperse part of the people, however the lunch room and adjoining gift shop were jam packed with people sitting completely around the waiting room, waiting for a table. We were happily surprised to find that since we had made reservations we had practically no wait at all. After asking the waitress if this was an unusually heavy day and having her tell us that it wasn't and that last week they served over 800 during the luncheon hours one day, I concluded that it simply had been a long time since I'd been there—probably early in the season last summer and only once at that.

The service was good and we were amazed to see how quickly our chicken dinner was brought to us—there was just the slightest feeling that perhaps if we would hurry a little, one or two of those poor people sitting out there in the waiting room could have their lunch too. The atmosphere was not conducive to a lingering conversation over comfee, so as soon was we finished we left the table and strolled into the gift shop—I should say we managed to squeeze into the strolling line which was moving slowly through the shop.

The gift shop contains mostly china—statues, vases, ash trays etc. All very attractive and surprisingly inexpensive. Megan and Bridget have a china collection, so you can imagine how thrilled they were to see so many things from which to choose. Each of the girls had a dollar to spend—sent to them on Bridget's birthday from Nana. With such a variety of lovely things it was difficult for them to choose so I suggested that we wait and see what else there might be in one of the other shops.

They were glad we waited when in the "candy kitchen" they found a box of candy with a tiny china bird tied on top for less than a dollar! I'm afraid I found no such bargains. In the terrace shop were the exquisite, handmade artificial flowers which I have so admired. We have two antique pitchers on our mantel which would be lovely filled with real greenery and a couple of stalks of the beautiful artificial delphinium from this shop — however, the price of two nice bouquets would have been prohibitive so I shall skip that little bit of decorating for awhile.

The grounds at Honey Bear are beautiful — all so well kept and colorful with thick beds of red and white petunias and geraniums and more formal little plots of snapdragons and roses.

Before we left, the teachers and I did invest in some delicious cheddar cheese, smoked summer sausage and, of course some "Honey Bear" salad dressing.

Crowded or not—hot or not— Honey Bear Farm is always fun to visit.

My love,
Patty

Ila Miller Becomes Bride Of Harold W. Dotts Jr.

An Arlington Heights couple who went through grade school and high school together but didn't fall in love until both were finished with college and back at home were united in marriage July 11 in the Fourth Presbyterian church of Chicago. Dr. Harrison Ray Anderson performed the double ring ceremony in which the former Ila Keith Miller, daughter of the Paul E. Millers, 230 S. Walnut ave., became Mrs. Harold William Dotts Jr. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dotts, 600 N. Banbury rd.

The bride was gowned in a full length ivory silk organza wedding dress with a court train. The bodice, appliqued with peau d'ange lace and beaded with crystals and seed pearls, had a bateau neckline in front and v-neck in back. The trim on the bodice also encircled the gown's hemline. A tiny crown of pearls and crystals held the fingertip veil in place. Gardenias, stephanotis and ivy formed the bride's bouquet.

PAULA MILLER, the bride's sister, was maid of honor in an almond and beige dress with bateau neckline, short sleeves and full skirt. The bodice was almond velveteen, and the skirt was beige silk organza appliqued with almond velveteen leaves. She carried cinnamon figi mums with ti leaves. The four bridesmaids, all gowned identically to the maid of honor, were Mrs. Richard Quast of Arlington Heights, Mrs. Alan A. Peters of Palatine, Mrs. Richard Berkshire of Chicago and Mrs. John M. Doty of Orlando, Fla.

Robert Dotts of Rolling Meadows served as his brother's best man. Ushering guests to their pews were Richard Spratt of Detroit, formerly of Palatine; Wayne Hildebrand of Moline, formerly of Arlington Heights; Paul Bilk of Barrington and Bernard Brock of Arlington Heights.

The soloist was William Carlson of Park Ridge, who sang "The Greatest of These." For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Miller wore a soft nile green silk chiffon dress with shirred bodice and full skirt. Her corsage was of brown cymbidium. Mrs. Dotts chose a grey lace sheath over pale pink taffeta with a floating silk chiffon back panel, and her corsage was of coral roses.

TWO HUNDRED guests greeted the newlyweds at a reception held in the French room of the Drake hotel in Chicago. The couple then departed on a week's honeymoon to Nassau, and they are now at home at 33 E Elm st., Chicago. Both are employed in Chicago, the bride as a buyer for Charles A. Stevens and o. and the bridegroom as engineer for Bell and Howell o. The new Mrs. Dotts attended Rollins college at Winter Park, Fla., and was graduated from the University of Illinois in 1954, where she was a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority. The bridegroom was graduated from Stanford university in Palo Alto, Cal., in 1954 and was a Phi Delta Theta.

Richard Amann Weds Des Plaines Girl

Richard E. Amann, son of the Edward Amanns, 1517 N. Evergreen, Arlington Heights, took as his bride the former Charlene Kribble, daughter of the William Kribbles of Des Plaines, in an 11 a.m. nuptial mass June 27 in St. James church of Arlington Heights. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. George Roth before relatives and friends of the couple. Sister Ventura was organist, and soloist, Richard Clarke, sang "Ava Maria" and "Panus Angelicus."

The bride came down the aisle in a floor length gown of white silk embroidered organza fashioned with a sabrina neckline, sheared sleeves and matching mitts. A pearl tiara held her fingertip veil in place, and she carried a colonial bouquet of amazon lilies and blue forget-me-nots.

PATRICIA KRIBBLE, sister of the bride, was maid of honork in white embroidered nylon over powder blue taffeta which was complemented by matching shoes and a bouquet of white pompoms and blue carnations. Bridesmaids were Muriel Smith of Park Ridge, Alice Nelson of Des Plaines and Janet Wilson of Moline, Ill. All three were attired exactly as the maid of honor. Debra Clevenger of Moline served as flower girl in a dress that matched the other attendants and carried a minature of their bouquets.

The bridegroom's brother, James, was his best man, and ushers were John Amann and Dave Lynk, both of Arlington Heights, and Robert Schenbecker of Chicago.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Kribble chose a dress of blue silk organza with white accessories and a white orchid corsage. Mrs. Amann wore aqua silk organza with matching hat, white accessories and also had a white orchid corsage.

The closet has grown to include 325 articles today, among which are wheel chairs, hospital beds, crutches, walkers, vaporizers and many other sick room needs. Articles may be obtained by calling Mrs. Harold Gardiner, CL 5-4433.

The Martha Jackson Nurses Scholarship fund was established by the nurses club in 1947 in memory of the founder of the club and offers each year a $300 scholarship to an outstanding graduating senior of Arlington high school who has chosen nursing as a career.

THE AUGUST 1 rummage sale will be the main money-making project this year to support these two services. The Nurses club is proud of the interest and support shown by residents in past years and is pleased to have been able to continue the Lending Closet and scholarship fund because of this support. A large amount of rummage has been donated, including clothing for all ages, furniture, household articles and toys. An added feature this year will be the secialty shop where only the best quality articles will be sold. Another attraction will be a coffee and donuts booth.

WHIRLIGIG PIE is a dessert that's sure to please the youngsters. Peanut butter is used to enhance the luscious butterscotch filling, and jelly makes the intriguing design on top. This dessert can be served less than an hour after it's started, because there's no cooking to do at all. Instant butterscotch pudding makes the filling and the crumb crust is unbaked.

Whirligig Pie

1 8-inch unbaked crumb pie shell
¼ cup peanut butter (smooth style)
2 cups cold milk
1 package Instant Butterscotch Pudding
Jelly

Combine peanut butter with milk in a deep mixing bowl; beat with egg beater until blended. Add pudding mix; beat just until blended, about 1 minute. Turn mixture into pie shell; refrigerate 30 minutes or until serving time. Just before serving (no sooner), fill cake decorator or paper cone with jelly that has been beaten smooth. Press out jelly, turning pie at the same time, to make design shown. If pie has been set on lazy Susan or revolving platform of electric mixer, it can be turned easily. Makes 1 8-inch pie

New Drug Prevents 'Morning Sickness'

A drug for prevention of "morning sickness' in pregnancies and for prevention and treatment of other forms of nausea and vomiting has been released to the medical profession following its development in the laboratories of G. D. Searle and Co., Chicago medical research and pharmaceutical manufacturing organization, and intensive clinical tests in a number of hospitals.

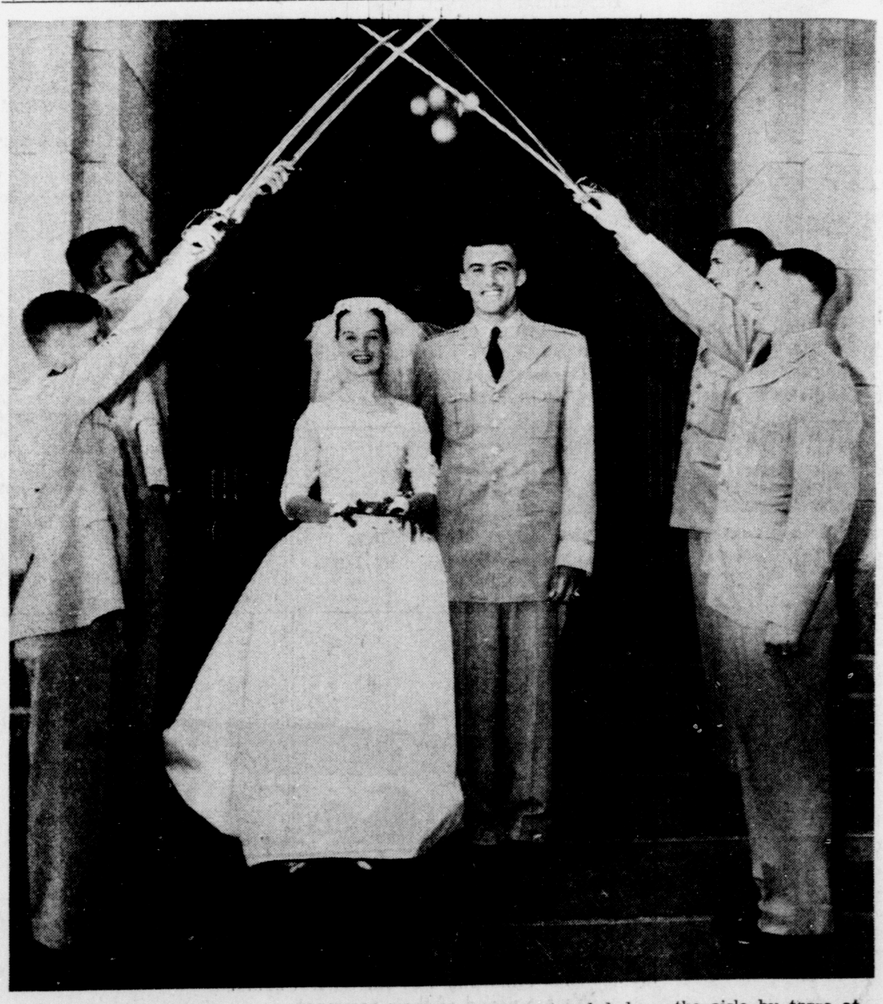
The new drug, Mornidine, falls within a class of chemical compounds known as phenothiazines, of which chlorpromazine probably is the best known, but Searle laboratory and clinical researchers report their drug has little or no tranquilizing or sedative effects, which are frequently considered to be disadvantages of earlier products available.

SEARLE scientists became interested in Mornidine when it was observed in studies in animals that the drug exerted potent anti-vomiting and anti-nausea activities at low doses, while a very much higher dose was required to produce a tranquilizing effect. Since tranquilization or sedation is undesirable in many patients who require treatment for nausea or vomiting, the laboratory tests offered promise of progress if similar results could be achieved with human beings.

Tests carried out under the supervision of medical researchers in more than twenty leading hospitals and clinics confirmed the laboratory findings, and additional clinical tests disclosed that Mornidine also is highly effective following surgical operations, x-ray treatments for malignant diseases, and for nausea and vomiting brought on by gastroenteritis or "stomach flu."

MORNIDINE, according to those who developed it, prevents nausea and vomiting by depressing or reducing the responsiveness of certain centers in the brain which must be stimulated or triggered for such symtoms to occur. Use of phenothiazines other than Mornidine, according to the Searle scientists, often causes undesired neurologic symtoms including muscle spasms and tremors.

The clinical reports indicate that Mornidine represents a significant advance in the drug treatment of nausea and vomiting since it is the only drug of its type with minimal or no tranquilizing or sedating activity. The drug will be available only on prescription.



THE CADET CHAPEL of the United States Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., was the setting for the June 4 tradtional military wedding of Elizabeth Hunter Adams of Racine, Wis., and Lt. Theodore William Simroe Jr., son of the senior Theodore Simroes of Maitland, Fla., formerly of Arlington Heights. The immediate family and close friends of the couple witnessed the double ring ceremony and attended a wedding breakfast which followed in the Officers club of West Point.

The bride, gowned in white antique slipper satin, was preceded down the aisle by tnree attendants, all dressed in off-white silk shantung with varying shades of pink and red floral designs; the color scheme carried out by matching red sashes and bouquets of red and pink carnations which they carried. The best man and saber-bearers were all fellow West Pointers. Lt. Simroe is a graduate of this year's class at the academy, and late in August he and his bride will report to Ft. Benning, Gr., and then to Ft. Knox, Ky. After the first of the year they will leave for Germany where he will be stationed.

Arlington Teenager Working To Be Professional Rider

by LIZ ALANNE

An Arlington high school junior, Patti Hartman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth D. Hartman, Seegers rd., Arlington Heights, has taken a giant step forward toward her aim of becoming a professional rider.

Only 16, she has ridden in over 200 horse shows in Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and Indiana and has come away with 37 silver trophies, which include a couple of championships in jumping competition, and a bushel basket full of ribbons. She has been riding a total of seven years.

She currently owns two horses; Arlington Jr., a quarter horse and frequent winner in northwest area shows, and Yankee Doodle, a young part thoroughbred, now in training to be a jumper.

The horses are quartered in a cleverly constructed area in back of the Hartman home. Mr. Hartman built a stable and a combination pasture and riding ring with a number of sturdy jumps. Patti works her horses here nearly every day to keep them in good condition and does her own training.

CURRENTLY ONE of the area's leading young riders, Patti began riding at ten and had several years of professional instruction. Her parents acquired an interest in horses and riding through her and have enthusiastically supported her interest.

They are sponsors of the newly formed 4-H Equestrian club, of which Patti is a charter member.

Jumping is her primary interest and her ultimate aim is to ride professionally for a stable or trainer when she completes high school. She has done some riding for other owners in the summer and would welcome experience in training if the opportunity presented itself.

MOST OF HER out-of-school interests revolve around horses, which she admits is very time-consuming. Patti, however, likes nearly all sports, particularly swimming, volleyball and basketball.

A new interest is record collecting - classical music, she emphasizes - and unlike many teenagers, she doesn't care much for rock and roll.

FLOWERING SHRUBS and evergreens add beauty to your home the year round. And for all they offer, shrubs ask very little from you. In the summer, they need only three things to look their best: a well-balanced soil, plant food and protection from insects and domestic pets. Correct soil ingredients vary according to the particular plant variety. While rhododendron requires an acid soil, lilacs thrive better in rich alkaline earth. You can test your soil ingredients with a do-it-yourself soil testing kit, or send a sample of earth to your county or state agricultural agent for testing.

Plant food should be added according to the manufacturer's instructions, usually several times during the season. Protecting shrubs from dogs and cats was a problem at one time, but it can be solved easily these days. Chemical dog repellents come in handy aerosol spray cans for easy application. Spray the shrubs with the concentrate and pets will stay away —they just don't like it. Be sure to spray against insects at regular intervals. Spray the under-side as well as the top of leaves or needles for complete protection.

Successful Homemaking

The Discriminating Gourmet Will Like This Dinner Menu

by LOIS SEILER

An excellent dinner menu, in which the flavor of each dish complements the other, has been shared with us by Mrs. Frederick W. Siegel of Arlington Heights.

For years this has been one of her favorite dinners to serve to guests, and it would surely please the most discriminating gourmet.

Homemakers will happily note that much of the preparation for this delightful meal can be done in advance.

THE DINNER features savory steamed pork tenderloin patties which are breaded, browned and then steamed in the oven topped with chili sauce, onion and chopped celery leaves.

Prepared in this fashion, the tenderloin patties are as appealing to the eye as to the palate. Mrs. Siegel accompanies them with Del Monico potatoes, buttered green beans with pecans and a tempting molded fruit salad.

In this refreshing salad, strawberries, pineapple, honey dew and watermelon balls, peaches, blueberries and orange segments are molded in a base of orange jello.

The recipe can be varied to suit your taste, and it may be served with or without a dressing.

THIS SALAD, too, has eye appeal and is a delicious flavor complement for the pork.

As the grand finale for this flavorful meal, Mrs. Siegel suggests serving an elegant Apricot Ice Box Cake.

This delectable molded dessert is made in a small tube pan lined with lady fingers and filled with an apricot chiffon mixture. It is refrigerated, unmolded and served with whipped cream. Toasted almonds are springled on top.

The tartness of the apricots cut the extreme richness of this dessert and make it a superb taste treat.

THE ICE BOX cake as well as the fruit salad can be made the day before. All of the recipes shared with us by this good cook are delicious and highly recommended for enjoyable eating.

The Siegels live at 316 E. Park in Arlington Heights. They have a daughter, Janet, who is a stewardess for American Airlines, and a son, Bob, who is a junior at Wheaton college.

Mrs. Siegel is a circle member of the First Presbyterian church and belongs to FW chapter of PEO.

Pork Tenderloin Patties

Flour
2 eggs
8 tablespoons water
Bread crumbs
¾ bottle Heinz chili sauce
4 tablespoons chopped onion
4 tablespoons chopped celery leaves or celery.

Salt and pepper patties. Roll in flour, dip in eggs which have been beaten with the water and then dip in bread crumbs.

Set on rack to dry for 15 minutes.

Brown in skillet in ¼ cup vegetable shortening and ¼ cup bacon drippings. Place in enamel roaster.

Cover each patty with chili sauce and sprinkle onion and celery around patties. Pour in enough warm water to cover bottom of roaster. Cover roaster.

Place in a 325 degree oven and steam for 1½ hours.

Serves 5 or 6.

Orange Jello Fruit Salad

1 package orange jello
1 package frozen strawberries
1 small can sliced pineapple
1 cup honey dew and watermelon balls
2 fresh peaches, sliced
½ cup blueberries
1 orange, segmented

Drain thawed strawberries and canned pineapple.

Dissolve jello in warmed juices from the strawberries and pineapple plus enough water to make two cups of liquid.

When cool, add strawberries, diced pineapple and other fruit. Pour into individual molds and chill.

Serves 8 or 9.

Apricot Ice Box Cake

1½ cups stewed apricot pulp
Juice of ½ lemon
4 slightly-beaten egg yolks
¼ cup sugar
1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin.
4 tablespoons cold water.

Combine the apricot pulp, lemon juice, egg yolks and sugar. Cook in the top of a double boiler until thick.

Soak the gelatin in the cold water. Dissolve the gelatin in the hot pulp mixture. When partially cold, fold in 4 stiffly-beaten egg whites.

Line a small tube pan with lady fingers. Pour in apricot mixture. Refrigerate until firm.

Unmold and serve with whipped cream. Sprinkle toasted almonds on the top.

Edward Dahlquists Living in Wichita

(Community Camera

A local couple are now making their home in Wichita, Kans., since their marriage June 27 in the First Presbyterian church of Arlington Heights. Robert Bruce Dahlquist, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dahlquist, 212 N. Pine, Mt. Prospect, has taken his bride, the former Gail Marie Moore of Arlington Heights to Wichita, where he is now employed by the Long Bell division of International Paper Co.

Both young people attended Arlington high school; then the bride continued her college education at Drake university and the bridegroom at Iowa State college. The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Moore of 503 N. Evergreen, Arlington Heights.

Rev. George Kincheloe performed the double ring ceremony at 4 o'clock before the church altar, which was decorated with vases of white snapdragons and shasta palms. Mrs. Earle Auge was organist, and Mr. Auge sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer."

NANCY MOORE served as her sister's maid of honor, and Merle Wiche of La Grange and Barbara Russell of Arlington Heights were bridesmaids. All three attendants wore gowned in baby blue lace over taffeta with taffeta cummerbunds. Each carried a bouquet of blue delphiniums and pink tearoses. The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Eugene, as best man and Dennis Maher of Barrington and Dale Stahl of Chicago as ushers.

The bride chose a white venetian lace over taffeta floor length gown styled with a fitted bodice and full gathered skirt. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a seed pearl crown, and her bridal bouquet was of white roses and stephanotis.

A reception in the church parlor for 175 guests followed the ceremony, and later in the evening a buffet was served for relatives and out-of-town guests in the home of the bride's parents. The bride's mother wore a toast colored lace over taffeta sheath with a chiffon cummerbund and flowing sash. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a sheath of turquoise silk organza over silk shantung. Each had a cymbidium corsage.

The bridal couple spent their honeymoon of a week at Lake Delavan, Wis.

Sharon Wilke Weds In St. Mark Church

St. Mark Lutheran church, Mt. Prospect, was the scene of the June 13 wedding of Sharon May Wilke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wilke, 505 N. Forest, Mt. Prospect, and Thomas E. Milbourn, son of the Howard Milbourns of South Bend, Ind. The couple repeated their vows before Rev. H. J. Rasmussen at 5 o'clock in the afternoon in a setting of carnations and snapdragons which decorated the altar for the double ring ceremony.

The couple met while attending Carthage college in central Illinois and will make their home at 311 S. Oak, Park Ridge, as both are employed in the Chicago area. The bridegroom is with the U. S. Treasury department in Chicago, and his bride is employed by International Mineral and Chemical Corp. in Skokie.

Four bridal attendants preceded the bride down the aisle, all gowned in a color scheme of green and white and all carrying bouquets of deep red roses with matching flowers in their hair. The maid of honor, Barbara Sweet of Polo, Ill., and bridesmaid, Elna Lindberg of Waukegan, both wore green silk organza over taffeta trimmed at the waist with a green satin cummerbund and bow. Gayle Grom of Arlington Heights served as maiden of honor, and 7-year-old Peggy Hamilton of Arlington Heights was flower girl. The two girls were attired in white nylon organdy trimmed at the waist with a green satin cummerbund and bow matching the trim of the other attendants.

THE BRIDE, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white silk organza fashioned with long tapered sleeves, chapel train and embroidered skirt back. Her 3-tiered veil was held in place by a pillbox hat, and she carried a crescent bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Serving as attendants for the bridegroom were Lt. James Wright of Port Austin, Mich., as best man and Dale Wilke of Mt. Prospect, Art Kosilain of Racine, Wis., and Howard Milbourn Jr. of South Bend were ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was given in the church for 125 guests. The bride's mother greeted in a dress of beige silk over taffeta and the bridegroom's mother wore gray lace over pink taffeta. Both had orchid corsages. Later an open house took place in the bride's parents' home. The couple spent a week's honeymoon in Michigan before setting in Park Ridge.

Miss Glaeser Weds College Sweetheart

A romance which began at the University of Illinois culminated in the marriage of Joanne Edith Glaeser of Mt. Prospect and Robert Eugene Lanzotti of Taylorville, Ill., June 2 in Mt. Prospect's South church. The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Glaeser, 501 Gowando ave. came down the aisle on the arm of her father and was gowned in a floor length dress with lace bodice and bouffant net skirt. Her fingertip veil was held by a juliet cap, and she carried a crescent of stephanotis and ivy with clusters of white carnations.

White daisies marked each pew, and ferns and white flowers lighted by candelabra decorated the altar as Rev. Edwin I. Stevens read the marriage ceremony. Nancy Hulslander, organist, accompanied the soloist, Frances Fishel, sorority sister of the bride, as she sang appropriate music. The evening wedding was witnessed by 200 guests, who also attended a garden reception in the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony.

THE BRIDEGROOM, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Lanzotti of Taylorville, was attended by Larry Royer as best man; David Ash, George Utz, Geno Alfonsi and Edward Glaeser Jr. as ushers.

The bride's sister, Carol, was maid of honor, and Noreen Ash, Claire Conlon, Carol Peterson and Peggy Wax were bridesmaids. The four attendants were owned in bouffant yellow floral cotton dresses with yellow and green accessories. Each carried a crescent bouquet of yellow carnations with camellia foliage.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Glaeser wore a beige cotton dress with lace trim, and Mrs. Lanzotti a yellow cotton blouson with blue embroidery trim. Each had an orchid corsage.

The newlyweds toured Wisconsin on their honeymoon and returned to Champaign, Ill., to make their home at 706 W. Church st. The bridegroom, a member of Sigma Pi fraternity, will work on his master degree at the University of Illinois. His bride is a graduate of Arlington high school and before graduating from Illinois in June was a member of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority.

New Pearled Makeup For Feminine Look

There's a new fashion in faces, one that's in tune with the beautiful, frankly feminine clothes women are wearing again. Introduced this week by DuBarry, it is called "pearled makeup" and is the first really different makeup in years, giving a romantic new look that brings out the radiant, shimmering "touch of Venus" in every woman.

To teach local women about the new pearly look, DuBarry has sent out a special makeup artist, Miss Lillian Dray, who will be at the Westgate Walgreen agency drug store in Arlington Heights for complimentary consultation July 27 through August 1. In addition to drawing up personal pearled makeup charts, Miss Dray will give free beauty gifts and offer priceless little makeup tricks.

The basis of this flattering pearly look is a powder that gives a translucent glow to do away with the old "powdered look." To go with it is a new pearly eyeshadow stick featuring the latest idea, a pure pearly white that is dazzling against a tan and adds sparkle to fair complexions. In lipstick the new creamed lip colors use "white shimmer" under or over four new pastel shades; cream of roses, peaches, apricots or lilacs. The whole effect is one of delicate femininity. (S

Bride's First Dinner Party Like Any Other First Party

The Bride's first dinner party is like anyone else's first party.

Mrs. Mary Hubbard, University of Illinois foods specialist, says the new bride, just like the experienced cook, wants to serve her guests an attractive, flavorful meal and wants it to be enjoyable for both her guests and herself.

But these things call for some advance planning. Mrs. Hubbard suggests that the bride divide the dinner plan into three parts: menu planning, shopping and scheduling.

IN PLANNING her menu, the bride will want to follow a basic menu pattern that will meet nutritive needs and will provide a balance in colors, sizes, textures, flavors and temperatures of foods. Such a pattern includes an appetizer (may be omitted), meat, vegetable (or vegetables), salad, bread, dessert and beverage. Usually the main dish or meat is planned first, and the other dishes are chosen to complement it.

Both the bride and her guests will probably be happiest if she chooses a menu that includes some foods she can prepare a day or several hours in advance. It's also a good idea to try out new recipes before the dinner party. Simple foods, perfectly prepared and served, are better than "exotic" dishes that are failures.

Also, the bride needs to plan the menu around her facilities. This means considering such things as oven size and temperatures of recipes, equipment and serving dishes.

READY FOR the second phase of her dinner party, the bride goes shopping with a planned list. To save time, she divides the list into general headings of meat, dairy products, fruit vegetables and staples. By keeping posted on prices in different stores. She can choose items that fall within her budget.

Since meat is one of the most expensive items on the menu, the bride will want to give it special thought. The beef grade classifications of prime, choice, good and standard indicate quality. Being the top quality, prime is also the most expensive. The tender cuts, such as steaks and roasts, can be prepared by dry heat methods, which include broiling, pan frying and roasting.

The less tender cuts, like brisket and chuck, require moist heat preparation, such as braising or pot roasting.

In considering quantity per serving, the bride will need to buy at least ½ pound per person if cuts have little or no bone, ½ pound if there is some bone and ¾ to 1 pound if there is much bone and fat. These servings will be small, so she might increase the amount for the men guests.

WHEN SHE chooses vegetables, again she will buy according to edible portion. Raw fresh vegetables usually require ¼ to ½ pound per cooked serving. Packages of frozen foods vary in weight, but usually serve three or four. In canned foods, a number 303 can usually contains four servings, and an 8-ounce can two servings. Grade "A" or "fancy" foods aren't necessary if the product is for combination dishes, such as casseroles, soups, puddings or pies.

Now the bride is ready for the third phase: planning and following a work schedule. This schedule will help her prepare all of the foods on time and serve them at the right temperatures. In making this schedule, she will list each item on the menu and the table setting at the left side of a piece of paper. Next she will note the time for preparation, cooking and service and the total time for each item on the right. Then she can arrange her work according to the time required for each item.

She may want to allow a little more time than is actually necessary so that she won't feel rushed and can allow for unplanned interruptions. The schedule should also allow time for washing equipment as it is used. Often a meal may be prepared and the table set within the time assigned for the dish requiring the longest preparation and cooking time.

The bride's first dinner party may not be timed perfectly, but the next one will be better. Mrs. Hubbard reminds brides that every homemaker learns by experience, and much is learned only by experience.

New Six Seconds Nonfat Dry Milk

The new "quicker than instant" nonfat dry milk is just made for the homemaking pattern of jet age living. It is economical, highly nutritious, versatile and convenient. It magically mixes completely in six seconds.

Stretching the family's milk dollars, the family-size package makes 12 quarts of nonfat milk for as little as eight cents a quart. Handy pouring spouts and double foil wrapping are features of this package for large families and also the 3-quart package for small users. An especially convenient package contains six pre-measured foil envelopes, each making one quart of nonfat milk. "The Heart of Milk," nonfat dry milk contains milk's important nutrients — protein, calcium and riboflavin. Homemakers use "quicker than instant" nonfat dry milk as they use milk--for drinking and in cooking and baking.

Something for the Bride: Old Hammer, Blue Wrench

The June bride, concerned only with carrying the proper old, new, borrowed and blue items, should be forewarned: when the honeymoon is over, she may have to take up the tools of many trades to keep her house in order.

That forecast arises from recent studies made by the National Home Owners club, which found that "most minor repairs to household furnishings and appliances are made by the woman not the man of the house."

EPLAINS ANOTHY S. Jacobs, president of the Club in Chicago:

"When a faucet leaks or an appliance plug needs replacing, the average housewife finds it easier to do the repair herself rather than making it a chore for her husband."

Jacobs said the Home Owners club survey revealed that women married for a year or more have undertaken such "minor" repairs as:

—Reupholstering a chair or chaise lounge;
—Replacing a worn part in the vacuum cleaner;
—Reseeding a spotty lawn;
—Tightening hinges on a sagging door;
—Removing assorted foreign objects from laundry equipment.

FOR REPAIRS which are not so "minor," Jacobs said, the average housewife admits she must call on her husband—or an outside expert—for help.

"Unfortunately, in both cases, this usually means scheduling the chores and then waiting an indefinite period to have them completed," he noted.

An admitted procrastinator as a home repairman himself, Jacobs said the assurance of prompt, reliable service is "the best drawing card" of the National Home Owners club, which handles members' repair or maintenance needs through selected contractors.

Women's practical talents, as revealed in the homes survey, "are wider than most men would predict," Jacobs pointed out, "and their practicality includes being able to judge when a particular job is beyond them—or their husbands."

That New 'Mr. and Mrs.' Really Affects Budgets

The budget that Mr. and Mrs. Joe Jones plan is usually a little different from ones that Mr. Joe and Miss Joan would each have worked out before they were married.

Virginia Guthrie, University of Illinois home management specialist, advises newlyweds who find themselves in a financial maze to begin their spending plan by listing anticipated expenses in three categories: fixed, flexible and borderline.

Not all couples will group their expenses in the same way, but most of them will have the same types of expenses. The main ones are listed below.

Fixed expenses include installment payments on equipment, furniture and automobile; mortgage on house; life insurance; and property taxes and income taxes. (If withholding taxes are taken from the salary, it's easiest to base the budget on the take-home pay and lump these taxes into one single group.)

FLEXIBLE EXPENSES usually cover utilities, food, clothing, household supplies, home furnishings and upkeep, laundry and drycleaning, personal items, car operating expenses and insurance, medical coverage and property.

Depending on whether or not housing has already been chosen, rent may be either a flexible or a fixed expense.

Also considered under flexible expenses are education, travel and hobbies, books and magazines, postage and stationery, gifts and contributions, professional dues and meetings.

Somewhere between fixed and flexible expenses is the borderline area of church contributions, medical and dental care, savings and investments and an emergency or "elastic" fund. The last serves as a cushion against too tight budgeting.

Miss Guthrie reminds young couples to be realistic in anticipating the cost of running a house. Too often people are overoptimistic about financial matters. She urges them to be particularly cautious in assuming too much debt at one time. They should also keep fixed expenses to a minimum. (Soc

Fresh Strawberry Dessert Gem

Enjoy delicious fresh strawberries often while they are in season. This delightful whipped dessert stars fresh strawberries and cream in whipped strawberry-flavored gelatin. It's easy to prepare and attractive as well.

Strawberry Tulip Dessert

- 1 package strawberry-flavored gelatin
- 1 cup hot water
- 1 cup cold water
- ⅓ cup sugar
- 2 cups halved fresh strawberries
- 6 marshmallows, finely cut (optional)
- 1 cup cream, whipped

Dissolve strawberry-flavored gelatin in hot water. Add cold water. Chill until slightly thickened. Combine strawberries and sugar and let stand 10 minutes.

Place slightly thickened gelatin in bowl of ice and water and whip with egg beater until fluffy and thick. Fold in strawberries, marshmallows, and whipped cream. Spoon into loaf pan. Chill until firm. Unmold. Serve in slices. Makes 12 servings.

To garnish: Whip ½ cup cream. Spoon over top of loaf, making two rows of small puffs. Top each puff with a strawberry slice. Split 4 marshmallows to make 8 circular halves. Using small sharp knife, cut each marshmallow half into the shape of a tulip. Mount four "tulips" on each side of loaf at base, and garnish with mint leaves.

The sensible thing for a father of a teenager to do is to look for his car before he starts searching for his car keys.

Cookies To Make Again And Again

After a session of gardening, for picnic fare, or for an afternoon snack on the porch, these chocolate chip and peanut cookies are ideal. The chocolate chips are nuggets of rich delight, the nuts crisply delightful.

For the hungry child or teen-ager, or their elders for that matter, we suggest instant chocolate-flavor mix as an accompaniment to these cookies. Just pour the mix into the glass from the little metal spout on the package, then fill to the brim with cold sweet milk.

Chocolate Chip Peanut Cookies

- 1½ cups sifted flour
- ½ teaspoon double-acting baking powder
- ¾ teaspoon soda
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup shortening
- 1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 1 egg, unbeaten
- ¼ cup milk
- ¾ cup chopped peanuts
- 1 cup chocolate chips
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, soda, and salt, and sift again. Cream shortening; add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Add flour, alternately with milk, mixing well after each addition. Then add peanuts, chocolate chips, and vanilla. Drop from teaspoon onto greased baking sheet. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 10 to 12 minutes. Makes about 5 dozen cookies.

The Way We See It

Youthful Offenders Are in Need of Help

Last week six Rolling Meadows children, ranging in age from nine to 11, confessed a series of thefts from stores in Arlington Heights' Westgate shopping center.

The youngsters, all boys, told police of a month-long spree of shoplifting under the able direction of their 11-year-old elected gang boss.

A month ago, a 10-year-old Wheeling girl admitted to police the theft of $900 from a local variety store and home.

The young lady had left no fingerprints at either "job." She carefully hid the money in and around her family's home.

That same week a shopping center was holding a grand opening in Hoffman Estates.

The owner of the center's drug store spent nearly a month clearing up an epidemic of shoplifting that immediately became contagious in the neighborhood's six to 12-year-old age group.

He called parents, confronted them with the charges, and, in most cases, got cooperation.

These are a few examples of preteen delinquency problems that are developing across the nation.

In this age group the teenage delinquents and hardened criminals of the future are being spawned.

After questioning the 10-year-old Wheeling girl, the village's police chief admitted he didn't know what to do with the child.

"I haven't been able to reach her sense of reasoning," Chief Marvin O. Horcher said. "Charges? How can we charge her? Can a 10-year-old have the mind to commit a crime?

"There's no easy solution."

Chief Horcher said the simplest solution would be to turn the girl over to county juvenile authorities who would see that she got some psychiatric treatment in their already-overcrowded facilities.

But, he added, the treatment would not be adequate. The girl needed extensive individual treatment from a child guidance specialist.

As the record indicates, Chief Horcher's is not the only police department in our area confronted with a tremendous problem in rehabilitating children barely "wet behind the ears."

This is of mutual concern in all northwest suburbs.

Most suburbs have attempted to handle the situation by appointing regular policemen as juvenile officers. These men, in many cases have done commendable jobs. Most of them command the respect of both the youngsters and adults in their communities.

But the fact remains that these men are not trained to cope with the complicated emotional conflicts of the child delinquent.

They are policemen, good policemen. They will "get their man," make an arrest, and follow through with prosecution.

With children, they will meet, talk with, befriend youngsters of every age. Oftentimes when a crime is committed they can narrow down the suspects to three or four within 10 minutes.

They know their jobs. They arrest juvenile offenders.

But, in most cases, the all-important question of why the child acted as he did, why he chose to rebel, is left unanswered.

Part of the solution, we think, would lie in the hiring of trained child guidance specialists to supplement the staffs of our village police departments.

We do not advocate the dismissal or demotion of our juvenile officers, but we would like to see their departments strengthened by the addition of the specialists.

As Chief Horcher said: "Can a 10-year-old have the mind to commit a crime?"

We don't think so. These children need help.

Suburbs Must Act Swiftly To Provide Decent Police Wage

Gov. Stratton's ill-advised veto last week of a proposed 40-hour work week for policemen in towns of over 10,000 in Illinois affords Cook county's northwest suburban communities an opportunity to lead the way in effecting badly needed police reforms.

Area patrolmen's salaries range between $4,680 for a rookie in one community to $6,000 a year tops in another community. The family income of northwest suburban communities averages over $7,000 a year.

While the 40-hour work week is recognized by the federal government and accepted by the majority of employers, area police officers work a minimum of 50 hours a week, counting time spent in court.

The necessity of supporting a family in one of the nation's highest cost of living areas forces many police officers to hold second jobs. Such a practice lessens their effectiveness as police officers and divides their loyalty toward the community with a second employer.

A ruling by a community's fire and police commission can prohibit police officers from working elsewhere. Such action should be taken. It must be accompanied, however, with a compensating wage hike.

Problems accompanying the rapid growth of northwest suburban communities call for the highest type of police officer. Such men may be found and retained only by offering them an opportunity to be full-time police officers at a respectable wage.

Before Consolidation, Cities Must Clean Out Corruption

Speaking before the United States conference of mayors last week, Mayor Frank P. Zeidler of Milwaukee warned that if central cities "are not to be strangled by layer upon layer of hostile and uncooperative suburbs" they must employ annexation powers to bring about government unity in their areas.

While Milwaukee and its surrounding suburbs may be ready for a metropolitan form of government, such is not the case with Chicago and its suburbs.

To put it bluntly, Chicago and Cook county governments must first prove themselves worthy of consolidation with suburban governments.

The politics and corruption that permeates many big city governments has, in fact, been partially responsible for the flight to the suburbs, where bail bond scandals, police shakedowns, and unenforced building codes can be contemplated from a distance.

While we feel the "central city" with its many cultural, educational, and economic strengths should be preserved, we also feel it should clean its own house before thinking in terms of annexation and consolidation with other governmental units.

Jaycee News

The inspired aggressiveness displayed by the Elk Grove Village Jaycees in the recently presented Peony Pageant demonstrates once again that the northwest suburban communities possess possibly the most stimulated citizenry of any similar area in the entire midwest. Considering the undertaking solely from the standpoint of its size, it is even remarkable that the end result was anything shy of a colossal flop.

Your coverage of the Pageant was both thorough and accurate, and thus you too are entitled to a figurative pat on the back. At the same time, however, your publication has also earned itself a slap on its wrist, for your subsequent headlined attention to the loud but late and lonely wail of dissension to the accomplishments of this fine organization was, Sir, a disservice to our community.

Not only did this coverage tend to distract from the overall overwhelming success of the Pageant, and thereby undermine the morale of those who worked so hard without promise of pay or individualized publicity to make it a success, it undoubtedly to a degree demoralized the entire village populace by exaggerating our community incompatibility.

In effect, by giving coverage of equal quality, if not quantity, to a few minutes of time individually invested, you place it on an equal plane with the untold hours of time collectively spent by the Jaycees in the planning, preparation, and presentation of the Pageant.

As Elk Grove ripens into a civically mature urban area we will most certainly experience our share of the proverbial growing pains, but for you to give the same quality of news coverage to the pains as to the growth itself not only minimizes our achievements to date, it also retards at least temporarily our ability to maintain a sustained sound and vigorous rate of development.

A careful and selective presentation of the news of this type is the most subtle and cunning form of propaganda and editorializing yet contrived by civilized man. Whereas it tells the truth and nothing but the truth, it fails to tell all of the truth, thereby distorting the facts given and misleading the reader.

Your problem in finding news of interest, or at times, even any news at all, is both recognized and appreciated. I am confident however that I speak for many more than myself alone when I say that if the singling out and sensationalized spot lighting of isolated and emotionalized discontented outbursts represents our only other alternative, we would far prefer to read of the life cycle of the tsi-tsi fly.

Having described my conception of your duty to us, I must admit that we of Elk Grove Village have a duty of equal or even greater import. While you endeavor to accentuate the positive from without, we must make every effort to eliminate the negative from within. Certainly the net result will be beneficial to our fair village as well as to your sometimes not so fair publication, in the short run as well as the long.

We must remember that in the eyes of our older neighboring communities, we are little more than unwanted interlopers, and we owe it to them as well as ourselves to carefully guide our development so as to insure its being a wholesome one. Each of us wants to be considered a desirable supplement to the northwest suburban area, and we must therefore put our best foot forward so as to dignify your village and its growth.

Accordingly ,our public or publicized statements must be carefully weighed and evaluated not only from the standpoint of what we intend them to accomplish, but also from the higher and more exacting standard, what potential harm might they ultimately cause.

I have no intention of criticizing the honest differences of opinion which will undoubtedly arise, nor the level-headed and carefully cultivated expression thereof, so long as it is calculated to effect overall internal improvement and advancement. This is good exercise, and to so flex our civic muscles is in fact a prerequisite to our continued proper development. We all know however that a divided and disgruntled group of any kind cannot even begin to mimic the capacity for accomplishments of its efficient and organized counterpart.

It is disturbing, to say the least, to witness so much disorganization in a community which boasts of so many healthily motivated organized groups. With this in mind, I pledge my unreserved cooperation in facilitating the development of harmony between these various groups as well as among the residents of Elk Grove Village on an individual basis.

At the same time, I solicit your cooperation, and urge the performance of your duty to the utmost of your ability.

Your anticipated cooperation is appreciated.

Frank M. Hines

On Other Foot

Thank you for printing my letter against the CTA subsidy tax, and for the excellent coverage printed the following week in your paper.

I enjoyed reading the articles in the daily papers of how upset Mayor Daley was about the passing of the bill for increased sales tax which he said would not benefit Chicago and for the rejecting of the CTA subsidy. Did he ever think of how we suburbanites who were really going to pay the bill for the CTA through the real estate tax, the gas tax and the car tax, felt about THAT? It's a little different when the shoe is on the other foot.

Thrill Maniacs

This is a warning to all residents of Bensenville and the surrounding area that a pair of strange thrill-seeking maniacs are on the loose using the telephone to inform people that a member of the family has been seriously injured or killed. Three families in Bensenville and one family in Elmhurst received such calls last Wednesday afternoon, July 8.

This is the way the calls are made:

When you answer the phone a young woman asks you if Mr. X is home. If the answer is "no" again, she then tells you that she is the secretary for the Elmhurst police and that Mr. X has been critically injured and is calling for his family. He is in Elmhurst hospital.

Then you hear in the background the voice of another young lady who says "Mr. X has just died." The first woman then tells you, "I'm sorry but Mr. X just died," and hangs up the phone.

It is unfortunate that these two perverted young women couldn't have been at the Elmhurst hospital to have had the pleasure of seeing the distraught families arrive at the hospital, having left their places of employment to rush to Elmhurst, only to find that it was all a hoax.

May I take this opportunity to express hearty thanks for your splendid cooperation during the recent Crusade of the American Cancer Society conducted during the month of April.

Unhealthy Hypocrisies

Adult Views Toward Movies

By MARTIN E. MARTY

Censorship is again an issue, and it is not easily to be resolved. Most of the headlines center on the movies, the medium most involved in such squabbles for four decades and more. When television limited cinema audiences, motion pictures began to be more controversial in their bid for attention. Lately "Room at the Top," "Anatomy of a Murder," and "Lady Chatterly's Lover" have been under debate to the glee of the producers and the confusion of the public. A first step toward solution could come if we would make some healthy distinctions and rid ourselves of some unhealthy hypocrisies.

A healthy distinction, for instance, is that between fare for children and adults. Certain censors have recently introduced the canon, "If it is not good for my child, it is not good for me." On the face of it this is absurd, yet we give it serious attention. Why? Children and adults do live in different worlds. Certain realities that are necessary in the adult world are kept from children, who have realities of their own which they keep mysteriously from adults. Some stories, reflective of their time, and profound interpretations of it, must include material beyond the intellectual or moral grasp of the immature. Yet, this distinction which we observe in almost all realms of life is not permitted in movie censorship.

"Anatomy of a Murder" is a diverting (if overlong) and unimportant movie; it is hard to become excited about its message. But most of the censorial debate centered around two long words, words which appear daily without censure in newspapers, magazines, high school texts, and adult conversation. Simply because we have not often heard them in theaters we were to shy away now. They can hardly appeal to prurient interests or arouse interest in obscenities: try to say either one with passion! To Mr. Preminger's financial satisfaction, that issue is settled.

I am not arguing that voluntary groups in America have no right to discourage their members from seeing certain films—or all films. I am not prepared to argue that there is no place for censorship. But we have not been very adult about it. I have a waggish solution, though, and it relates to the aforementioned subject of hypocrisy. Had Preminger, producer of the film in question, named it "Anatomy of a Murder in the Cathedral," he would have been all right. Religion sanctions any subject. None is too sentimental, too salacious, too juicy, too sordid for presentation if it can be enhanced by a religious aura. "David and Bathsheba," "Samson and Delilah," "The Prodigal Son" and others fared so well because they could count on religious support, because they had ostensibly Biblical themes. There was nothing religious and certainly nothing Christian about these—they were among the foulest products of the cinemakers' art. And we took our Sunday Schools to see them!

No one knew this better than Cecil B. DeMille, whose whole career was devoted to exploiting this. Arthur Knight, in his history of "The Liveliest Art," tells how DeMille reveals "clearly how superficial, even hypocritical" morality in the Hays Office era was. No one was more addicted to sophisticated and worldly moviemaking; when the climate was changed, DeMille switched. He cast all the sophistication and worldliness against a Biblical background, as in his productions in 1923 and recently of "The Ten Commandments." "Sex would still sell tickets, but flagrant immorality would not." "Perhaps because DeMille has always trumpeted his moral lessons more sententiously than any other director would dare, his films have also carried more sensational sinning than anyone else's. Better than any other director of the era, he seems to have apprehended a basic quality in his audiences—on the one hand their tremendous eagerness to see what they considered sinful and taboo, and on the other, the fact that they could enjoy sin only if they were able to preserve their own sense of righteous respectability in the process."

There is some revolt now, some sign of maturity. The Jesuit periodical "America" is lambasting the latest drivel about a priest, "Say One for Me." "America" knows that the religious audience and the religious vocation are easily exploited on film. When more of us recognize this, we shall approach adulthood in attitudes to film. I have to close now—want to go see "Anatomy of a Murder."

Find the Strength

Worship Together

Man must worship in several ways: alone with his God, and in the warmth of the family circle, or in the common meeting place where distinctions disappear and all are one in humility and veneration.

A noted clergyman once told of a parishioner who explained his irregular attendance at worship by saying he could feel as close to God, could worship Him just as well, on a windswept, sunset-drenched hill.

The clergyman gently replied: "Of course you can, but DO you?"

Many do have their windswept hills. But the light that drenches our houses of public worship has its own special added blessing for us when we join our family and our fellow men in acknowledging together a Power far greater than ourselves.

As the Religion In American Life program urges, "Find the Strength for Your Life . . . Worship Together This Week."

Key to Downtown's Future Is Parking

"The central business districts of a city must supply adequate parking facilities if they hope to survive, because the business community is dependent upon those who shop by automobile."

This was the warning issued business leaders by Matthew C. Sielski, director of the Chicago Motor club's safety and traffic engineering department.

Sielski, in discussing "Parking and Its Effect on Business," said that business men must meet the challenge of the shopping center if the central business districts of a city are to continue to prosper.

He said that a good central parking program should contain a concentrated effort to develop a sound traffic plan. This would include, according to Sielski, development of one-way streets, prohibiting of objectionable parking, development of good off-street parking facilities, and elimination of of state routes through the business district.

SIELSKI SAID that a sound parking plan could be financed in several ways— by a bond revenue act, by bond financing through parking meter revenue, by a merchant validation plan, by municipally owned parking lots, and by municipal and private enterprise.

He said that the success of shopping centers is due to adequate parking facilities, coupled with freedom from traffic interference.

'Business districts are not doomed," said Sielski. "They still have many advantages over shopping centers, including more goods and services to offer. However, the central business district's prosperity will grow directly in proportion to the type of parking program business men are willing to develop."

Summer Stage Production's Set Aug. 6-8

Summer Stage is now in its fourth season of presenting interesting plays to this area's theatre audiences. Under the sponsorship of Village Theatre, it has presented three plays.

Summer Stage, a non-profit dramatic organization, made its debut in 1956 with "The Importance of Being Earnest." The following year the group, limited to high school and college students in the area, came back with another show, "Dear Ruth."

Last year Summer Stage presented "Outward Bound" under the direction of Don Baylor, a member of Village Theatre.

For this summer's production of "I Am a Camera" by John van Druten, Summer Stage again has the competent directorship of Don Baylor. The members of Summer Stage all hope that the people of this area will be interested in the earnest efforts of this group and come to see the production. "I Am a Camera" will be presented August 6, 7, & 8 at Miner School at 8 p.m. Thursday night, August 6, will be charity benefit night. All proceeds from this night will be given to the Countryside Farm in Barrington, a school for retarded children. Also on Thursday night, a $10 ham will be given away. (B8

Strengthen Mental, Emotional Resource

by LELAND ELLIS TRUXELL

Much has been written about natural resource; but almost always they have been thought of as such things as timber and coal, oil and iron ore, water and soil. Few of us realize that each of us is created with tremendous natural emotional and mental resources.

Much must be done to prepare raw material to serve a useful purpose. So, too, with our emotional and mental resources. They must be refined, be mixed with "blood, sweat and tears." Only by passing through heat at a tremendous temperature is iron ore changed into a usable comodity; and it must be yet more treated and mixed with alloys to serve particular purposes. So, too, with our minds and hearts. Only when they have passed through the fire of tremendous ordeals are they strengthened to face successfully the most difficult experiences that life can bring.

Sometimes when iron ore or oil come up to standard. So, too, with is being prepared, impurities remain in. Then the operation has to be repeated to make them man. He may pass through many trials and yet emerge with impurities; and so he must be returned to the fire until he is strong enough to face what life offers, and accomplish the job for which he has been created.

THIS REFINING process has been going on in man for generations, but he has yet far to go. The mind is growing in power and ability, memory and reason, so that we have learned to change natural resources into more and more useful, but often fearful, tools; but in the process, our emotions, still the same as at the time we were created, often incite us to the point of self destruction.

Many good psychiatrists say that to strengthen our emotions we must join mind and spirit; for without Christ the refining heat of the times through which we are passing burns the ore instead of temporing it. The Bible says that with God, all things are possible. The lessons of experience have shown that without him, they are not; so let us strengthen our natural selves by refining and temporing our hearts and minds with the spirit of God within us.

A Winter Wonderland Opens In Summer at Meadowdale

You can scotch the torrid temperatures these hot summer weekends at a retreat practically in your own backyard and at almost no cost to you.

A winter wonderland awaits you within the environs of Chicagoland, on Chicago's northwest side and minutes off the Illinois Northwest Tollway.

Here you will find ice skating for young and old, delightful organ music, spacious inexpensive dining areas serving your favorite dishes and attractive shops offering merchandise to fit your physical and financial requirements and exquisite taste.

ALL THESE attractions are offered at the Wintergarden Arcade, a part of the two-year-old Meadowdale Shopping Center in Carpentersville on Highway 25 between routes 62 and 63 four miles north of route 25 exit on the Illinois Northwest Tollway.

Wintergarden Arcade is open weekdays 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Saturdays and Sundays from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Wintergarden Arcade, housing 28 of the 54 shops in the Meadowdale Shopping Center, is located at the south end of the area. It offers a variety of weekend activities for shoppers and visitors.

SHOPPERS AND visitors not interested in testing their skill on skates may lunch or dine in the Wintergarden Terrace Dining Room, extending the width of the east end of the ice rink and nearly the entire length of the rink's north side. Those who prefer may enjoy a snack at the tables grouped at the west end of the ice arena.

All the areas afford ringside seats and full view of activities on the ice which always are exciting as skilled skaters entertain. Organ music adds a note of gayety to the festivities.

ARRAYED ABOUT THE ice rink are shops specializing in haberdashery, juvenile, preteens and women's ready-to-wear clothing, millinery and lingerie.

There is a beauty salon, barber shop, jeweler, department store, gift and card shop, boat and sports shop, store featuring musical instruments and music lessons, doughnut shop, photographer's studio, book studio and a loan company ready to finance your purchases.

Wintergarden Arcade is less than a year old but expanding rapidly along with the entire shopping center and the surrounding area of Carpentersville. In the past six years the population of the community has increased from 1,200 to over 15,000, making Carpentersville the fastest growing of all Chicago's northwest suburbs. (Bill

Cinerama Observes Sixth Anniversary

The Palace theatre in Chicago will celebrate its sixth Cinerama anniversary on Wednesday, July 29 with a festively decorated lobby, radio interviews of patrons and celebrities and the inauguration of a one-week contest which will offer the winner a free trip to Hawaii for two people.

The Matson Navigation company is providing the passage on either the Lurline or Matsonia, Matson's "White Ship" fleet to Honolulu. The contest winner will have his choice of three separate sailings during the fall.

CINERAMA will fly the winners to either Los Angeles or San Francisco where they will board the Matson liner. After a 4½ day luxury cruise, they will arrive in Honolulu where their destination will be the famous Hawaiian Village hotel for a week's vacation before their return by Matson ship to the mainland.

People may fill out cards in the lobby of the Palace threatre where "Cinerama South Seas Adventure" is now playing and qualify as participants in the contest. Purchase of a ticket is not necessary to enter the contest. The winner will be announced at an official drawing on Wednesday, Aug. 5.

More than 5.5 million people will have seen the five Cinerama productions in the six year stay of the unique film process at the Palace. (Bill

Plays Announced For Theatre Guild

Three comedies, a melodrama and a recent Broadway drama make up the schedule for the Des Plaines Theatre Guild's 1959-60 season, it was announced this week by officers of the fourteen-year-old community theatre group which last year numbered nearly one thousand regular subscribers.

All productions of the organization will be presented four consecutive Friday and Saturday nights, at 8:30 p.m., in the Rand Park auditorium, 2025 Miner st., Des Plaines.

The Guild opens its fall season Friday night, September 18, with the uproarious comedy, "The Biggest Thief in Town," to be followed in November with Clifford Odets' exciting story about Hollywood, 'The Big Knife."

ANOTHER comedy, "The Reluctant Debutante," will be presented by the Guild in January, and the March offering will be "Anastasia," recent Broadway and movie hit drama. For its final show of the season next spring the Guild plans to produce "The Gazebo," comedy which was playing on Broadway just last season.

Season subscription to the Des Plaines Theatre Guild's 1959-60 season, at $7 each, are now available, and may be obtained by phoning Mrs. Charlotte Kenzel, TA 3-2216.

Try-outs for the Guild's opening show, 'The Biggest Thief in Town" will be held at 8:30 p.m., August 7 and 10, at Rand Park. (Bill

Farce Slated At Shady Lane

"Three on a Honeymoon," an English background farce, will be the attraction on Shady Lane theatre's stage next week, when the E. V. Tidmarth play will be given a 7-performance run.

As the title suggests, there are two wives and a husband involved in the proceedings. Lawrence Vining, a Londoner, with a California divorce decree in his pocket, marries a sweet young thing named Rosemary. Moments after carrying her over the threshold, wife No. 1, Yvonne, interrupts the honeymooners with Page 1 news. Their divorce has been ruled invalid. Just how Vining manages his harem occupies 110 minutes of the two hour comedy.

Mary Jane Kersey and Ann Blager do the roles of the wives, while Robert Baines, Scott Griffin and Dale Benson, a likeable juvenile lead, assume the principal male roles and Ervil Kay Hart will contribute her usual delightful character delineation.

"Separate Rooms" will succeed the honeymoon frolic the week of August 4 to 9. (Bill

Wheat Shows Little Effect On Retail Price of Bread

Lower wheat prices would have little effect on the retail price of bread. L. F. Stice, University of Illinois grain marketing economist, reports that consumers are now paying five or six cents more for a loaf of bread than they paid 10 years ago. But during the same time the amount the farmer receives for the wheat in a pound loaf of white bread has dropped from 2.6 to 2.4 cents.

The price of wheat has little effect on bread prices because of the value of the wheat in a loaf of bread is such a small part of the total cost. Stice cites U. S. Department of Agriculture figures showing that in a loaf of bread selling for 19.3 cents the farm value of wheat is only 2.4 cents, and the lard and sugar, .6 cent. So the farmer gets only 3 cents for the ingredients in a loaf of bread.

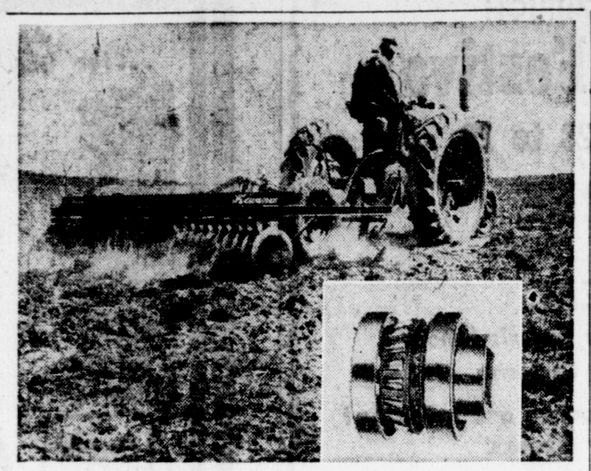
GRAIN ELEVATORS, transportation agencies and processors of non-flour ingredients get about 1½ cents, flour mills get about ½ cent, grocers get about 3 cents and bakers get about 11 cents. These charges for marketing and baking add up to 16½ cents a loaf, or 84 per cent of the retail price of the bread. The farm value of the ingredients is only 16 per cent of the price.

Stice points out that during the past 10 years changes in marketing charges have more than offset the effect of the drop in wheat price on the retail price of bread. The baker's and wholesaler's share has jumped from 6.3 to 11.2 cents. The grocer's handling margin has risen from 2.4 to 3.1 cents. The elevator and transportation margin has jumped from 1.2 to 1.4 cents, rail rates on grains increasing 70 per cent.

The flour miller's charges have remained .6 cent. Total marketing and processing charges for a loaf of bread have therefore jumped 5.8 cents in the past 10 years. Since the farm value of ingredients has decreased .4 cent, the net price increase of the typical loaf of bread from 1948 to 1958 is 5.4 cents a loaf.

These opposite trends in bread prices and marketing charges compared with the value of bread incredients has caused many wheat producers to advocate a government program under which farmers would receive a higher price for wheat going into bread and other food products. Stice says their argument is correct that higher wheat prices should have little effect on bread prices.



Two years of extensive field tests have proved that a new square hole, double row Timken tapered roller bearing, engineered into a rugged new disc harrow, makes it possible to do a better discing job in less time. Disc harrows mounted on the new Timken bearing pull easier; tractors can pull larger discs in a higher gear, blades turn more freely, scour and cut better.

Lubrication is required but twice a year; at the beginning and ending of each season. Bearing grease seals operate at maximum efficiency in keeping dirt and dust out, lubricant in, and maintenance down. Old style sleeve bearing applications may require up to 4 lbs. of grease and an hours greasing time daily.

The discs are mounted on a square axle which in turn is supported by a square hole bearing, thus assuring a positive lock against rotation of the inner bearing race on the axle, as well as positively locking the disc. The disc thus locked, turns freely and truly with each rotation of the axle.

Commercial Fertilizer Has Necessary Soil Ingredients

By: James Fizzell,
Assistant Farm Adviser

As plants grow they utilize various chemicals which they pick up from the soil. The three chemicals which are used in the greatest amount, and are most often found to be lacking in soil, are the ones which are commonly found in commercial fertilizer.

The analysis, which is required by law to be printed on the fertilizer package tells the per cent of each of the three chemicals present in the package. If one of the materials is not present it is represented by a zero.

THE FIRST NUMBER, in the series of three, represents nitrogen. A fertilizer of analysis 10-8-6 contains 10 per cent nitrogen. Nitrogen is necessary for the formation of many growth materials, particularly proteins. Plants adequately supplied with nitrogen have a deep green color and grow rapidly. Plants lacking in nitrogen are stunted and the leaves turn yellow starting with the lower leaves.

The second number represents phosphorus. Phosphorus causes good root development and is necessary for proper use of carbohydrates, by the plant.

A lack of phosphorus causes stunting of the plants.

The last number represents potassium or potash. This material gives substance to the plant and tends to overcome the effect of excess nitrogen. A lack of potassium causes soft growth and a drying of the edges of the leaves.

IN ADDITION to the above materials, some fertilizer contains various minor elements such as boron or magnesium.

Recently some fertilizer producers have come out with "one shot" fertilizers. These contain the chemicals in compounds which are not readily broken down. This makes the fertilizer available to the plants over a longer period of time.

Fertilizers are available in almost any analysis to fit any soil need. If you are not sure what your soil needs, contact the Farm Bureau office for information on soil testing.

Weed Killing Chemicals Harmful to Other Crop

Chemicals that have proved invaluable in controlling weeds and insects are also proving harmful. For some of these same chemicals have deadly effects when they drift to sensitive crops in neighboring fields.

Probably 2, 4-D has been the biggest problem. It was the first selective weed control chemical that was successful, and it has found wide use. Yet it is damaging to cotton, tomatoes, potatoes, grapes, soybeans and broad-leaf crops. Home owners have even observed damage to shrubs and gardens.

SOME PERSONS using these weed killers, and other compounds that cause damage, have encountered costly lawsuits. Since this damage is a relatively new problem, few states have written laws regulating it, so damage suits have been handled in the courts. Results of these damage suits give a general idea of how spray users are liable for damages they cause. Where there are no definite written laws, the court decisions become the "common law."

The courts have recognized that farmers have the right to use beneficial dusts and sprays that eliminate weeds. But at the same time farmers must exercise extreme care to see that the spray or dust does not spread to other crops.

Courts have generally ruled that crop owners may be liable for spreading poisonous dusts and sprays negligently. This is true regardless of whether the owner has been carless in applying the spray or dust.

One Arkansas farmer was found liable for damages when 2, 4-D drifted to nearby crops even though he tried to be careful.

THE LOUISIANA Supreme Court has stated that a doctrine of strict liability will apply when drifting sprays of dusts destroy crops.

In California a farmer preparing to spray a poisonous insecticide warned a nearby beekeeper. The beekeeper did not confine and protect his bees. Consequently the farmer was found "not guilty" when some of the bees were killed.

A farmer cannot escape liability from drift damage by hiring others to do the spraying. Courts in several states have agreed that, when spraying or dusting is dangerous, one cannot escape legal responsibility by hiring an independent custom operator.

Safety Field Day

The Illinois Rural Safety Council is sponsoring an all-day Safety Field Day July 23 at the Exposition Gardens in Peoria, Illinois, according to O. L. Hogsett, University of Illinois farm and home safety specialist. Registration will begin at 9:30 a. m. daylight saving time ,and the program will start at 10.

The main objective of the Safety Field Day is to give those who have or may have responsibility for local safety programs a chance to become familiar with demonstrations, exhibits and other safety material available for use in local areas. The program will also show and explain the need for more farm and home safety for the general public.

AFTER registration there will be numerous safety exhibits to view. George Perisho, Peoria County farm adviser, will welcome the group at 10 a. m. Before lunch there will be demonstrations on safe farm and home living and the safe use of home appliances, as well as a demonstration on what to do while waiting for the fire truck to arrive.

After lunch a new method of artificial respiration and a fire-arm safety demonstration will be shown. A fire truck will unload all of its equipment and explain what the fire squad can do besides put out a fire. The various types of fire extinguishers will be a breaking-distance demonstration.

It is hoped that this field day will help to explain why farm and home safety is so greatly needed.

Wheeling Home Unit Meets Today

The Wheeling unit of the Cook County Home Bureau will meet today, July 23, in the Farm Bureau building, 201 N. Dunton, Arlington Heights, at 1 p.m. Mrs. Claradehl Upham, home adviser, will give a lesson on "Understanding People with Handicaps."

Hostesses for the day will be Mrs. Vadelma Ashcraft, Mrs. Johanna Adam and Miss Lilly Redeker.

Any women interested in learning more about the subject lesson above are invited to attend the Wheeling unit meeting.

Elk Grove 4-H Club Hears Members

The monthly meeting of the Elk Grove 4-H club was held July 14 in the home of Glenn Busse, Algonquin rd. Talks were given by Linda Brown on lettuce and Barbara Brown on cows. A demonstration followed on 4-H rabbit projects, given by Kathleen Brown.

Members who have not given a talk or demonstration during the year must do so at the next meeting. They are Glenn Busse, Bruce osman, Joe Miller, Tom Sullivan, Paul Wilson, Dennis Zick and Joe Rodriquez.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday Aug. 11, in the home of Barbara, Kathleen and Linda Brown, 1346 Kensington st., Arlington Heights.

Poultry Day Set July 27 At Illinois

The 12th Annual All-Industry Poultry Day is scheduled for July 27 at the University of Illinois. Featuring 15 speakers, the program will present a wide variety of topics pertaining to today's poultry industry.

Kicking off the morning program will be S. F. Ridlen, U. of I. extension poultryman, who will discuss debeaking of laying hens. Following Ridlen, the Clint Park family of Warrensburg will relate their experiences in mechanized egg production.

D. J. BRAY, U. of I. poultry research staff, will report on protein requirements of laying hens. Wrapping up the morning program will be reports on the Illinois Egg Council and activities of the National Poultry and Egg Board. Henry Marlowe, president of the Illinois Poultry and Hatchery Federation; Scott Hinners, Southern Illinois University; and Ernest Brown, hatcheryman from Gibson City, will present these reports.

A broiler barbecue will be served for lunch.

Headlining the afternoon program will be Dr. R. L. Baker, Pennsylvania State University, who will discuss egg contracts. Poultry research reports in breeding, food technology, marketing and pathology will also be presented. And G. F. Godfrey of Honeggers, Inc., will present his experiences with slat floors.

A tour of the U. of I. poultry farm will climax the day's activities.

The morning program begins at 9:00 a. m. in the law building auditorium.

CARL F. MEES
with Your Farm Adviser

By: CARL F. MEES
Farm Adviser

This is the 16th National Farm Safety Week. "Safety Makes Sense" is the theme upon which many phases of this national farm safety week are being built.

These are the facts that make this week important.

1. Farm work accidents claim about 3,500 lives each year, more than any other major industry.
2. About 12,000 farm residents lose their lives each year in all types of accidents.
3. A million or more farm people suffer accidental injuries and the accompanying disabilities, miseries and financial troubles each year.

SAFETY MAKES sense in many ways, some of which are:

1. Fewer Deaths.
2. Fewer Injuries.
3. Less Expense.
4. Less grief and suffering.

Who loses after an accident? Everyone in the nation is affected, directly or indirectly, by the annual farm accident toll. Business in general loses economically and socially after a farm accident. The victims and their families, however, suffer the greatest loss.

Human failure, not motor vehicles, farm implements and animals, is the basic cause of accidents. In nearly every case, human failure to recognize and correct a hazard is the real cause of accidental death and injury. Human failures include: Hurry, lack of common sense, improper equipment, improper care and use of equipment, procrastination, false confidence, lack of knowledge.

OBVIOUSLY most, if not all accidents can be prevented. It is a fact that in states where good safety committees with well planned, active programs are in existence, accident rates have been reduced. National Farm Safety Week has been an important factor in bringing about this reduction, and each year the effectiveness of this week-long campaign becomes more and more apparent. Why don't you promise now to be more careful not only this week but every week. Yes, "Safety Makes Sense." Let's make every week Farm Safety Week.

EXTRA riders falling off and being run over is the second largest cause of tractor deaths. Children aren't the only victims, but they are involved much too often. In each case the adult who gave permission to ride thought he was doing the child a favor. He would have done anything to protect the child except refuse him a ride on the tractor.

FARM WORK is heavy work. But don't carry loads so big you can't see where you are going. It's bad enough to walk safely around some yards when you can see, but it's doubly dangerous when your arms are full or your vision obstructed. If you fall, the minute you tried to save may lengthen out to weeks in a hospital. Just remember that it is hard to farm with a broken arm or leg.

Give Tips To Handle Thin Summer Egg Shell Problem

The problem of thin egg shells reaches a peak for many poultrymen in the late spring and summer. Don Bray, poultry specialist at the University of Illinois, offers the following pointers to help you to better understand and do something about this problem.

Hens lay eggs with thin shells in warm weather and near the end of their production year. Some poultrymen have stopped buying chicks in the spring to keep both the hot weather and end-of-production - year thinness from coming at the same time. They buy their chicks in the summer and fall. Yet many farmers can't make this change with their present farming programs.

BRAY SAYS if shells are weak in the spring, before the real hot weather begins, you may have had a respiratory disease in your flock. When hot weather strikes, remember to keep your chicken house temperature as low as possible. The warmer the house, the thinner the egg shells.

Also, provide plenty of oyster shells. They won't prevent soft egg shells, but they can keep the problem from getting worse.

Bray also gives these three hints on handling summer eggs:

1. Keep nests well filled with litter. Don't let the eggs bump hard surfaces.
2. Put pads or a flat in the bottom of your egg baskets. Spread the eggs evenly in the basket as you gather; don't build a pyramid. Start another basket when you've picked up 100 to 125 eggs, because too many eggs in one basket increase the chance of breakage.
3. Since summer eggs are more fragile than those produced in the winter, remember to handle them gently.

Crystallize Farm Protest At Zone Plan

Farmers' objections to the proposed rezoning of unincorporated county land was crystallized Thursday by Andrew J. Dallstream, chairman of the zoning board of appeals, when he said at a zoning hearing:

"Farm groups look unfavorably on the rezoning of all land in the county because it might raise taxes . . . They want farm zoning, not residential, on tracts of 'reasonable size,' and their proposals are under consideration by the zoning board of appeals."

Dallstream's remarks came on the heels of a statement by A. F. Wild, attorney for the Cook county farm bureau, that farm classification had been eliminated entirely.

THE PROPOSED comprehensive amendment to the present county zoning ordinance would rule out farm zoning entirely, the idea being that the future of the county is residential primarily.

The zoning board had not ruled out the possibility of a return to farm zoning, and as Dallstream said to one farmer who pre-emptorily stood up to voice his objection, "The possibility of a return to some sort of farm classification is not out of the question."

ROLLING MEADOWS' City Atty., John Doyle (left) voices the city's opposition to the proposed zoning of the Arlington Park race track zoning board of appeals an dthe county zoning Friday afternoon, as members of the county commission follow reference maps.

Racing Is Industrial; Not So, Say Officials

Two issues—whether horseracing is a manufacturing process and the unlikely prospect that Arlington Park Jockey club might "go out of business"—were major points in Friday hearings on the proposed rezoning of Palatine township.

Under the proposed ordinance, the entire track property is zoned M-1, light industrial.

Spokesmen for Arlington Heights and Rolling Meadows at the County building urged that blanket industrial zoning be reconsidered, stressing that it would permit possible industrial development of the area without adequate controls. Both groups pointed out that the race track bordered single-family homes in the two municipalities.

* * *

M. EUGENE Baughman, planning and zoning consultant, spoke for Arlington Heights and stressed the "impact" industrial development of the track area would bring, "dwarfing the effect Arlington park has had on the area." He suggested a special zoning category, possibly M-1A, to limit development to a definite "plan." There was basis for the manufacturing zoning, Baughman said, based on the present use of the land, but he pointed to the traffic problems industrial zoning might bring.

ROLLING MEADOWS City Attorney John A. Doyle stated the single-family development on the city master plan, and urged the county to retain this classification until "something in the future might indicate the need to rezone to the contrary." He pointed out the M-1 zoning proposed would immediately border on single family homes in the city.

HARRY F. Chaddick, whose committee developed the proposed county rezoning ordinance, stressed the M-1 manufacturing classification had been given to the track area to make the race track a "legal conforming use as a special use in the M-1 district." He emphasized that any other zoning of the area would make the track a "non-conforming use" and would "freeze operations within the track by barring any enlargement."

* * *

DOYLE suggested a special "zoning classification" be considered for the race track such as had been suggested for golf courses and forest preserve lands. Under the proposed ordinance, all golf courses and forest preserve lands are zoned residential, making them "non-conforming uses." This would conceivably prevent a golf club from rebuilding a clubhouse if its present buildings should be destroyed. If special zoning is to be considered in this instance, then a similar special zoning would "be in order for the race track" Doyle said.

WHILE USES of the race track property under the M-1 zoning would be limited, city officials have stated that it is "much easier" to get rezoning to "higher types" such as business or commercial development than it is to request rezoning for such use from residential to commercial. They expressed fear over what might be the eventual development of the large 400-acre race track area.

* * *

PALATINE village spokesmen also suggested a possible "special category" for the race track which is "not likely to go out of business." Charles Klopp, chairman of the Palatine plan commission stressed the need for actual industrial development instead of assigning an industrial zoning to the 400 acres which might never be developed for real industry. SS

Pledge Hearings In Townships

Suburban residents of Cook county were assured last week by the zoning board of appeals that hearings on the proposed amendment to the county zoning ordinance would be heard in the townships affected.

Current hearings at the County building are preliminary and of a general nature, Zoning Chairman Andrew J. Dallstream told a large gathering of suburban home owners at Thursday's hearings.

The proposed rezoning of the county has come under fire by both home owners and farmers in the county. The principal objection of many home owners has been that the hearings were scheduled for the County building in Chicago's Loop and were not accessible to most working people.

Conflict of Interests Rumor Quashed at Zone Hearing

At a hearing Thursday on the proposed rezoning of Cook county, rumors were quashed that Chaddick rezoning committee members have a financial interest in a highly controversial plot in Northfield township.

The property in question, an 11-acre site on the northwest corner of Willow and Landwehr rds., belongs to Dr. George Drymalski, his cousin, Eugene, and a third party. The tract had been rezoned, under the proposed ordinance, for business use.

A DELEGATION of 75 Northfield township residents filled the back of the hearing chamber and waited for more than three hours before the matter was brought up. They had appeared to protest the business zoning in the heart of a residential area.

Harry F. Chaddick, architect of the new zoning ordinance, was aware of the rumors that he and or his staff had planned a business use for the area because of a supposed, but unfounded, interest in the property.

The rumor was killed when the attorney for the actual owners, Richard J. Phelan, appearing for his clients, also objected to the proposed zoning. He said:

"My clients bought the property, some 26 acres in all, in February, 1959, and at no time was the question of business zoning considered. They bought the land to build their homes on."

THEY, TOO, were equally surprised at the proposed zoning of 800 feet on Willow rd. and 600 feet on Landwehr rd., he said. They still object, he added.

One of the several delegates for the 75-person delegation from the township was George Campbell, 2330 Ridge dr., Landwehr Estates, an unincorporated area southwest of the village of Northbrook.

Campbell presented the zoning board of appeals with a petition, signed by 321 members of the Landwehr Civic association, asking that the 11 acres in question be zoned residential.

"Here is proposed spot zoning for business in an area that is 100 per cent residential or farming for a mile in any direction," Campbell declared.

"It would allow gas stations, taverns, small shops, etc. on this corner, and would constitute harmful encroachment on the rights of residents of the area who have built homes in the $30,000 to $80,000 class," he added.

CHADDICK defended the establishment of such a shopping area site, saying:

"There is not a shopping area within 1½ miles of this intersection, and it is our belief that when the surrounding area, all of which would be zoned residential, is eventually filled with homes, a nearby shopping area will be needed."

The actual location of such a shopping district, Chaddick continued, was determined by an analysis of competitive facilities, competitive vacant sites, traffic patterns on major roads, accessibility, population's projected growth, and average family income.

The matter of the 11-acre site will be reviewed at a hearing in the township.

Forest River Plan Upset by Rezoning

John Bloom of Carl Gardener & associates, planning firm retained by the Forest River Home Owners association, has voiced objections to proposed residential reclassification in sections 23, 24 and 25 of Wheeling township.

The proposed change would reclassify most of the three areas into the R-3 category. Bloom has objected to the change because his firm has planned for a restricted manufacturing district and a restricted service district in the areas.

BLOOM SAID his firm has recommended that the manufacturing district M-1 be established along the east side of the Sault Ste. Marie railroad and that the service district B-2 be zoned along the west side of River road. These areas are planned, he said, to alleviate the tax burden on Forest River homeowners.

"However, we have not made an economic survey of the area," Bloom admitted.

HARRY F. Chaddick, director of the zoning committee for the Cook county board, suggested that Bloom's firm prepare a report and submit it to his staff and the zoning board of appeals. The report would include an economic analysis of business districts, density study on a square mile basis, and an idea of the development of industrial use in the three sections.

Half Cent Sales Tax for County

Some relief to hard-pressed property owners is expected through the new legislation placing in effect a special half cent sales tax in Cook County's 450 square miles of unincorporated area.

August 1 has been set by the Cook county board as the date for establishing the tax.

Authority to levy the tax is contained in a law signed last Friday by Gov. Stratton.

The tax will put merchants in the unincorporated areas such as Prospect Heights on a par with those in Chicago and most suburbs such as Mt. Prospect where the extra half cent has been charged for several years.

THE HALF CENT sales tax receipts, which will help cover operating costs of the county government, should provide some relief for property taxpayers," said Daniel Ryan, president of the county board.

For the remainder of this fiscal year ending December 1 Ryan said the collections from the new tax will be used for reducing the levy against real estate and personal property already planned in the 1959 budget. This reduction in the property tax levy will be reflected in tax bills collected next year, he said.

The county expects at least $2 million a year through the new windfall.

Four Drivers Lose Licenses

Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier this week announced the revocation of 153 and the suspension of 275 drivers licenses, chauffeurs licenses and driving privileges based on local court convictions and police reports.

Included were the names of four area drivers who were suspended for committing three violations. They were:

Robert G. Chudik, 205 N. Fairview, Mt. Prospect; Lawrence A. Collins 101 E. Sunset rd., Mt. Prospect; Joseph A. Cheass, 314 Catalpa, Wood Dale; and William G. Cozine, 33 W. Maple, Roselle.

Chudik was issued a probationary permit to drive.

SUBURBS RIP COUNTY ZONING

Here's the Guide

Breakdown of Uses Allowed in Zoning

Here are the classifications for residential, business, and industrial use of land in Cook county, as proposed in the amendment to the present ordinance.

The six residential classifications are:

R-1—Lot sizes of 5 acres.

R-2—Lot sizes of 40,000 square feet (approximately 1 acre).

R-3—Lot sizes of 20,000 square feet.

R-4—Lot sizes of 10,000 square feet.

The above classifications are all for construction of single-family residences. R-5 and R-6, multiple-family and general residence districts, also have 10,000 foot requirements.

B-1, restricted business district, is designed for the convenience of persons residing in adjacent residential areas, and wish to satisfy basic shopping needs.

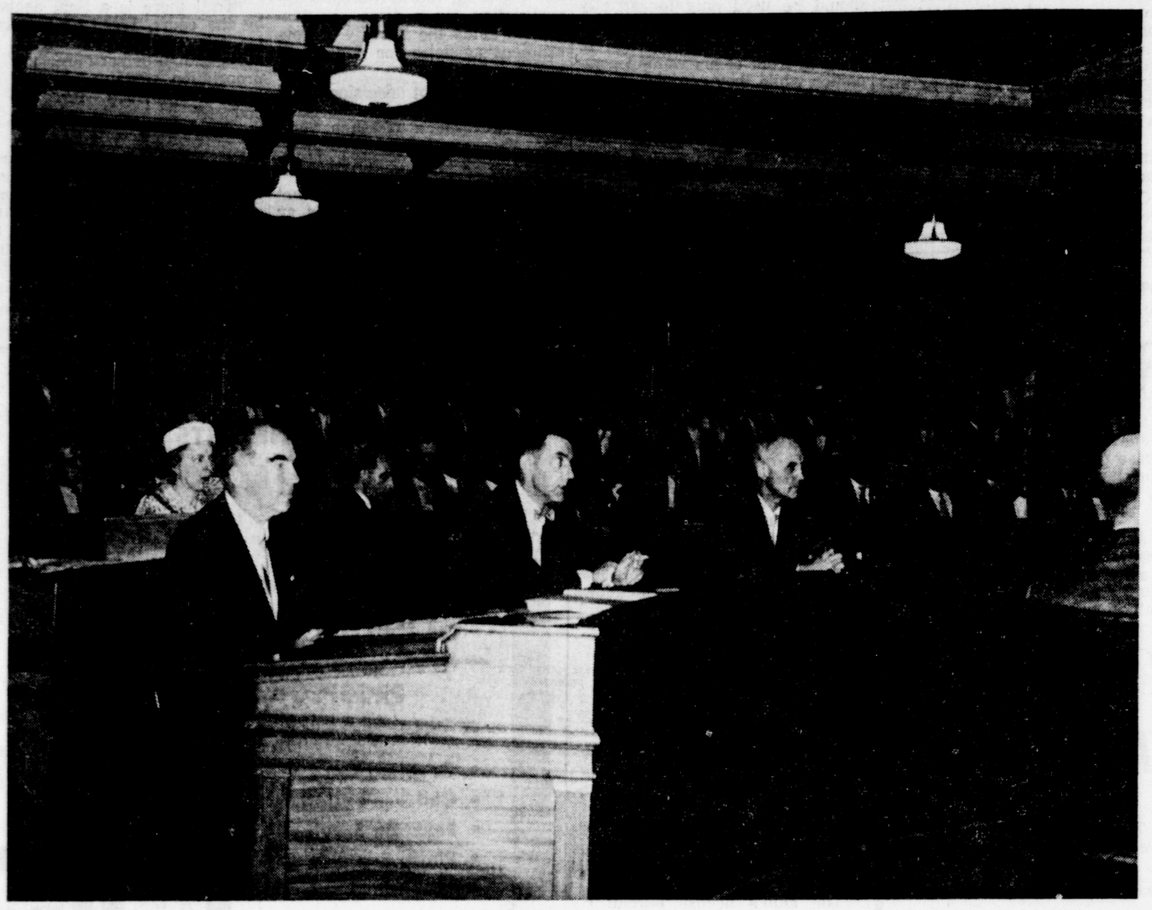
B-2, restricted service district, is designed to accompany restricted business districts and furnish basic necessary services and goods.

B-3, general business district, is designed to cater to the needs of a relatively larger consumer population than served by the restricted business district. A wide variety of business uses, therefore, is permitted.

B-4, general service district, is designed to furnish areas served by the general business district with a wide variety of necessary services and goods.

B-5, general commercial district, is designed to accommodate those uses that serve large segments of the population with a wide variety of business and commercial uses which are not compatible with those uses permitted in any other business district.

The four industrial classifications, M-1 through M-4, permit a variety of manufacturing from light to heavy industry. They are accompanied by restricting performance standards which seek to control nuisances such as noise, smoke, vibration, and general harmony with the surrounding area.



NORTHFIELD TOWNSHIP residents jam hearing room at the County building during zoning discussions last week. County Commissioner Charles F. Chaplin (left foreground) led his constituents in a protest over business classification of residential property.

Need Changes Says Oil Block

Attorneys for seven major oil interests voiced objections on the proposed rezoning of Elk Grove township Thursday at hearings before the zoning board of appeals in the County building.

Atty. Louis J. Geannopoulos, speaking for the majority of the oil companies, requested the proposed amendment be changed to allow for unrestricted storage of oil products.

GEANNOPOULOS, attorney for Texaco, Inc., stated:

"We have property in Elk Grove township (adjacent to Elk Grove Village, north of the Illinois toll road) that is presently zoned I-1, and is proposed M-1.

"We are requesting a change from M-1 to M2-, provided the text (of the ordinance) will be changed to give unrestricted storage. If we can't have such storage under this classification, we request a change to M-3," he added.

Attorneys for Shell, Pure Oil, Badger Pipe line, Cities Service, Sinclair Refining, and Standard of Indiana voiced their assent with his requests.

"You gentlemen must realize that we are serving O'Hare International airport, and we must keep on hand large supplies of aviation gasoline, jet fuel, oil, and other oil products," Geannopoulos said.

PAUL VAN T. Heddin, a Chicago zoning consultant representing Standard Oil of Indiana, reminded the zoning board that they, themselves, had approved 40 acres of the company's property at the northeast corner of Elmhurst rd. and Touhy ave. for oil storage in September, 1958.

Chairman Andrew J. Dallstream stated that neither the board nor the planners had "any view . . . to deprive you the use of your land."

DIRECTOR OF THE rezoning staff, Harry F. Chaddick, objected to the objections, saying:

"The philosophy of this ordinance is that we are the custodians of this land until the day when the villages take this property in. The zoning you people request (M 3) would allow storage of propane, nitro-glycerine, and other highly volatile materials."

Chaddick then pondered the advisability of zoning for such use when the area was being built up as a residential area.

Dallstream said the requests would receive further consideration.

Residents of Barrington Are Divided Over Zoning Plan

Residents of Barrington township, in the far northwest corner of Cook county, divided sharply Friday at a county zoning board of appeals hearing on the proposed new zoning ordinance for unincorporated county areas.

Many of the witnesses, longtime country estate and farm residents of the community, want to keep in a state of status quo the present zoning of five-acre tracts for most of the area.

THE PROPOSED new ordinance, prepared by Harry F. Chaddick, county zoning expert, recommends little change in the present Barrington zoning.

Other Barrington township landowners, many of whom have moved into the area within recent years, are asking, however, that large portions of the unincorporated areas be zoned for smaller lots, down to those of one acre in size, one-half acre, and, in one instance, even one-fourth acre.

Proponents for smaller lots contend that those of five acres in size are too large for average home owners, and that there is little chance for their sale. They say, however, that there is a strong demand for the smaller lots, particularly in the southeast corner of the township, by builders who would create new subdivisions.

RALPH G. Larson, who lives on a 75-acre tract on Penny rd., a mile south of the village of Barrington Hills, presented the zoning board with a petition, signed by members of the South Barrington Land Owners association, in which they asked that their 4,000 acres of land in the southern portion of the township be zoned so that it can be subdivided into one-acre lots for single-family dwellings, instead of the present five-acre lot zoning.

Larson said he and his neighbors can find little sale for their property now, but that if they were permitted to divide it into smaller lots, there would be a large demand for them. "The five-acre divisions are unrealistic," Larson declared. "Ordinary people just can't keep up that much land, and it would be too costly for them. We owners cannot make any money from farming it, there is little sale for the property, and our taxes keep rising."

Atty. Andrew J. Dallstream, chairman of the zoning board, who also is a resident and president of the village of Barrington Hills, suggested to Larson that the property "remain in the five-acre zoning program until such time as a subdivider should come before the zoning board with complete subdivision plans that can be studied and decided upon." If the smaller lots then should be found feasible for a certain area, the board could rezone it, Dallstream added.

Chaddick declared that under his proposed rezoning plan, the unincorporated areas of Barrington township would include 7,921 acres zoned R1 (five acre tracts); 3,539 acres zoned R2 (one acre); 160 acres zoned R3 (½ acres); 146 acres, next to the village of Barrington, zoned R4 (¼ acres.) Only 8 acres would be zoned for business, he added.

RICHARD Shefner, who lives on Mundhank rd. in the southeast section of the township, and who owns nearby property that is zoned for 5-acre tracts, asked that it be zoned for one-fourth acre tracts. The property, he said, is near the Illinois toll road and a logical site for a subdivision. A petition of his to have it rezoned was turned down three years ago by the zoning board.

"You were the only one who asked us to rezone property in Barrington township in 20 years," Dallstream told Shefner.

"It was about time someone asked you to rezone," rejoined Shefner. "I anticipate that I may be turned down in this new plan, but I hope to shock you into the realization that built-up communities are encroaching upon this farm land and that you can't withhold progress forever."

"You have succeeded in shocking us," Dallstream declared.

Among those who asked that the 5-acre tracts be not lowered were:

Miss Laura C. Witt, farm resident of the area who said her farm had been in the family 38 years; Ferris D. Gaskill, who lives on 10 acres within the area; and John I. Shaw, chairman of the zoning board of appeals of Barrington Hills.

No Profit, Though

Private clubs are not a nonconforming use in residential districts, Harry F. Chaddick told spectators at zoning hearings last week. That is, if they are not-for-profit operated, he added.

Arlington Hts. Plan Ignored, Officials Say

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS OBJECTOR, Stephen Jurco, village attorney, appears at hearings to protest proposed residential and industrial zoning on fringe of the village. He was one of some 60 persons who took issue with the proposed amendment Thursday and Friday.

The village of Arlington Heights voiced strong objection Thursday before the zoning board of appeals on the proposed rezoning of land immediately to the south of town. The proposed zoning calls for R-3 and R-4 construction—zoning which conflicts with the village's master plan.

Representing the village was Atty. Stephen Jurco and Eugene Baughman from Evert Kincaid and associates, architects of Arlington Height's master plan.

After an introduction by Jurco, Baughman said:

"MY REMARKS will be brief. The main problem is the difference in frontage requirements in R-4 zoning as the committee has proposed it. The minimum frontage requirement in Arlington Heights is 70 feet, and this proposal calls for 60 feet."

Baughman said that the area requirement of R-4, lots of 10,000 square feet, would be "acceptable, but it's the frontage we object to."

Zoning Board Chairman Andrew Dallstream agreed that 60-foot fronts are not wide enough for "present ranch styles. Most builders here are using 83-foot fronts," he said.

DALLSTREAM then asked Baughman for a recommendation for an appropriate minimum width throughout the county. Baughman said that he is concerned with R-2, R-3, and R-4, "and I think that 60 feet is the basic minimum permissible," he said, and added:

"I'd like to see that lots of 10,000 square feet have a minimum of 70 feet frontage, however. This is my recommendation."

HARRY F. Chaddick, draftsman of the proposed rezoning ordinance, defended the work of his committee in recommending the objectionable R-4. He said:

"We furnished Arlington Heights with every plan of ours, and we requested a copy of their zoning ordinance. We received no reply, and the records show this. We could only then assume that the village had no plan."

JURCO explained that the ordinance is in draft form and said: "When the ordinance is completed, you may be sure that you'll get a copy. You did, however, get a land use plan."

Chaddick countered, saying:

"You have an old village plan and we didn't get a copy of it. And we can't tell from the land use plan the density of use."

CHADDICK LATER reminded the two Arlington Heights residents that "subdivisions are actually under the control of the villages within 1½ miles. Villages can protect their interests," he said.

Baughman agreed that villages have zoning authority within that area, but said he would "feel more secure" if the county's were the same as the village's requirements.

Specter Scares 2 Communities

The specter of lodging houses, tourist homes or apartment hotels, with business shops on the ground floor immediately adjacent to single-family homes, is a definite possibility for residents of Westgate in Arlington Heights and home owners in the northeast section of Rolling Meadows.

Under the proposed comprehensive Cook county zoning ordinance, a large tract at the southwest corner of Wilke rd. and Euclid ave. will be zoned R-6 residential.

The R-6 zoning would permit multiple family dwellings, including apartment hotels with food shops, restaurants, cocktail lounges, service shops such as cleaners and other similar stores provided the main entrances are from the hotel lobby.

OFFICIALS of both Arlington Heights and Rolling Meadows protested the proposed R-6 zoning in hearings Friday before the county zoning board of appeals sitting as a special committee for the county board of commissioners.

M. Eugene Baughman, city planning and zoning consultant of Evert Kincaid and associates, developers of the Arlington Heights master plan, objected to the R-6 zoning for the village. Baughman stressed the area was zoned for single-family residential development on the Arlington master plan. He emphasized that "every application within one-half mile of Arlington Heights for multiple-family zoning has caused much disturbance of present home owners," and stated the reason was that this was simply "not a multiple family area." He pointed out no "transition was provided for this area" and that population density should be considered on the basis of "planned development procedure."

APPEARING for Rolling Meadows, Atty. John A. Doyle voiced the objection of the city for the R-6 zoning, stressing the land was zoned as single family residential on the city's master plan. Strong protests, including the filing of objecting petitions, had been experienced by the city itself, Doyle said, during a recent rezoning proposal which would have permitted town-house apartments along Kirchhoff rd. within the city limits. The objections were so strong the builder had withdrawn his plans for multiple family development, Doyle indicated.

Doyle stressed rental units were apparently available in the area with "Paddock Publications always listing rentals available."

When the many constructions possible under the R-6 classifications were explained by Harry F. Chaddick, designer of the proposed rezoning ordinance, Doyle exclaimed: "That would make the proposed zoning even less desirable!"

Andrew J. Dallstream, chairman of the county zoning board, stressed that objections of local officials would be considered, and that further hearings would be held in the local areas before adoption of the zoning ordinance.

Schaumburg Center Seeks Five Changes

Schaumburg Center entered the district map hearings on the proposed amendment to the Cook county zoning ordinance with requests for re-districting of five parcels of land in the township.

The residential area includes the land west of Meacham rd. between Golf rd. and the village border south of Higgins rd. The village asked that the property be zoned R-3 instead of R-4 as proposed in the amendment.

ATCHER SAID the village thought this would be in keeping with the higher class of homes now being built in the adjacent Lexington Fields Estates subdivision.

The village asked the county to shift a B-1 business district located on the eastern boundary of Lexington Fields to the west side of Rohlwing rd. south of Higgins, and to re-district the proposed business area to R-3.

IT ALSO requested a solid B-3 section between the toll road and Golf rd. and Meacham rd. and fices.

Rohlwing rd. around the site of the Pure Oil company's new of-

Andrew J. Dallstream, chairman of the county zoning board of appeals, suggested that the village wait on the request until an appropriate business firm made plans to locate near the Pure site.

"If we rezone the land now, Mr. Atcher, you will have no choice if a business decides to locate there," he said. "Why not wait until someone wants to build there, pass on them, and then ask for the rezoning?"

IN ANOTHER request, the village asked the county to shift a business district located on the south side of Higgins rd. between Roselle and Golf rds. to the northwest corner of Higgins and Roselle. It asked that the proposed business district be made a R-4 area.

The village also asked for a change in the proposed manufacturing area in the southwest corner of the township.

Atcher said the village would like to see the area doubled in size with the half closest to the Milwaukee Road tracks zoned M-2, and the half to the north zoned M-1.

HARRY F. Chaddick, director of the county zoning committee told Atcher he did not think the M-2 district with its lower requirements would fit into the township plan. He also pointed out that DuPage county has zoned the area across the border M-1, and that it would be desirable to follow suit in Cook.

In the closing testimony of the hearing, one of the farmers living in the northwest section of the township, under the prompting of Jack Hoffman, president of the F & S Construction company, asked that the area between Barrington and Jones rds., now zoned R-2, be changed to R-3 to permit easier development of the land from the southeast.

Zoning Expert Defends Methods of Committee

Zoning Expert Harry F. Chaddick Thursday defended the methods of the zoning committee in drafting the proposed amendment to the county zoning ordinance.

At a preliminary hearing on the proposal to rezone Northfield township, Atty. John J. White, 1901 Wagner rd., Glenview, charged:

"The Chaddick committee did not contact the residents in our township about any of the zoning matters, but, instead, planned it over a drafting board in their offices at 130 N. Wells st. He (Chaddick) came to several unrealistic conclusions and did not show us the rezoning maps until after they had been drawn."

CHADDICK replied:

'Our experts who prepared our maps personally visited every property in the township, and we are fully acquainted with the use to which each is put. We purposely never showed our maps to anyone until they were completed because we wanted no pressures exercised upon us. an independent group."

Chaddick then reaffirmed a statement made earlier by Zoning Chairman Andrew J. Dallstream that hearings would be held in the townships, saying:

"But that is what these hearings are for — to give the public full opportunity to be heard, and we even shall hold further hearings out in the communities themselves, as the zoning board has stated."

Chaddick's statement came on the heels of a demand by White that hearings be held in the townships, a demand that drew applause from the 75 Northfield township residents gathered in the back of the hearing room. To accentuate his demands, White added:

"I've spent five hours here, and it's an inconvenience to me and to these other people to come down here." Again there was spontaneous applause.

Russell B. James, a member of the zoning board of appeals and chairman-protem, answered, with a rap of his gavel:

"I think this applause engenders heat rather than throws light on these hearings."

"I'll be glad to throw the light," said White, his remark causing laughter.

WHITE volunteered further that the main complaint of Northfield township residents was that their wishes, as presented months before the actual rezoning proposal, were "never considered."

James reiterated that hearings would be held in the townships.

Chaddick interjected:

"You make much of this map, Mr. White. (A Township volunteer committee had presented their zoning wishes to the zoning committee on a map colored to specific use.)

"Because of the sensitive nature of this work," Chaddick continued, "we did not call in anyone for consultation as to property values, land uses, and so forth."

HARRY F. CHADDICK, master planner (left), sits with zoning board of appeals to hear his proposed amendments to the county's zoning ordinance blasted by dozens of witnesses in two days last week. From right are board members, Richard J. Welden, Russell B. James, Chairman Andrew J. Dallstream, Walter T. Popjoy (behind Dallstream), and Chaddick.

YMCA Day Camp Finds Room For More in Last Period

There is still room for a few more boys and girls to attend the third 2-week period of Northwest Suburban YMCA's "Day Camp Adventure," according to the local "Y" office. The period begins Tuesday, July 28, and ends Friday, Aug. 7, meeting four days each week. Campers age limits are from 7 to 12 years.

The day camp is conducted by the "Y" under professional supervision, and a trained staff is in charge to adequately cover all activities. Chartered bus pickup and return are made at most of the grade schools in the northwest suburbs, so that no child will have to cross a major thoroughfare to meet transportation to and from the camp site.

EACH MORNING the youngsters are taken to Deer Grove where a shelter is reserved by the YMCA, and outdoor activities include fishing, games, nature hikes, cookouts and special features in which everyone participates. In the afternoons the campers are taken by chartered bus to Maine Township high school indoor swimming pool for instructional as well as recreational swimming. The boys and girls are graded as to their swimming ability and instruction is given accordingly. Return home is scheduled for approximately 5 p.m.

Campers are asked to bring their own swim suit, towel, lunch and blanket or cloth for rest periods. All other items such as milk, transportation, insurance, swim admissions and craft materials are furnished by Northwest Suburban YMCA. The cost of each 2-week period is kept low, since the "Y" operates as a non-profit organization to serve all youth of all areas.

THE "Y" OFFICE may be called at VA 4-4156 for further information concerning registration or time and place of pickup in Mt. Prospect, Arlington Heights, Prospect Heights, Palatine, Elk Grove, Rolling Meadows and Des Plaines.

Modern Etiquette

Q. Are correspondence cards considered in good taste?

A. Yes; they are very popular and in good taste for the short, informal kind of note. It is becoming more and more customary for men and women to use these cards. However, they should be used only for strictly informal correspondence.

Q. Is it proper for a man to cross in front of his woman companion while they are walking together?

A. No. The woman should have the right-of-way whenever possible, and the man should cross behind her, instead of in front of her.

Q. Does a woman ever rise when a man extends his hand either to greet her or bid her good-by?

A. As a hostess, yes, but not otherwise, unless the man is an important personage or very elderly.

Q. At an informal dinner, where there is no maid, who should start a dish around the table?

A. The person nearest the dish.

Stratton Vetoes Liability Group

Because the Illinois Supreme court still has pending a petition for a re-hearing in the case in which it recently held a school district liable for negligence of employes resulting in injuries to children, Gov. William G. Stratton last week vetoed a $20,000 appropriation for a state commission to study the liability of government agencies for negligence actions.

Another recent decision held counties liable.

The governor's message vetoing Senate Bill 970 sponsored by Sen. Strunck and others pointed out the supreme court still has under advisement a possible reversal of its decision in the case of Molitor vs. the Kaneland Community School District 302.

"Until there is a final decision by the court, I see no necessity for this commission," said the message. "Furthermore, the appropriation contained in this bill is not provided for in the budget."

RECENTLY the Chicago Board of Education, largest school system in the state, appointed a committee to seek insurance coverage for such accidents, after a report showed 4,300 injuries to children since Jan. 1, either on school grounds or while going to and from school. Seven suits seeking $1,175,00 in damages have been filed against the board.

The board also sponsored an unsuccessful bill to limit liability to $10,000 in such cases, and was among those asking a rehearing in the Kaneland case.

State's Attorney Benjamin Adamowski is also seeking a reversal of the county liability case, following which several suits were filed against Cook county, including some by swimmers hurt while diving in the forest preserve pools.

Assessor Freezes Township Records

Assessor P. J. Cullerton informed Paddock Publications this week that the 1959 Quadrennial Assessment in all townships outside of the city of Chicago has reached the stage where it will be necessary to "freeze" all township records for a short period in order that a business-like control can be maintained while new valuations are being computed and entered on record cards in the Assessor's office.

In order to save local taxpayers the inconvenience of calling at the office of Assessor P. J. Cullerton, third floor, County building, Chicago, during the period records are not available, Cullerton requests that inquiries concerning valuations as shown on the 1958 tax bills for your township be held in abeyance until further notice, which will be made as promptly as the present phase of the assessment permits. Such announcement will be made in this paper as soon as word is received from the Assessor.

Assessor Cullerton has given assurance that all taxpayers will have ample opportunity to discuss any of their comlaints or valuation problems. (B8

Caution Motorists To Check Licenses

The Chicago Motor club this week cautioned Illinois motorists to check their driver license expiration dates, since approximately two million state licenses are scheduled for renewal this year.

The club's license bureau reports that some motorists seeking renewals unknowningly being in licenses which have been invalid for as long as one or two years.

The club points out that forgetfulness is not a legal excuse for driving with an expired license. If the license has expired for more than 12 months, the driver is required to take a complete examination to qualify for renewal. This includes eye, oral, written, and driving tests.

TO AVOID LAST minute complications, the motor club advises drivers to take advantage of the law which permits renewals to be made 30 days prior to the expiration date of the license.

Persons 70 years of age or older are required to take a complete examination to qualify for renewal.

When receiving a new driver license, the motorists should check to see if any driving restrictions have been placed on him. The restrictions are numbered from 1 to 4 on the back of the license and include: 1) corrective eye lenses; 2) outside rear view mirror; 3) daylight driving only; and 4) other restrictions as indicated.

All restrictions are listed by their numbers in the "code" block on the front of the license. If the number 0 appears within the block, no driving restrictions exist.
